How much do you trust or distrust the following as a source of information about global warming?

Research Questions

RQ1: What can be done to engage health professionals in helping to educate the public and policymakers about the health risks of climate change?

RQ2: If health professionals do play a role in educating the public and policymakers about climate change, will it undermine public trust in them (because climate change is a politically contested issue)?

To answer RQ1, I:

- Examined if communicating the growing social norm of HP's engagement encouraged others to act
- Conducted six different research studies:
 - 2 surveys of medical societies
 - 4 email experiments conducted with two climate and health organizations, one in the US and one worldwide

RQ1 Findings

- Providing social normative information about the large number of HPs taking action may help encourage more health professionals to do the same
- HPs were more likely to take direct actions that educate the public and policymakers about climate and health than they were to encourage their peers to get involved

To answer RQ2, I:

- Examined if HPs engaging in climate/health education and advocacy influences public trust in them
- Conducted a nationally representative survey of American adults that included an embedded message experiment

RQ2 Findings

- Stories about a doctor educating members of her community about the health risks of fossil fuels increased public trust in HPs
- Stories that depicted the doctor educating members of her community or advocating for solutions were more effective than stories about the doctor engaging in non-violent civil disobedience to oppose an oil pipeline

Takeaways

- Showing HPs others like them are engaging may help increase their own engagement
- HPs can engage with minimal public backlash
- Unique experience at Mason 4C
 - Contribute to both theory and practice

B. Emergency Management Update

Dr. Farris provided the Committee with an overview of Mason's policies, protocols, and activities to prepare for, respond to, and recover from potential emergency situations. Among other things, he described:

- The extensive training required of employees; communications channels, including flip books, guides, signage, and websites; and regular drills. The university's leadership team is engaged annually in a program of emergency exercises to strengthen awareness and improve protocols; and the Board approves Mason's Emergency Operations (Crisis Management) Plan at least every four years.
- The structure for responding to emergencies includes multiple notification methods including text and email alerts, social media, outdoor speakers and others; tactical incident response to direct impacts; resources available for emergency response, including warm and backup operations centers and deployable supplies stored in emergency response trailers; operational support to coordinate across the community; and longer-term strategy for prioritization of activities.
- Recovery plan updates using an enhanced tool; planning for stronger research enterprise resiliency; community assistance including mental and emotional health support in the aftermath of potential emergency situations as part of the resumption of operations.

During the update, the Committee discussed with Dr. Farris the ability and potential benefit of repurposing apps that had been established during the COVID pandemic to track the health status of the Mason community; the level of community participation in Mason Alert text messaging enrollments and actions that could potentially increase enrollment; the level of emergency preparedness and active threat training required of students, particularly international students; the automation of in-emergency planning and operational activities; the potential use of virtual digital twin models in emergency management and planning; and the integration of emergency management plans and activities with surrounding jurisdictions. The Committee also discussed with Dr. Farris the adequacy of resources and preparedness capabilities in relation to the perceived threat landscape.

IV. Reports

Chair Kazmi noted that the summary reports from the Office of University Audit, University Audit's external assessment, Office of Institutional Compliance, and Information Technology Services had been received by the Committee. He noted that Mason's audit, risk, and compliance program continues to demonstrate work that reflects well on the university. He

Research Administration Project

- Nearly all R1 universities have capable research administrators supporting faculty locally, either in departments, schools, or centers
- Partnered with Finance and Human Resources to create job classes that will improve retention and quality of workforce and develop a more flexible and competitive recruiting strategy
- Clear roles and responsibilities and streamlined business process will improve overall efficiency and result in long-term cost savings
- Facilitate communications between faculty researchers and central offices responsible for compliance oversight
- Faculty spending more time on research resulting in increased research funding!

Research Administration Management Portal (RAMP)

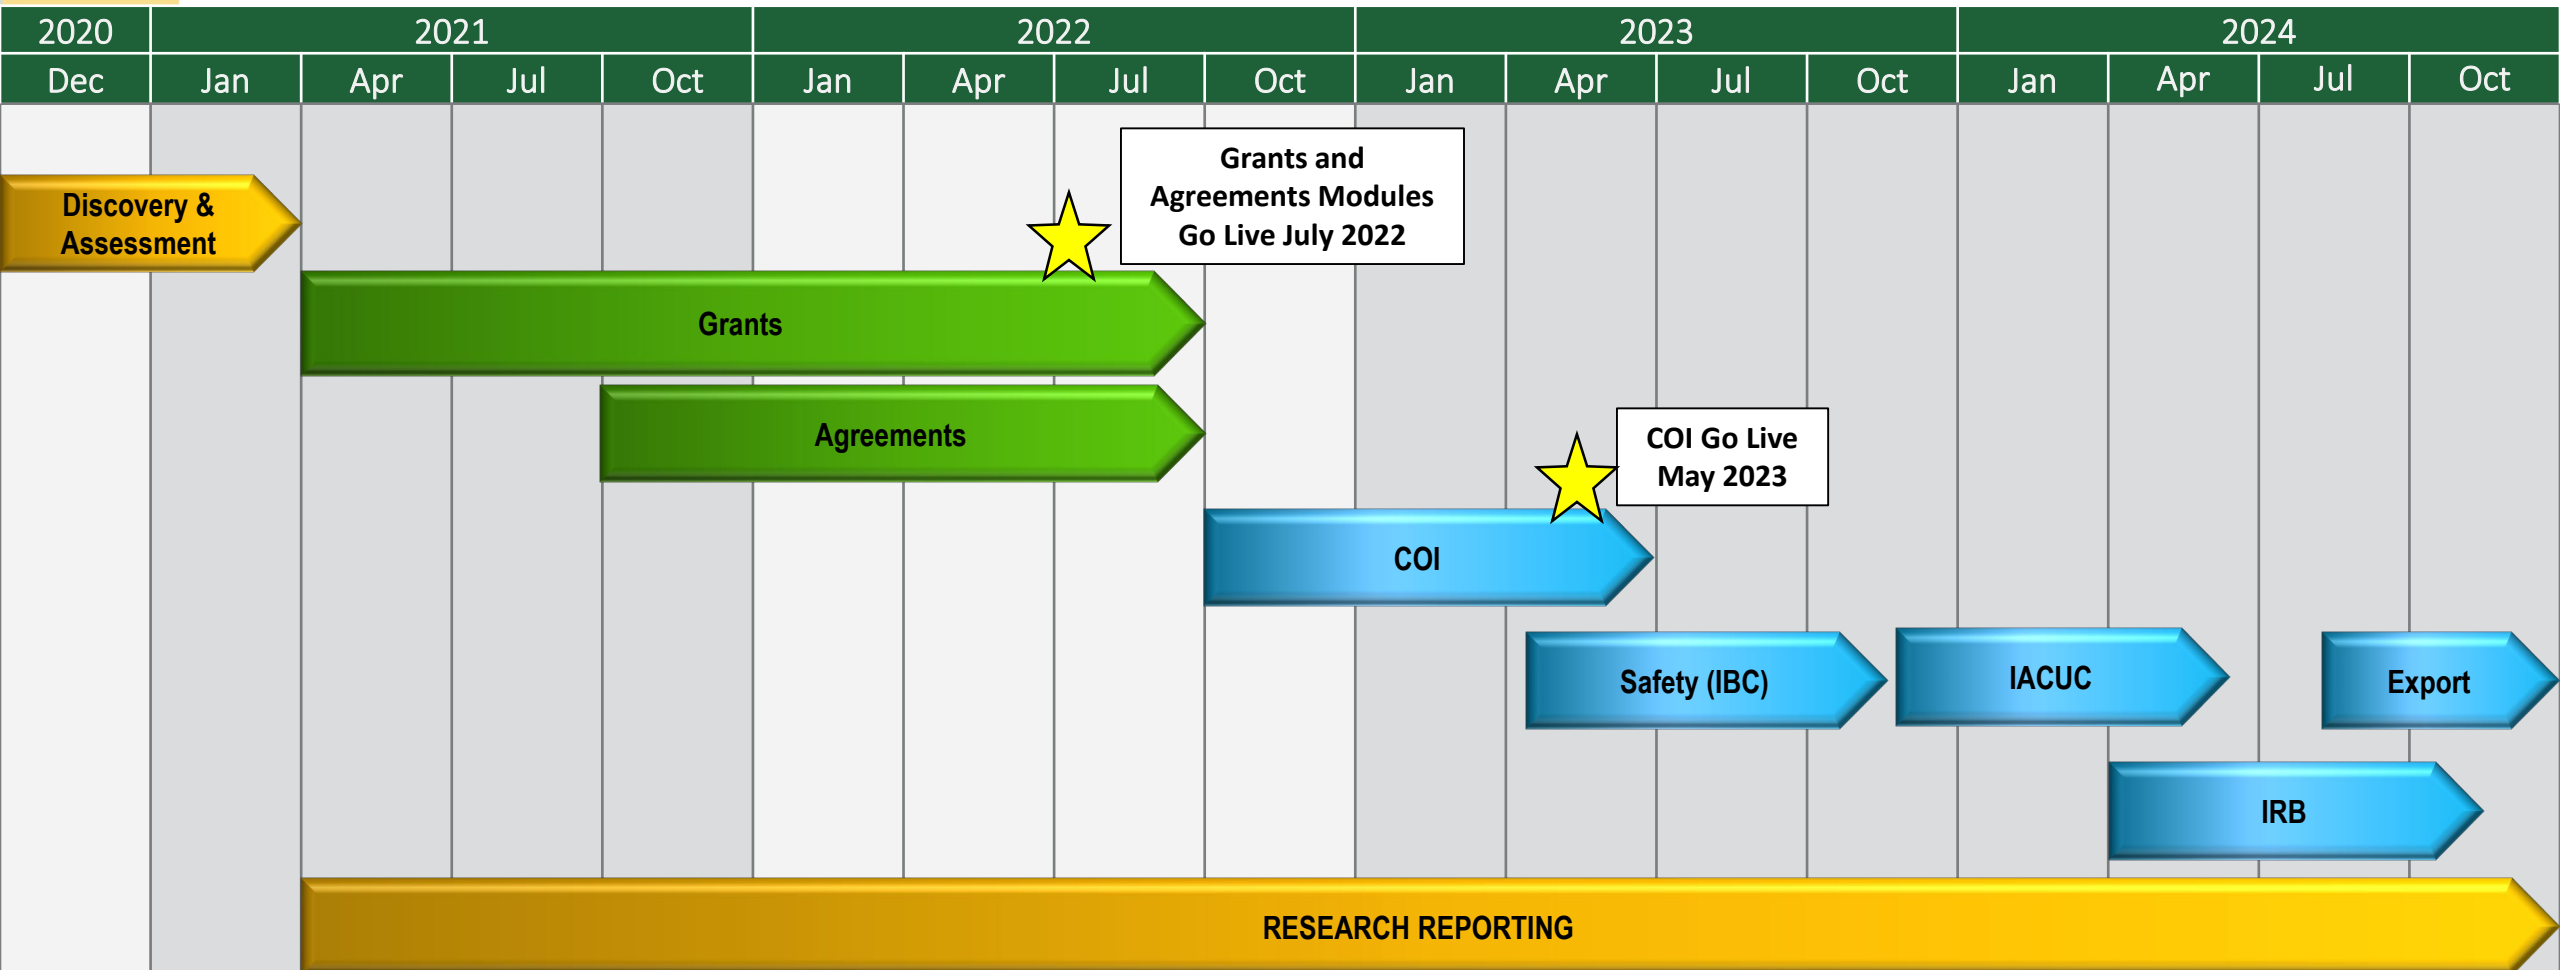

Why RAMP

- Current systems were outdated, not integrated, at their capacity, and not sustainable
- RAMP (Huron Research Suite) is used by more top research universities than any other research administration technology and is implemented at more than 50% of R1s

Benefits of RAMP

- Easier access and better user experience for faculty
 - Workflow transparency to track status of a record, who has it and next steps
 - Dynamic SmartForms only request required data
 - System validations reduces rework
- Integrated modules allows for more efficient and automated processing
- Improved data capture results in more robust reporting capabilities
- Reduced risk for the University

Changing Regulatory Environment

- U.S. regulatory agencies have increased their focus on universities
 - Reaction to intelligence reports citing academic solicitation
 - Foreign intelligence officers collect U.S. technology by using elicitation, posing as visiting students and scholars, proposing joint research, and recruiting for talent programs
- The result is a changing regulatory landscape
 - More reporting requirements
 - E.g., National Security Presidential Memorandum 33 (NSPM-33)
 - More attention to international activities such as collaboration
 - Is it beneficial, open, and transparent?
- Existing regulations are expanding and increasingly used as a foreign policy tool
 - Increased use of export controls and economic sanctions
 - Countries of concern such as China, Russia, Iran
 - Expanded use of U.S. Government restricted party lists, such as the Entity List
 - Institutions and universities on the Entity List are subject to greater restrictions
- The result is greater scrutiny of certain collaborations and increased risk
 - Potential impact on current sponsored work
 - Potential impact on future opportunities with certain sponsors
 - Inadvertent export violations

What This Means for Mason

- Secure research at Mason is growing and will continue to grow
 - Greater compliance measures required
 - Controlled unclassified information, export controlled, classified
 - Emerging technology
- Mason is supporting faculty by raising awareness
 - Created international collaboration training
 - Complex area of the law that is not intuitive, especially U.S. sanctions
 - Based on foreign policy and subject to change (and varies from country to country)
 - Penalties levied against institutions and individuals
- ORIA wants to partner with faculty to assess the risks and benefits of international collaboration
 - Consider inviting these colleagues to a faculty meeting
 - Contact them directly at export@gmu.edu

Conflict of Commitment (COC) Disclosures

- The changing regulatory landscape also includes expanded COC disclosure requirements
 - New requirements (and others still pending) emphasize foreign affiliations, collaborations, and travel
 - Failure to disclose can have severe consequences for researchers and the university
 - Federal agencies are actively probing for evidence of undisclosed foreign activities
 - Is it beneficial, open and transparent? ≈ was it disclosed?
- The COC Policy Initiative focused on developing the capacity to meet new disclosure standards as they emerge
 - Built upon investments in the RAMP system and Research Administration Project
 - Collaboratively developed the 4021 policy with delegates from all 10 colleges
 - Implemented the RAMP COI module in tandem with policy development
 - The policy and system establish a shared, central disclosure process
 - Collegiate procedures allow for local implementations of the policy that align with each unit's culture, and Chairs and Deans are responsible for COC review and approval

This initiative to produce a COC policy and process that fits Mason and the changing regulatory environment has also produced an All Together Different model of compliance in which ownership and responsibility are shared across a (centrally coordinated and supported) community of diverse collegiate cultures.

Navigating the Changing Landscape

Research security is still emerging as a compliance framework

- Unlike research integrity, its focus on preventing inappropriate foreign influence is at times in tension with core values of the scientific enterprise (openness, inclusivity) and academic culture
 - E.g., many universities use ‘international engagements’ or ‘responsible international collaboration’ as more inclusive than ‘inappropriate foreign influence’
- Right now, well-marked imperatives are enshrouded in a fog of gradually coalescing new requirements, standards, and trainings

ORIA’s approach to Assuring International Engagements is to

- Continue to develop the capacity needed to sustain compliance as Mason grows and regs change
- Protect faculty, academic culture, and Mason values
- Attentively wait for the government to figure out its new standards and requirements

Ongoing Work

- Continuously monitor and update regulatory/policy environment
- Embrace technology and automation
- Build awareness and provide rigorous RCR training to faculty, students, research administrators and senior leadership
- Planning for research compliance needs as research portfolio grows in size and complexity
- Support comprehensive strategy for institutional compliance

Office of University Audit

Report to the Audit, Risk and Compliance Committee of the Board of Visitors

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- One audit report was issued since the last meeting.
 - The audit report concluded that the design and operating effectiveness of Mason's controls were not sufficient to ensure background investigations are successfully completed before individuals begin work.
 - Audit memos summarized results of self-assessments of information security controls in the School of Business; provided feedback on the ITS Portfolio and Project Management updates; and validation of tuition refund processing.
- Remediation of 14 audit issues is in progress as of April 20, 2023.
- Audit Plan status:
 - Planned audit work remains consistent with the 3+6 Audit Plan reviewed at the prior meeting. However, the timing of planned audit work continues to be reevaluated in consideration of the use of co-sourced audit resources.
- Status of fraud, waste, and abuse investigations:
 - Two investigations were completed since the prior meeting; they were isolated in nature with negligible impact to the University.
 - There are three investigations in progress.
- Audit Staffing:
 - We continue to utilize our hybrid organizational model to provide assurance services for Mason. The model blends full time professional staff with co-sourced professionals from national and local accounting firms that bring specialized expertise to execute specific audit engagements.

INTERNAL AUDIT REPORT

Report Title:	Background Investigations	Report Date:	April 20, 2023
Responsible Manager:	Shernita Rochelle Parker Interim Vice President of Human Resources	Report Number:	FY23-20

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

Background:

University Policy (UP) #2221 (Background Investigations) requires that individuals cannot begin work until a background investigation has been successfully completed. The policy and supporting procedures apply to all new and rehired employees; to current employees who transfer or are promoted within the university; and to individuals that instruct or supervise minors who do not have a background investigation completed within the prior three years on file. The policy also requires employees to inform Human Resources (HR) within five days of any reportable convictions of a crime.¹

Central HR has the overall responsibility for managing the background investigation process for Mason employees; however, the university’s decentralized hiring processes provides challenges for process consistency and effectiveness.

Central HR is responsible for onboarding all benefitted employees (classified staff, administrative and professional faculty, instructional faculty); while hiring departments are responsible for onboarding affiliates and non-benefitted employees (adjunct faculty and wage employees). Four departments are authorized to hire employees without Central HR approval.²

Prospective employees receive conditional offer letters issued by Central HR or the hiring department which include, among other things, that employment is contingent on the successful completion of a background investigation. When the conditional offer of employment is accepted, the signed letter is provided to Central HR who is responsible for determining whether a background investigation is required and, if so, initiating the background investigation with TrueScreen, a third-party provider contracted to conduct background investigation services.

If a background investigation is required, the prospective employee is provided a background investigation application and is expected to complete the application within five days or risk having their start date delayed. The application documents the prospective employee’s consent and provides TrueScreen with the data it needs to conduct the background investigation. TrueScreen generally provides Mason with the results of background investigations within³ 2-4 days.

Designated Central HR staff (Background Specialist) categorize TrueScreen reports received for prospective employees as those who have “passed” the background investigation, and those whose background investigation results require further assessment, known as “adjudication”.⁴

The Background Specialist is authorized to adjudicate certain background investigation results that are administrative in nature (e.g., verifying an individual’s social security number), while all results for individuals with prior convictions are expected to be reviewed by Employee Relations. After review of the results and meeting with the prospective employee, Employee Relations determines whether the individual can work at Mason. The hiring decision and rationale is documented by Employee Relations.

Due to specific hiring requirements, three areas perform their own background investigations separately from Central HR:

- Police and Public Safety Department (PD) manages all background investigations for its personnel through internal processes (including finger printing, polygraphs, and psychological evaluations).
- Child Development Center (CDC) requires background investigations by the Commonwealth’s Department of Social Services to comply with regulations. Central HR also conducts a TrueScreen background investigation for all CDC employees.
- School of Nursing utilizes Castle Branch (a third-party provider specializing in healthcare and nursing background investigations) to perform background investigations of nursing students and students in other College of Public Health (CPH) programs.

Audit Conclusion:

In our view, the design adequacy and operating effectiveness of Mason’s controls are not sufficient to ensure background investigations are successfully completed before individuals begin work. To strengthen process consistency, effectiveness, and oversight, management should consider consolidating hiring and onboarding activities performed by the hiring departments into Central HR, and develop and implement effective monitoring processes to prevent prospective employees from beginning work prior to successfully completing a background investigation. Enhancing procedures and defining clear roles and responsibilities is needed to ensure compliance with policy and promote accountability. These improvements should allow management to effectively enforce and oversee the background investigation process.

³ TrueScreen offers the following types of background investigation packages for HR use: Basic (SanctionsBase+, County Criminal, National Criminal Database, National Sex Offender Database, Social Search), Basic + Credit History, Basic + Motor Vehicle Record (MVR), Internal Package (SanctionsBase+), Under 18 (SanctionsBase+, National Sex Offender Database), 10-Panel Drug Screen.

SUMMARY OF AUDIT MEMOS:

Audit Memos are communications which provide assurance related to a narrow, targeted topic or provide interim updates on longer-term assurance activities.

IT Risk Self-Assessment Results: School of Business.

- Confidential – Restricted Data: Critical Infrastructure Vulnerability Assessment Information (Code of VA: 2.2-3705.2.4).

Feedback on ITS Portfolio and Project Management Updates.

- As part of the multi-year program to strengthen the internal control infrastructure and improve the quality of technology service delivery for the University, ITS updated the project management framework and methodology artifacts in 2022. ITS has designed a strong portfolio and project management foundation with a solid framework, methodology, execution approach, and supporting processes; however, governance processes, including project prioritization and investments decision-making, need refinement and are in the infancy stages of implementation.

Validation of Tuition Refund Processing.

- The objective of this review was to validate the accuracy, appropriateness, and completeness of the resulting tuition credits processed to student accounts as the result of the Board of Visitor's approved tuition credits to in-state undergraduate students equal to the three percent tuition increase the Board had previously approved for the FY23 academic year. Tuition credits and financial aid over budget/over need adjustments were processed properly and in a compliant manner to student accounts for Fall 2022 semester. Tuition credits for students who are not returning to the university in the Spring 2023 semester will be processed at the end of January 2023, and will be validated during the Student Accounts audit currently in progress.

SUMMARY OF COMPLIANCE ASSESSMENT ACTIVITY

The Audit, Risk, and Compliance Committee of the Board has a Charter responsibility to oversee the effectiveness of institutional compliance processes for monitoring compliance with laws and regulations, including policies and processes related to ethics and conflicts of interest. Institutional Compliance supports the Committee’s accomplishment of this responsibility through planning, facilitating, and overseeing regular university-wide assessments of compliance risks; ensuring management ownership for monitoring and managing compliance risks; evaluating the effectiveness of risk-owner programs to monitor and manage compliance risks; and ensuring communication to leadership and the Committee.

Institutional Compliance has implemented processes to inventory the regulatory requirements applicable to Mason; identify management ownership for monitoring and managing compliance risks; prioritize areas for compliance assessment; and evaluate specific regulations and the level of development of distributed, risk-owner programs. These processes continue to evolve to be better tailored to Mason’s obligations, activities, and environment, and are depicted in the chart below:

Compliance Assessment Framework and Overview

¹ Factors considered in prioritizing regulatory risk categories include the potential for adverse regulatory action or critical interest by legislative or investigative entities which could result in governmental penalties, disruption or suspension of operations, programs, accreditation, or licensure, loss or reduction of funding, or sustained adverse public attention.

The assessment of the level of regulatory risk in a given category indicates the expected robustness of the associated mitigation activities, including the formality and maturity of the related distributed risk-area compliance program.

Status of Assessment Activity:

Institutional Compliance has been conducting assessment activities using the approach described above; these are summarized below:

(Legend: DONE=completed; IP=in progress; NS=not started.)

No further assessment therefore is needed to begin improvement activities, which are in progress.

Inventory of Laws and Regulations and Accountable Personnel

As of April 18, 2023, an inventory of 425 laws and regulations applicable to Mason has been compiled, and was reviewed with the Office of University Counsel for completeness and applicability.

Concurrently, personnel likely to be responsible for managing and monitoring compliance with these laws and regulations (“risk-owners”), as well as risk mitigation activities in place, are being identified. Risk ownership has been identified for a total of 392 (92%) laws and regulations, and has been confirmed for a total of 370 (87%). Risk ownership confirmations are summarized below:

Regulatory Risk Ownership

	Regulatory Category	Number of Regulatory Requirements	Number of Requirements for which Ownership Confirmed
1	Compliance and Ethics Program	2	2
2	Copyright and Intellectual Property	9	–

	Totals	425	370

² Ownership has been identified for 70 (77%) of laws and regulations in this category, and is in the process of being confirmed.

Identification and confirmation of ownership for the remaining laws and regulations, and the identification of risk mitigations in place, continues. We continue to work with management and the Office of University Counsel in that regard, and we will provide updates in future meetings.

Prioritization of Regulatory Risks Facing Large, Public Research Universities and Compliance Assessment Planning

Institutional Compliance, in coordination with University Counsel, University Audit, and Enterprise Risk Management, revised the prioritization of regulatory risks facing large, public research universities that are similar to Mason. The prioritization revision was completed using the inventory of 425 laws and regulations by category and subcategory. The prioritization does not represent an assessment of specific risks or risk levels at Mason; it is solely intended to provide a basis for identifying and prioritizing future Mason-specific compliance assessment activities. The revised prioritization, summarized below, was reviewed with senior leaders and their input used to prioritize further assessment work.

Regulatory Risk Assessments

Using the prioritization of risk areas above, Institutional Compliance plans and guides granular risk assessments of each law and regulation in a given category and subcategory. Assessments are designed to identify and prioritize potential enhancements to specific risk mitigation activities, and to identify the need for further assessments at the programmatic level. Since the last report to the Committee, we supported management in guiding granular regulatory risk assessments of each law and regulation within categories and subcategories as follows:

Regulatory Risk Assessment Area	Status
1. Equal opportunity and non-discrimination (Office of Human Resources)	DONE (Note 1)
2. Benefits (Office of Human Resources)	DONE (Note 1)
3. Hiring and administration (Office of Human Resources)	DONE (Note 1)
4. Reporting, notices, and disclosures (Office of Human Resources)	DONE (Note 1)
5. Office of the Registrar	DONE (Note 1)
6. Laboratory Safety	DONE (Note 1)

Note 1: Improvement actions for individual, higher-risk regulations are in progress.

Planning for further assessments of the areas of privacy, information security, and related regulations is under way.

Program Maturity Assessments at Mason

Program-level, guided maturity self-assessments are facilitated by Institutional Compliance for areas with a large number of high-risk regulations as identified during granular regulatory risk assessments. The maturity self-assessments are grounded in the seven elements of effective compliance programs described in the U.S. Federal Sentencing Guidelines for Organizations. These elements include:

1. Standards, procedures, and controls;
2. Organizational leadership, oversight, accountability, and culture;
3. Training and communication;
4. Monitoring, auditing, risk assessment, and program evaluation;
5. Performance incentives and disciplinary measures;
6. Anonymous reporting mechanisms and appropriate remedial measures; and
7. Reasonable efforts to exclude bad actors.

A preliminary institutional compliance maturity self-assessment was conducted for planning purposes. Since the last report to the Committee, guided, program maturity self-assessments are being conducted as set forth in the table below. We review program maturity assessments with the Office of University Counsel, and will report assessment results to senior leaders when completed. Improvement actions currently are in progress for the two assessments below, which were reported previously.

SUMMARY STATUS OF EXTERNAL REVIEWS

The Committee has a Charter responsibility to “review and discuss with management the results of significant reviews by regulatory agencies or other external entities, or summaries thereof, and management’s responses.” University policy requires that all notices of any external review be reported to the Institutional Compliance Leader for tracking, reporting, and follow-up.

No new external reviews were announced since the prior meeting. One review in progress as of the last report was finished, and one remains in progress. The table below shows the status of the external reviews as of April 18, 2023, which are summarized in the Appendix:

Executive Summary

Since December 2021 and with the input of the Office of University Audit (OUA), Information Technology Services (ITS) has established a multi-year program to strengthen the risk and control infrastructure at Mason and improve the quality of technology service delivery for the university. This report is intended to update the Audit, Risk, and Compliance Committee on the status of these efforts as the planned improvement activities are undertaken and the progress therein.

This program is comprised of six areas of focus designed to tailor the NIST (National Institute of Standards and Technology) 800-53 moderate control framework to Mason's environment. This will strengthen policies, standards, processes, and procedures related to Mason's Quality Management Systems (QMS) and Information Management Security Programs (INFOSEC) with a goal to improve (Information Technology) IT service quality, reliability, and security. The overall program includes the following areas of focus:

- Mason-Tailored NIST 800-53-Based Security Compliance Framework
- Portfolio and Project Management
- Information Security Program Management
- Risk Assessment and Remediation
- Change and Configuration Management
- Identity Management and Access Control

Each area is comprised of many activities, which are tied to projects and assigned priority and ownership. This report outlines the status of projects and activities in each of the six program areas. Please note that these projects are only a subset of the technology investments that are currently being made at the university. All ITS managed and administered information technology projects (including those related to these focus areas) are available for review online at <https://its.gmu.edu/working-with-its/ppmo/projects-dashboard/>.

Fiscal Year (FY) 2023 Q3 Accomplishments and Q4 Planned Activities

Mason-Tailored NIST 800-53-Based Security Compliance Framework

Adoption of a NIST 800-53 controls set that has been scoped and tailored to the context of institutions of higher education and to help support the academic and research efforts while maintaining a strong information security posture. Supporting policy and standards underpin our internal Quality Management System for Central ITS and our distributed partners.

FY23 Q3 Accomplishments:

- The NIST 800-53 Revision 5 based control set has been finalized and communicated to Deb Dickenson and shared with the ITS Senior Leadership. This endorsement from leadership was the essential first step of the rollout of these baselines at Mason. As notified in the prior Feb 2023 Board of Visitors' update, Mason has adopted NIST SP 800-53 Moderate baseline scoped and tailored to Mason's environment and risk tolerance level as a cybersecurity control framework. Controls are applied based upon High/Medium/Low Risk classification and are included in the relevant baseline based on risk.
- For managing communications and content related to the Mason NIST 800-53 baselines, a SharePoint site was created and will be updated with relevant content to disseminate the requirements, communications, updates, and guidance to the Mason community.

FY23 Q4 Planned Activities:

- Begin developing ITS Risk and Compliance SharePoint webpage to continue to socialize the controls set and compliance strategies to the IT admins and distributed IT stakeholders.

Portfolio and Project Management

Enhancements to the Portfolio and Project Management processes to align with investment lifecycle and towards better program/project artifact management.

FY23 Q3 Accomplishments:

- Launched a streamlined project intake model for Mason and the intake form is available on TeamDynamix (service management tool). This model and the associated workflows will ensure that project requests are evaluated for business case, cost estimates, resource capacity and demand, risk, as well as benefit and impact to the university, right from the initial request.
- Prioritization review of IT requests has been streamlined by establishing a gate review by the Interim CIO to ensure review and prioritization by a senior leader occurs until the domain portfolios are in place to do such reviews.
- Created an Enterprise Governance role and positioned a resource to this role reporting to Director, Portfolio and Project Management Office. The staff in this role will oversee the overall governance of the domain portfolios process and complement the business analyst role that focusses on the analysis of the incoming project requests.
- Review of existing project attributes of projects such as request type, service expected/provided by the Portfolio and Project Management Office (PPMO), and project size was completed.

FY23 Q4 Planned Activities:

- Introduce and kick-off new domain portfolio structure based on client area domains. Each council will be accountable for project activation approval, prioritization, and progress monitoring.
- Update the PPMO dashboards to include the project attributes that were reviewed in FY23 Q3.
- As an extension of the project intake enhancements (listed as an accomplishment during the last quarter), start buildouts for:
 - TeamDynamix (TDX) functionality to implement project and resource modules.
 - Establishing linkage between TDX Project Intake and Project Process Methodology.

Information Security Program Management

Program enhancements for maturing the information security program at Mason, including protecting the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of data and systems while balancing access and productivity for the Mason community.

FY23 Q3 2023 Accomplishments:

- The 2023 IT Security Awareness training request planning started. A project-intake request was submitted to use the NetID password reset page to drive self-service/view-based enforcement of the mandatory training.
- After looking into options for additional ransomware protection for the university's Microsoft 365 environment, ITS purchased Rubrik Cloud hosted backup services for M365. Rubrik is the same backup vendor we use for enterprise/CUI backups but is hosted on-prem.

FY23 Q4 Planned Activities:

- Begin project to use the NetID password reset page to drive self-service/view-based enforcement of the mandatory security awareness training.
- Establish schedule and training modules for the 2023 security awareness training cycle.
- Investigate options to transition the current Highly Sensitive Data (HSD) custodian training to an interactive media.
- Plan to implement Rubrik Cloud hosted backup services for M365.

Risk Assessment and Remediation

Program enhancements to mature the risk assessment and remediation processes at Mason, including a Governance, Risk, and Compliance (GRC) program.

FY23 Q3 Accomplishments:

- Due to prioritization for APA 2022 audit support and ongoing third party risk management audit by Office of University Audit, activities provided in the prior Board of Visitors update as planned for FY23 Q3 were deferred to Q4.
- Draft Templates for Issues and Exceptions were created, and in the subsequent months will be transitioned to Archer GRC.
- A pilot Risk Register template was created and socialized with the IT Senior Staff.

FY23 Q4 Planned Activities:

- Pilot the GRC implementation for the risk assessment methodology.
- Develop schedule and assess systems classified as high risk.
- Identify and onboard additional human resources for Governance, Risk, and Compliance activities.
- Begin to configure Issues Management module in Archer for managing issues, action plans, and exceptions.
- Start operationalization of the pilot Risk Register.

Change and Configuration Management

Establish a Quality Management Program to improve the delivery of IT Services at Mason, with a first area of focus in asset management and change/configuration management across the service portfolio.

FY23 Q3 Accomplishments:

- Due to prioritization for APA 2022 audit support and ongoing third-party risk management audit by Office of University Audit, activities provided in the prior Board of Visitors report update under this section and as planned for FY23 Q3, were deferred to Q4. Change Management was one of the areas of focus for APA this year, so we are also awaiting the outcomes of the audit in April-May, to keep this program focus area efforts aligned to any recommendations that may emerge from the APA audit.

FY23 Q4 Planned Activities:

- Convene a group of stakeholders and propose establishing a University Change Control Board to review changes in process or systems that impact the student, employee, or other university lifecycles.
- Review ITS change management procedures to align with the Mason scoped and tailored NIST 800-53 security baselines.
- Continue efforts towards transitioning the Request For Change (RFC) process to TeamDynamix in the latter half of 2023.

Identity Management and Access Control

Continuously improve and mature the processes that support identity and access management (IAM) at Mason.

FY23 Q3 Accomplishments:

- ITS documented high-level requirements for the CDWG Statement of Work (SOW) that is planned to kick-off in Q4 towards identifying a modern Identity and Access Management Solution.
- ITS presented to Mason's University Information Network (UIN) to communicate and socialize the IAM solution effort.
- New IAM program manager (contractor) brought onboard to help steer and track program build activities.

FY23 Q4 Planned Activities:

- CDWG SOW engagement (ITS Project #799) starting in April 2023 to focus on technology architecture and roadmap. The outcome of the engagement is to deliver an advanced identity and authentication design roadmap and a services proposal for next steps towards implementation. During the engagement, CDWG will make recommendations on how to best utilize services and technologies to meet GMU's IAM objectives. In addition, CDWG will leverage the knowledge gained through previous deployments to advise GMU to avoid potential issues. The engagement is expected to be through the end of June 2023.

Information Technology Strategic Plan

ITS has completed the first iteration of service and technology roadmaps, which will provide a mechanism to communicate the strategy for technology implementation and IT service delivery over the next three to five years. With the change in ITS leadership, the plan to socialize these roadmaps with university leadership has been delayed to FY24 Q1-Q2. The interim VP/ CIO will socialize these roadmaps and solicit feedback for inclusion in a technology strategic plan in support of the university's strategic plan. As the demand for IT solutions evolves, the roadmaps will be adjusted to meet the strategic needs of the university.

All ITS managed/administered information technology projects (including those related to these focus areas) are available for review online at <https://its.gmu.edu/working-with-its/ppmo/projects-dashboard/>. Questions regarding projects in the portfolio can be addressed to Charlie Spann (cspann2@gmu.edu).

PLANNING CONSIDERATIONS FOR A MASON
School of Medicine

May 4, 2023

Overview

- 1 Background
Medical education nationally, in Virginia, and at Mason
- 2 Mason Efforts and Assets
Exploration efforts to date and Mason's competitive advantage
- 3 Partnership Models
Three models for forming a Mason School of Medicine
- 4 Financial Assessment
Assumptions and expectations
- 5 Next Steps
Key takeaways

A National Problem

Demographic trends in the United States are creating more demand for healthcare and less ability to meet that demand.

Aging of the U.S. population to create increasing demand for care

A large portion of the physician workforce is soon retiring, creating physician scarcity

The growing burden of chronic diseases such as diabetes and heart disease is further straining resources

The Challenge in Virginia

The shortage of physicians in the United States is expected to become increasingly severe over the next decade.

Medical Education in Virginia

Six medical schools currently serve the state

Allopathic Medicine

	TUITION	LOCATION
Eastern VA Medical School (151)	$34,442 (IS) $57,510 (OS)	Norfolk
University of Virginia (159)	$52,328 (IS) $64,484 (OS)	Charlottesville
Virginia Commonwealth University (186)	$33,752 (IS) $56,578 (OS)	Richmond
Virginia Tech Carilion (49)	$57,641 (IS and OS)	Roanoke

Osteopathic Medicine

	TUITION	LOCATION
Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine, Virginia Campus (180)	$49,800 (IS and OS)	Blacksburg (other sites in SC, AL, and LA)
Liberty University (160)	$49,440 (IS and OS)	Lynchburg

Barriers to Entry

Structural Challenges of Funding

The accrediting body for medical schools (LCME) requires that tuition pay for no more than 50% of the cost of medical education.

Traditionally, medical schools have relied on additional sources of funds such as research indirects, revenues from intellectual property, support from hospital systems, university support, government support, philanthropy, and continuing medical education courses.

A Mason School of Medicine would rely on clinical partners and/or philanthropy for much of the non-tuition revenue support or expense reduction.

Mason's Exploration Efforts to Date

Feasibility Study

Findings indicate demand for expanded medical education from a high-quality pool of medical school applicants and significant interest from potential clinical partners.

Medical Education Steering Committee

Tasked with identifying the unique value of a Mason School of Medicine, evaluating existing academic and infrastructure resources, and developing funding, revenue, and expense estimates.

SPRING 2020

COVID; Exploration Paused

Steering committee's work paused due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Mason's Assets

- Interest in medical education at Mason and the NOVA region
- Need for physicians and healthcare personnel
- Faculty in fields pertinent to medical education
 - Sciences and Engineering
 - Behavioral and Social Sciences
 - Public Health
 - Business
- Medical School preparatory programs
 - “G-Squared”
 - Medical School of the Uniformed Services Collaboration
- Laboratory Facilities and BRL

Opportunities to grow

Mason Medical School

Health System Partnership

Existing Medical School Partnership

New Mason Medical School

ADVANTAGES

- Mason driven – linked to Mason's mission, vision, and values
- Mason controls curriculum and academic program
- Research and research dollars credited to Mason; potential for research commercialization
- Regional economic impact

DISADVANTAGES

- Most expensive model – tuition cannot exceed 50% of operating budget
- Need to identify (potentially multiple) clinical affiliates with GMU programs
- Must define roles and compensation for clinical faculty (education vs. clinical practice)
- Longer timeline for accreditation
- Need to receive state approval and programmatic accreditation (LCME)

Model 1: Required Steps

1. State approval for a new medical school
2. Establish clinical affiliates and cost for clinical faculty
3. LCME accreditation process
 - Applicant school (Year 0) – $25,000 fee + letter of intent for accreditation
 - Candidate status (Year 1) – Submit all required documents detailing plans for school. LCME reviews and agrees to award a site visit.
 - Preliminary accreditation (Year 2) – Site visit and document review approved by LCME... school can begin recruitment and admissions for students.
 - Provisional accreditation (Year 4) – Submit updated documents. Host site visit
 - Full accreditation (Year 6) – Upon graduation of charter class. Submit updated documents and data; host site visit.

Health System Partnership

ADVANTAGES

- Shared costs for start-up
- Established and confirmed primary clinical affiliate
- In-kind support from clinical partner for clinical faculty and training of students
- Research and research dollars credited to both clinical partner and Mason; potential for research commercialization
- Possibility of Campus-Based Teaching Hospital
- Access to clinical environment/data for research
- Pipeline for residents/physicians for health system
- Regional economic and healthcare impacts

DISADVANTAGES

- Need to establish Mason programs if not currently in existence
- Clinical partner may have voice in curriculum and program design
- Need for state approval and accreditation timeline same as Model 1

Required steps same as Model

Model 2: Examples

- University of South Carolina School of Medicine – Greenville/Greenville Health System (now Prisma Health)
- Virginia Tech/Carilion School of Medicine
- Cooper Medical School of Rowan University
- Donald and Barbara Zucker School of Medicine at Hofstra/Northwell
- Carle Illinois College of Medicine/Carle Health
- Geisinger Commonwealth School of Medicine
- Cleveland Clinic/Case Western Reserve School of Medicine
- Wake Forest/Atrium Health School of Medicine

MODEL 3

Existing Medical School Partnership

ADVANTAGES

- Lower cost – shared resources
- Leverage existing reputation
- Established clinical affiliates (provided they can accept increased number of students)
- Faster accreditation
- Faculty collaboration/partnering with current (NIH) funded faculty – build research program faster

DISADVANTAGES

- Mission, vision, values and program level objectives must be the same as existing school
- Less control of curriculum and program (NOTE: Mason can apply to be site for a parallel curriculum that differs from existing)
- Less control/input on strategic plan and vision
- Shared research revenues
- Potential need to identify additional clinical affiliates

Model 3: Required Steps

1. State approval for a new medical school
2. Apply to institutional accreditor for substantial change
3. Submit application to LCME for regional/branch campus and parallel curriculum (if applicable)
 - New or expanded regional campus notification form
 - New parallel curriculum (track) notification form (if planning a different curriculum at Mason)
4. Timeline – 18-24 months

Financial Analysis Assumptions

- 50 students per class
- Tuition = $52,000 (IS) / $62,000 (OS)
- Scholarship = 15%
- Minimal to moderate capital costs
- Faculty — 25 basic science and clinical faculty with or without startup packages
- Staff — Mix of all new staff and/or leveraging of existing staff
- Clinical partners for student clerkships
 - High end estimates: $48k/student for clerkships and required acting internships (average $6,000/student/rotation)
 - Low end estimates: $32k/student for clerkships and required acting internships (av. $4,000/student/rotation)

Key Takeaways

CLINICAL PARTNER CHALLENGE

Securing clinical partner support (clinical training sites, revenue, and/or expense reduction) has become more challenging since 2019/2020 due to financial and operational/staffing impacts of COVID on health systems.*

START-UP COSTS SIGNIFICANT

Start-up of a Mason School of Medicine is estimated to cost $28M-$41M over 3 years.

OPERATING COSTS OVER $30M

Annual operating costs at maturity are estimated to equal approximately $32M-$35M.

FUNDING GAPS EXIST

After tuition, annual funding gap is estimated at approximately $19M-$22M; estimated 10-year funding gap is estimated to equal approximately $163M-$200M.

*Identifying primary clinical partners is critical to both the financial and accreditation feasibility of a Mason School of Medicine..

Capstone/Synthesis Revision

Revision for Synthesis and Capstone Categories (effective AY 2024-2025)

Mason Apex courses or sequence of courses provide Mason students with a high-impact culminating experience, requiring students to utilize critical thinking skills and preparing them for life-long learning. Students are challenged to draw connections across their Mason undergraduate academic experience. Mason Apex courses provide students opportunities to apply and communicate their knowledge, and involve integrative, applied or experiential projects.

Required: Minimum of 3 credits at the 400-level. Students enroll after completing at least 85 credits. These courses maintain faculty/instructor/mentor-to-student ratio of no more than 1:35.

Student Learning Outcomes (both must be demonstrated)

Upon completing a Mason Apex course, students will be able to:

- Integrate skills, abilities, theories, or methodologies gained across a Mason student's undergraduate education to explore complex issues in original ways.
- Communicate effectively the results of the student's work with awareness of audience, purpose, and context using an appropriate modality (for example: written, oral, visual, material, embodied, multimodal).

These courses are designed to be Mason-specific experiences and as such, courses transferred from other institutions do not meet this requirement.

Modification for AP.1.5

AP.1.5 Withdrawal

AP.1.5.1 Course Withdrawal for Undergraduates

Degree-seeking and non-degree undergraduate students are eligible to withdraw from courses without the dean's approval and at the student's discretion during two withdrawal periods: unrestricted withdrawal during which students may withdraw from one or more courses (after the last day to drop a course until the end of the 5th week of the semester) and selective withdrawal during which students may withdraw from a maximum of three courses during their entire undergraduate career at Mason (from the 6th week to the end of the 9th week of the semester). For the purpose of selective withdrawal, the three courses may have any number of credits and lecture and laboratory sections in which a student is co-enrolled are not counted as separate courses. For courses that meet for fewer than 15 weeks, the drop and withdrawal periods will be set in proportion to the length of the course.

AP.1.5.2 Course Withdrawal with Dean Approval for Undergraduates

For undergraduate students, course withdrawal after the selective withdrawal period or after a student has used all three selective withdrawals requires approval by the student's academic dean. This approval is typically given for all courses at once and permitted only for nonacademic reasons that prevent course completion.

AP.1.5.3 Semester Withdrawal with Dean Approval for Undergraduates

Undergraduate students who want to withdraw from all courses for a semester after the end of the withdrawal period may do so only for nonacademic reasons with the approval of the academic dean. Undergraduates taking three or fewer classes may use the selective withdrawal for all courses for a semester without dean approval; see AP 1.5.1 Course Withdrawal for Undergraduates. Undergraduate students who stop attending all classes without the dean's approval and without processing selective withdrawals, if eligible, will receive a grade of F in all courses.

AP.1.5.4 Effects of Course or Semester Withdrawal for Undergraduates

For Undergraduate students, all withdrawals result in a notation of W on the student's transcript for the withdrawn course(s). While a W does not affect the GPA, withdrawn courses are counted as "attempted credit hours,". Course withdrawals are not included in the course repeat count (see AP.1.3.4 Repeating a Course). Once processed, a withdrawal cannot be rescinded.

Course withdrawal will result in a recalculation of student time status based only on enrolled courses remaining after withdrawal. A reduction in time status could have a negative effect in such areas as Financial Aid, access to certain campus facilities, health insurance, Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) benefits, International students' status, on-campus housing, and/or financial responsibility for withdrawn courses paid by a third party.

Mason Core Committee Proposal to Consolidate Capstone and Synthesis Requirements
Approved 3/29/2023

Current requirements (directly from 2022-2023 catalog):

Synthesis or Capstone Experience Requirement
(minimum 3 credits)

The purpose of the synthesis course is to provide students with the opportunity to synthesize the knowledge, skills and values gained from the Mason Core curriculum. Synthesis courses strive to expand students' ability to master new content, think critically, and develop life-long learning skills across the disciplines. While it is not feasible to design courses that cover "all" areas of general education, synthesis courses should function as a careful alignment of disciplinary goals with a range of Mason Core learning outcomes.

Learning Outcomes for Synthesis:

The Mason Core synthesis course must address outcomes 1 and 2, and at least one outcome under 3. Upon completing a synthesis course, students will be able to:

1. Communicate effectively in both oral and written forms, applying appropriate rhetorical standards (e.g., audience adaptation, language, argument, organization, evidence, etc.)
2. Using perspectives from two or more disciplines, connect issues in a given field to wider intellectual, community or societal concerns
3. Apply critical thinking skills to:
 - a. Evaluate the quality, credibility and limitations of an argument or a solution using appropriate evidence or resources, OR,
 - b. Judge the quality or value of an idea, work, or principle based on appropriate analytics and standards

Required: One approved course.

The purpose of the capstone course or sequence of courses is to provide a high impact, culminating element of an undergraduate education, helping students develop a more comprehensive and integrative understanding of their area of study and to utilize critical thinking skills. Capstone courses provide students opportunities to apply and demonstrate their knowledge and generally involve integrative /applied/ experiential projects. Student learning in a Capstone course is assessed using a set of identified learning outcomes, and for critical thinking, as defined by the American Association of Colleges & Universities.

While each academic degree program defines its learning outcomes, a Capstone course or sequence should follow these guidelines:

- Minimum of 3 credits
- Later in the curriculum, after a student has taken at least 85 credits, and at the 400 course level
- No more than 35 students in the course or equivalent instructional/ mentored support
- Emphasis on experiential/applied/integrative learning
- Allow students to apply critical thinking skills
- Learning outcomes defined by the degree program

Required: One approved upper-division course. Please speak with an advisor to determine the appropriate course to fulfill your major's requirement.

Proposed Revision: Mason Apex

Rationale: The disparate categories of Capstone and Synthesis are quite confusing for faculty submitting courses and for students completing their degree requirements. The synthesis requirement has learning outcomes but no additional guidance for scaffolding a student's program of study while the capstone requirement has "rules" for courses, but no identified learning outcomes.

The revised category's requirements support both disciplinary (like Capstone) and interdisciplinary experiences (like Synthesis). Combining the two categories into an overarching category captures the intent of both Core categories, is much less confusing, is inclusive of all disciplines, and will consider a wider range of high impact experiences.

The category's name was suggested by Mason students, a number of whom participated in brainstorming sessions with Student Involvement staff and the Mason Core Director. The Mason Core Committee made the final decision.

Summary: Replace the separate categories of Capstone and Synthesis with a single inclusive category: Mason Apex.

Implementation Timeline:

Update effective for 2024-2025 catalog. Existing 400 level Capstone and Synthesis courses will transition to the new category. Existing 300-level courses will transition initially but will need to go through a renumbering process, if appropriate, that will be facilitated by the Mason Core Committee. Departments will not be required to create new courses or add a course to existing major requirements.

Catalog Description

Effective Teaching Review and Revision Resolution

In parallel with our rise as an R1 institution, Mason has made an important commitment to teaching as noted by the development of the Stearns Center for Teaching and Learning, increased support for faculty development and more equitable evaluation of teaching throughout the University. We strive to continually support faculty and students in our pursuit of teaching excellence. It is our goal to help create a campus culture that is aware of various ways of evaluating teaching and participates in that process.

To improve identification of effective teaching and equitably support faculty in their teaching roles, we conclude that it is the obligation of the institution to provide support to faculty for:

Required use of the online SET instrument:

- Student Evaluation of Teaching (SET) should be conducted within a structure of clear guidance for faculty and students to establish habits that improves response rates.

Voluntary use of additional evaluation tools including:

- various techniques for peer-evaluation
- instructor self-evaluation
- various ways to measure student learning outcomes

To this end, we propose the following resolution:

Each Local Administrative Unit that conducts teaching evaluations will report their current teaching evaluation procedures to the Effective Teaching Committee (ETC) by December 15, 2023. The report will specifically consider local approaches used for the standard online Student Evaluation of Teaching (SET) and any additional teaching evaluation factors currently in use in the LAU.

Examples may include use of peer review; instructor of record self-evaluation; and various ways of measuring student learning outcomes. This will vary between LAUs.

One component of each LAU report will specifically address administration of the SET to help identify approaches that may increase student participation. Current evaluation plans will be reviewed by the ETC and representatives of the provost's office from the Stearns Center and the Office of Instructional Effectiveness and Planning.

In support of the review process, a general rubric will be provided. Effective Teaching Committee members, the Stearns Center and OIEP will be available to provide support and consultation throughout the process.

- a. Meetings of the Senate shall be conducted according to the current edition of “Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised” except in instances when Robert’s Rules are in contradiction with Senate Bylaws or Standing Rules. In this case, the Bylaws followed by the Standing Rules will take precedence.

- b. The quorum for Senate meetings shall consist of a majority of the elected membership.
- c. Members of the Faculty Senate may participate in Faculty Senate meetings electronically, provided the technology used allows all members to hear each other simultaneously. Section 2.

- a. Meetings shall be open to all members of the University community.

For online meetings, the President and Sergeant(s)-at-Arms will determine the means of ensuring that only Senators participate in a vote.
- c. Any person recognized by the President may participate in the discussion of any item of business brought forth upon the floor, but only members of the Senate may make motions, second motions and vote.

- b. Any member of the General Faculty may submit items of business for inclusion on the agenda. All items submitted which are consistent with the responsibilities of the Senate as defined in Article III are to be placed on the agenda. Any Senator who believes the public vote is inconclusive may call for voting by a method that allows for precise counting of votes (e.g., an electronic vote).

Section 1.

- a. "Standing Committees" shall be those permanent committees whose respective charges shall be established by the Senate and whose members, except for designated ex-officio members, are elected by the Senate.
- b. Election to standing committees shall be for two years unless otherwise specified in the committee charge.
- c. "Ad Hoc Committees" shall be those established by the Senate for consideration of special or time-limited issues. If no time limit is specified, the committee is deemed to serve until it issues a final report or until the Senate acts to dissolve it.
- d. Unless otherwise authorized by a majority vote of the Senate, standing or ad hoc committees shall issue formal reports only to the Senate.
- e. It shall be a duty of the Secretary of the Senate to prepare and maintain an accurate list of all committees of the Senate together with their charges and composition, which shall be open for inspection to all members of the University community. Annual reports will be filed with the Secretary of the Senate during the month prior to the end of the academic year. These will be made available to the general university community.

Section 2.

- a. Nominations for elected Senate positions to all standing committees except to the Nominations Committee shall be prepared by the Nominations Committee. The Nominations Committee shall nominate one person for each available position. Nominations shall consider factors such as willingness to serve, previous senate and committee experience, the need to develop future senate leadership, and the specifications of the committee charge. The Nominations Committee shall circulate its nominations to the Senate in written form with the agenda for the first meeting of the academic year. Members of the Senate with the permission of prospective nominees may make further nominations from the floor at the meeting when the elections are held.

- b. Committee vacancies with unexpired terms shall be filled for the remainder of the term by special elections at the first scheduled meeting of the Senate after such vacancies occur. The Nominations Committee shall make one nomination for each available position except for vacancies in its own membership, but in all instances, nominations may be made from the floor.
- c. All elections shall be by a majority of those Senators present and voting. In the event that no candidate for an office or for the last positions on an elected committee receives a majority of the votes, a run-off vote will be held between the two candidates who receive the most votes.

Section 3.

- a. Whenever the Senate shall determine by its vote that the creation of an ad hoc committee or of a new standing committee is a matter of urgent necessity, nominations shall be made from the floor following that determination. Election procedures shall be as in Section 2c of this Article.
- b. In the absence of an urgent necessity determined under Paragraph (a) of this section, the Nominations Committee shall prepare a slate for distribution with the agenda of the next Senate meeting. At that meeting nominations may be made from the floor and the election shall be held according to the procedures prescribed in Section 2c of this Article.

Section 4.

Except as otherwise specifically provided, each Senate Committee shall elect its Chair according to the committee charge from among its own membership. Each committee shall have a majority of members present for a quorum. Each committee shall maintain written records of its activities. At the conclusion of each academic year these records shall become part of the permanent archives of the University and the Faculty Senate website as stipulated in Article IV, Section 9, paragraph b.

Section 5.

The Senate may require, by majority vote, any Senate committee to provide a report at a specified later meeting on any matter referred by action of the Senate that falls within the charge of that committee. Upon receipt of such a report, the committee may be discharged of further responsibility for the matter by majority vote of the Senate.

ARTICLE VI Effective Date and Amendment

Section 1.

All motions to amend these bylaws shall be read and debated at two successive regular meetings of the George Mason Faculty Senate held in the same academic year. Following the second debate, a vote on the motion to amend shall be taken. A two thirds majority of the voting members of the Senate present and voting shall be required for passage of such an amendment. A meeting of the Senate called solely to complete the agenda of a previous meeting shall not count as "successive" meeting within the meaning of this bylaw. Submission of changes to motions must be proposed no later than two meetings prior to the end of the semester.

Section 2.

Amendments to these bylaws shall take effect on the date contained therein, if such a date is provided; otherwise, they shall take effect immediately upon their passage.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Task Force for Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards (Task Force) was proposed by the Faculty Senate Executive Committee (FSEC), in consultation with Mason's senior leadership, and approved by the Faculty Senate in August of 2021. The full charge for the Task Force can be found in Appendix A. Over the past fifteen months, the Task Force has identified, discussed, and solicited feedback about various models for thinking about the faculty responsibilities, contributions, and workload distributions that are needed to support Mason's dual teaching and research missions. The Task Force believes that Mason has both the opportunity and the responsibility to ensure that all faculty members are recognized, valued, and rewarded for their contributions to our institutional success.

As a result of our collective work, The Task Force recommends that Mason pursue five goals:

- Goal 1: Create transparent workload guidelines that are equitable and inclusive of all faculty appointment types.
- Goal 2: Redesign RPT guidelines that represent more inclusive frameworks for all faculty work.
- Goal 3: Develop a strategy for implementing continuous contracts for full-time instructional and clinical faculty.
- Goal 4: Align annual review criteria with RPT criteria and account for proportionate teaching/mentoring; research/creative work; service; and leadership/administrative duties.
- Goal 5: Create a robust culture of faculty cohesiveness through career development for all.

Mason's success is dependent on a diverse set of contributions of our faculty community. Not only do members of our faculty community have different strengths, but faculty often make different kinds of contributions across their careers. The Task Force endorses policies and practices that recognize and promote the contributions of all faculty with the goal of fostering an institutional culture in which all faculty are valued members of our community, experience a sense of belonging and inclusion at Mason, and are supported in reaching their professional goals.

Our vision for Mason faculty, as a result of endorsing these goals, is that within five years:

- Mason faculty workloads will be evaluated through transparent workload guidelines that include recognition of DEI work, innovation and entrepreneurship, leadership/administrative roles, and other critical contributions that serve Mason.
- In addition to teaching/mentoring and research/scholarship/creative work, RPT guidelines will account for DEI work, community engagement, service and/or leadership in faculty governance, and administrative leadership as well as different defined pathways faculty can take to achieve promotion and tenure.
- Full-time instructional and clinical term faculty will be afforded continuous contracts¹ in line with a specific promotion tier.
- Faculty will be evaluated for promotion based on promotion expectations that are adjusted to align with their workload expectations (proportionate teaching/mentoring; research/creative work; service; and leadership/administrative duties) and annual review criteria.
- Faculty at different ranks and career stages will be provided with career development support through internal and external career development programs.

¹ Continuous contracts may take the form of evergreen contracts, rolling contracts, election without term, etc.

In order to achieve this vision, we ask the Faculty Senate to pass the following motions:

- Motion 1: The Faculty Senate endorses the goals laid out in the final report from the Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards.
- Motion 2: The Faculty Senate charges the Organization and Operations Committee with creating a charge to convert the current Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards into a University Standing Committee and to bring that to the full Faculty Senate for a vote in Spring 2023.

BACKGROUND AND CONTEXT

The Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards emerged from three overlapping charges and initiatives. In Spring 2021, the Faculty Senate Executive Committee (FSEC) was given two charges by the Faculty Senate: (1) to begin enacting the work called for in the revised charge for the Faculty Success Initiative (Appendix B), and (2) to develop a proposal for a process by which teaching-focused faculty might be able to earn tenure (see meeting minutes in Appendix C). At the same time, the Innovation Commission report called for re-envisioning the criteria for promotion and tenure to be more inclusive of the ways that faculty contribute to the university’s organizational goals, including supporting anti-racist and inclusive excellence goals, leadership contributions, valuing multiple types of contributions, and considering whether veteran term faculty might become eligible for “appointment without term.”

As the FSEC began work on both charges and considered the work being done simultaneously in the Innovation Commission, the FSEC concluded that these are interrelated concerns that need to be addressed together, along with several additional challenges. As a university, Mason has grown rapidly and is proud to be both an R1 institution that produces world-changing research AND a university that provides an accessible, top-tier education for everyone who wants it. However, our promotion and tenure guidelines have not caught up with our growth and do not reflect the equal importance that should be placed on both teaching and research, they do not account for the heavy service and leadership loads that many are asked to take on in order to enable that work, nor do they account for new forms of scholarship or DEI work. Moreover, our promotion and tenure committees may benefit from guidance on how to evaluate new forms of scholarship and DEI contributions to remove implicitly biased barriers to success.

Faculty contribute to Mason’s success in numerous ways-- transformational teaching and mentoring, impactful research and creative activities, community-engaged scholarship and practice, contributing to inclusive excellence, and doing the leadership/administrative and service work that enables our success in all these areas. But we recognize and reward some of those contributions more than others, and the work that is valued least in our rewards structure is distributed in predictable and often inequitable patterns. This joint task force between faculty and administration was created to develop a more inclusive faculty structure that is consistent with our core institutional characteristics expressed by the Mason IDEA and better recognizes and rewards the many ways that faculty contribute to the success of the university.

The FSEC met four times during the Summer of 2021 and spent a substantial part of that time brainstorming, imagining, drafting, and revising a charge. To be successful in these ambitious goals, it was clear that faculty and administrators would need to collaborate, and that ultimately, a joint task force between the Faculty Senate and the Office of the Provost was desirable. The draft charge was shared with Provost Ginsberg, President Washington, and Chief of Staff Ken Walsh and received positive responses. Next, a whiteboard session was held with the FSEC, chairs of faculty committees whose work is intertwined with the task force, representatives from numerous colleges and schools, and representatives from the Office of the Provost to get feedback on the draft—and more than 20 people were part of that conversation. After that, a smaller team that included Lisa Billingham, Kim Eby, Shelley Reid, and Melissa Broeckelman-Post synthesized the feedback and worked on a revised draft that went back to FSEC for additional revision. The FSEC presented a motion to the Faculty Senate to approve the charge and composition to establish the Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards² (Task Force) on August 25, 2021. The charge was approved, task force members were appointed and elected, and the committee began its work in October 2021.

VALUES AND PRINCIPLES GUIDING OUR WORK

Mason takes pride in our dual mission of being an R1 institution that produces impactful research, scholarship, and creative work and that also provides an accessible, top-tier education for our students. As one of the top ten most diverse and innovative institutions in the country according to the 2022 US News and Report, and the most diverse in the Commonwealth of Virginia, a focus on student success – no matter one’s background – has been a core value. Our strong results in both arenas – a differentiator among institutions of our type – are due to having a strong complement of faculty who are focused on elevating our reputation and excellence accordingly.

Mason faculty are essential to our institutional success. We understand that instruction and mentoring are critical to student success and retention; research and scholarly work are critical to solving today’s grand challenges; community engagement and partnerships are central to our mission as a public institution; strengthening our focus on inclusive excellence will strengthen our enterprise, especially with respect to student and faculty success; our faculty members’ contributions as leaders has been essential to the rapid rise of Mason and our reputation for excellence; professional development is required to stay abreast of teaching and research/scholarship best practices and to support lifelong learning for our faculty community; and that service to Mason is at the heart of faculty governance and productive partnerships with senior leadership.

Given this, the Task Force believes that Mason has both the opportunity and the responsibility to ensure that all faculty members are recognized, valued, and rewarded for their varied contributions to our institutional success. Questions that we asked ourselves included:

- What types of faculty responsibilities and workload distributions are needed to support our dual teaching and research missions?
- How might we conceptualize options for faculty contributions and workload distributions that are more inclusive and that support all of Mason’s institutional goals?
- Are there ways to offer more flexibility to faculty who might seek it? Specifically, could faculty who are interested in making significant contributions – whether teaching-intensive, research-intensive, leadership-intensive, or a combination of these – work with their units to request workload adjustments that meet their goals and are valued as a legitimate career pathway?

In practice, Mason’s success is dependent on a diverse set of contributions from our faculty community. Not only do members of our faculty community have different strengths, but faculty often make different kinds of contributions across their careers. Thus, we endorse policies and practices that recognize and promote the contributions of all faculty with the goal of fostering an institutional culture in which faculty, regardless of appointment type or rank, are valued members of our community, experience a sense of belonging and inclusion in the Mason community, and are supported in reaching their professional goals.

PROCESS

The Task Force spent the Fall 2021 semester identifying and discussing exemplars and promising practices for thinking about the faculty responsibilities and workload distributions that are needed to support the university's dual teaching and research missions. We looked at what might already be in place at Mason as well as other institutions. Specifically, we focused on examining how faculty contributions are accounted for in renewal, promotion, and tenure, and explored non-tenure-line faculty options for contract stability. We also asked how we might think about faculty choice in role flexibility; that is, to what degree can faculty work with their academic units to guide their workload distribution? To explore potential options for moving this work forward, in Spring 2022 we developed a brief presentation that explored three example options or models for faculty responsibilities and workload distributions that represented minimal, moderate, and extensive changes to our current practices. We held a community forum in February 2022 to gather input from the broader faculty community. The presentation (Appendix D) and recording were posted to the Faculty Senate website, along with a link to provide feedback to the Task Force. A total of 288 faculty shared feedback, including 90 single-spaced pages of comments.

This faculty feedback is summarized in Appendix E, and helped us to understand where we might concentrate opportunities in this space, in addition to identifying the challenges associated with adopting various models. There was mixed feedback about each of the models that had been shared as examples of paths forward, and some of the big takeaways (as noted in our April 27 Faculty Senate presentation) include:

- Mason needs to address income disparities and disparities in the perceived valuing of the work of tenure line and term faculty;
- There is concern about making changes that may negatively impact our R1 status and thus some respondents suggested an incremental change approach in order to avoid unintended consequences;
- While respondents were mixed on tenure for teaching faculty, there is widespread support for implementing continuous contracts for non-tenure track faculty as a first step;
- There is support for the idea of greater flexibility and equity in faculty workloads;
- There is a need to more effectively align workload distribution, faculty annual reviews, and promotion and tenure criteria; and
- There is a need for broader, more inclusive RPT guidelines for scholarship and creative activity; guidelines for Genuine Excellence and High Competence in Teaching are needed at the LAU level.

From this, the committee concluded that none of these three models would be a final solution, but instead, that the feedback on these models would help us further refine our goals to develop a proposal that would account for those concerns.

Given this feedback, the Task Force was able to distill key priorities and concerns from our faculty community (Appendix F). In late Spring 2022, the Task Force asked the Faculty Senate to authorize the continuation of our group in order to develop an implementation plan that would be presented to Faculty Senate in the fall semester. This motion was passed.

In Summer 2022, a small working group comprised of seven Task Force members convened for two half-day retreats to begin drafting an implementation plan. With the guidance and feedback of the full Task Force, which met six times this fall, we have created a set of goals and drafted timeline for achieving these goals (see Appendix G).

GOALS AND RECOMMENDED STEPS FOR MOVING FORWARD

The goals and recommended next steps for moving forward are the result of extensive deliberation and discussion among the Task Force members. Importantly, they were shaped in critical ways by the campus feedback we received, formally and informally. Our key takeaways and vision moving forward were noted in our presentation to Faculty Senate in late April (see Appendix F), and we have kept these tenets in the forefront of our minds when creating our goals.

The Task Force recommends that Mason pursue five goals moving forward:

- Goal 1: Create transparent workload guidelines that are equitable and inclusive of all faculty appointment types.
- Goal 2: Redesign RPT guidelines that represent more inclusive frameworks for all faculty work.
- Goal 3: Develop a strategy for implementing continuous contracts for full-time instructional and clinical faculty.
- Goal 4: Align annual review criteria with RPT criteria and account for proportionate teaching/mentoring; research/creative work; service; and leadership/administrative duties.
- Goal 5: Create a robust culture of faculty cohesiveness through career development for all.

In Appendix G, we have outlined a 5-year timeline for achieving these five goals, considering that there are many interdependencies between the goals that impact the sequencing of the work. For most of these goals, we follow the same process: (1) achieve clarity about existing practices in each unit, (2) revise/update policies and practices as needed based on recommended best practices, (3) implement and pilot changes, and (4) evaluate how the implementation works and assess what else needs to be updated.

The Task Force wants to explicitly acknowledge the implications for Mason faculty. Most of the policies and documents governing workload, annual evaluations, and promotion are refined and implemented at the Local Academic Unit (LAU) level, and firmly in the purview of faculty governance. Achieving these outcomes, while ultimately in the interests of faculty, will require faculty time, input, and expertise. Achieving these outcomes will also require attention to managing change processes at multiple levels – within LAUs, Schools/Colleges, and institutionally. And, achieving these outcomes will take time, which we have worked to account for in our timeline. This process must be faculty driven and faculty supported to be successful.

In practice, Mason's success is dependent on a diverse set of contributions of our faculty community. Not only do members of our faculty community have different strengths, but faculty often experience a desire to make different kinds of contributions across their careers. Thus, we endorse policies and practices that recognize and promote the contributions of all faculty with the goal of fostering an institutional culture in which faculty, regardless of appointment type or rank, are valued members of our community, experience a sense of belonging and inclusion in the Mason community, and are supported in reaching their professional goals.

Our vision for Mason faculty, as a result of endorsing these goals, is that within five years:

- Mason faculty workloads will be evaluated through transparent workload guidelines that include recognition of DEI work, innovation and entrepreneurship, leadership/administrative roles, etc.
- In addition to teaching/mentoring and research/scholarship/creative work, RPT guidelines will account for DEI work, community engagement, service and/or leadership in faculty governance, and administrative leadership as well as different defined pathways faculty can take to achieve promotion and tenure.
- Full-time instructional and clinical term faculty will be afforded continuous contracts without term in line with a specific promotion tier.
- Faculty will be evaluated for promotion based on promotion expectations that are adjusted to align with their workload expectations (proportionate teaching/mentoring; research/creative work; service; and leadership/administrative duties) and annual review criteria based on those expectations.
- Faculty at different ranks and career stages will be provided with career development support, including support for early, mid-career, and mature faculty and LAU heads/chairs, through internal and external career development programs.

NEEDED FACULTY SENATE ACTIONS

In order to move this work forward, we ask the Faculty Senate to pass the following motions:

Motion 1: The Faculty Senate endorses the goals laid out in the final report from the Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards.

Motion 2: The Faculty Senate charges the Organization and Operations Committee with creating a charge to convert the current Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards into a University Standing Committee and to bring that to the full Faculty Senate for a vote in Spring 2023.

APPENDIX A: CHARGE FOR THE TASK FORCE ON REIMAGINING FACULTY ROLES AND REWARDS

As George Mason University approaches its 50th anniversary, Mason has grown into a university that produces BOTH world-changing research AND a top-tier, accessible, and transformational educational experience for students. To continue advancing both of these public missions and be more inclusive of the growing breadth in faculty activities, there is a need to align organizational goals, faculty contributions, and the faculty workload and rewards structure (including the processes of evaluation, contracting, and promotion).

The Faculty Senate of George Mason University charges the Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards with undertaking the following:

1. Identify what faculty responsibilities and workload distributions are needed to support the university's dual teaching and research missions, inclusive of both tenure-line and term faculty. This process should include identifying different models and opportunities from other institutions as well as within Mason, and should consider the impact on institutional goals (e.g., instruction and mentoring; research, scholarship, and creative activities; community engagement; diversity, equity, and inclusion work; and leadership, service, and professional development).
2. Recommend next steps for what would be needed for Mason to implement a more inclusive, clearly defined organizational faculty roles and rewards model.
 - A. The Task Force shall describe the important elements of a more inclusive faculty roles and rewards structure and address the following questions:
 - i. What are the policies and procedures that would be needed to implement a more inclusive faculty roles and rewards structure?
 - ii. What opportunities and challenges are associated with adopting different models?
 - iii. Who are the relevant decision-making entities (e.g., Board of Visitors, Faculty Senate, University Standing Committees, Provost)?
 - B. The Task Force shall explore the conditions in which faculty might be able to request adjustments to their faculty contributions and workload, addressing the following questions:
 - i. How might faculty be able to move from term to tenure-line as well as research-intensive to teaching-intensive or service/leadership-intensive contributions or vice versa? Detail should be provided on how and by whom the application and the approval of such changes might be undertaken.
 - ii. How might term faculty be able to earn long-term contractual stability, such as 'teaching tenure' or evergreen contracts, in line with the "permanent or continuous tenure" called for in the AAUP 1940 Statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure?
 - iii. What policies and procedures would be needed to implement tenure/promotion pathways (inclusive of term faculty) for (a) teaching-intensive faculty, (b) research-intensive faculty, (c) leadership-intensive faculty, and (d) any other categories derived from the work of the Task Force?
 - C. The Task Force shall propose revisions to the rewards structure of Renewal, Promotion, and Tenure to incorporate this more inclusive vision.

3. Report to the Faculty Senate Executive Committee in late January 2022, with a subsequent presentation to the full Faculty Senate no later than March 2022.

The Task Force shall be composed of the following*:

- Chair of the Faculty Senate (co-chair);
 - Melissa Broeckelman-Post (CHSS)
- Associate Provost of Faculty Affairs and Development (co-chair);
 - Kim Eby
- Four elected faculty, elected by the general faculty —two of which will be on tenure track contracts and two on term contracts;
 - Esperanza Roman Mendoza (CHSS)
 - Courtney Adams Wooten (CHSS)
 - Laura Poms (CHHS)
 - Sara Mathis (CHSS- Fall 2021), Isaac Gang (CEC, Spring 2022)
- Four appointed faculty, appointed by Faculty Senate Executive Committee — two of which will be on tenure track contracts and two on term contracts;
 - Guadalupe Correa-Cabrera (Schar)
 - Amitava Dutta (SBUS)
 - Regina Biggs (CEHD)
 - Mara Schoeny (Carter)
- Two Faculty Senators, elected by the Faculty Senate - one of whom would be on a tenure track contract and one on a term contract
 - Daniel Garrison (CEC)
 - Lisa Billingham (CVPA)
- One Dean (appointed by Provost);
 - Ken Ball (CEC)
- One Associate Dean of Faculty Affairs (or similar role, appointed by Provost);
 - Jaime Lester (CHSS)
- One representative from Research Council (appointed by Provost); and
 - Rosemarie Higgins (CHHS)
- One Local Academic Head/Department Chair (appointed by Faculty Senate Executive Committee)
 - Geri Grant (COS)

*The overall composition of the committee MUST include representation from at least 8 different schools and colleges.

APPENDIX B: FACULTY SUCCESS INITIATIVE – REVISED CHARGE

Faculty Success Initiative- Revised Charge

Proposed by Shannon Davis

Brought to the Faculty Senate floor on April 28, 2021 under New Business

How can we prepare faculty to be successful in the post pandemic university? The initiative will build on existing data regarding support for and structural constraints to success (e.g., evidence from COACHE survey) as well as additional input from the Faculty Senate with the goal of shaping action plans. The initiative will determine the most pressing concerns from faculty and will create a mechanism by which the Senate holds the administration accountable to addressing its top concerns within a reasonable amount of time.

This initiative will be led by a three-member subcommittee from the Executive Committee (Shannon Davis, Solon Simmons, and Richard Craig) tasked with:

- Partnering with Office of Faculty Affairs and Development to review recent COACHE information and following up with faculty from across the university to triangulate their most pressing concerns (during Fall 2020);
- Partnering with Administration (Provost, President, Senior Vice President) to determine timeline and methods by which the administration will work to address the faculty concerns, including the accountability structure between the administration and the Senate (by April 2021);
- Creating a public-facing reporting/accountability structure for the Initiative.

Next Steps

- Develop dashboard metrics that are agreed upon by faculty and administration.
- Determine accountability processes
 - Public dashboard
 - Expectation of administration documenting change over time to General Faculty via Faculty Senate that includes an explanation of deviations (both in positive and negative directions)
 - University level and college/school level
 - Opportunity to increase President's accountability to BOV, Provost to President, deans to Provost, and chairs to deans

Chair Davis clarified that she expects the next Faculty Senate Chair would step into her role after May 14, 2021. The motion in support of the revised charge passed.

APPENDIX C: MOTION REQUESTING FACULTY MATTERS COMMITTEE TO PROPOSE TERM TO TENURE-LINE PATHWAY

Motion Requesting Faculty Matters Committee to Propose Term to Tenure-line Pathway Proposed by Tim Gibson Brought to the Faculty Senate floor on April 21, 2021 under New Business

Whereas research and teaching are co-equal dimensions of intellectual life at this University.
Whereas research enriches instruction, and Instruction enriches research.
Whereas the Faculty Handbook recognizes the central role of teaching by offering two pathways to tenure: genuine excellence in teaching and genuine excellence in research.
Whereas the principle of tenure is necessary for the protection of academic freedom and the equal participation of faculty in shared governance.

We call on the Faculty Matters committee to:

1. Develop and propose an accessible, fair, and transparent application process for faculty appointed to a specific term to change their limited-term contract positions to tenure-line positions by direct appointment.
2. Develop and propose a tenure-review process for genuine excellence in teaching that is suitable for term faculty whose intellectual identities are centered on instruction and mentoring students.
3. Present a proposal for changing the Faculty Handbook to accomplish the above by March 2022.

From the minutes of the Faculty Senate Meeting on April 21, 2021:

The motion was seconded.

Discussion:

- Senator Solon Simmons conveyed that the Faculty Matters Committee had discussed the issue and was opposed to the motion. He clarified that while committee was supportive of the idea, it was opposed because of concerns regarding the process. He noted that there were numerous difficult questions that needed definition, examination and discussion.
- Spirited discussion followed with several senators seeking clarification and parallels with tenure appointments.
- Several senators took turns to express their reasoning in support of the motion.
- Several senators expressed their concerns about the specific motion: a) the process by which the motion was brought about, b) an oversimplification of the issues involved, and c) need for a much broader conversation and examination of the issues involved that cannot be undertaken by Faculty Matters Committee alone. Senators emphasized that this cannot be successfully addressed by Faculty Matters alone.
- A motion to amend the main motion was made: change the language to: “We call on the Faculty Matters committee to develop a process by which term faculty can be granted tenure.”

The motion to amend the main motion was seconded.

Discussion:

- Senators discussed and debated the amendment.

- Senator moved to postpone further discussion on the motion and amendment until first meeting of Fall 2021 and to ask the Executive Committee to develop an alternate process over the Summer 2021.

Discussion:

- Senators expressed support for the motion to postpone discussion on the main motion and amendment.
- Senator moved the question and was seconded.

Vote was called on ending the debate on the motion and its amendment, and to charge the Executive Committee to develop an alternate proposal over the Summer.

The motion passed ending debate. The motion to postpone discussion on the motion and its amendment passed.

OPTIONS FOR CONSIDERATION

Option 1

Modest policy revisions
Expand existing best practices

Existing Practices at Mason

1. CEHD: tenured teaching-intensive University Scholars
2. CEC: course releases for instructional term faculty engaged in research
3. Extended term contracts for up to five years
4. Faculty Handbook allows for hiring of term faculty into tenure-track positions through searches and, less frequently, direct hires

Option 1

Opportunities

- Efficiency
- Incremental changes in RPT
 - Teaching effectiveness
 - Scholarship that “counts”

Challenges

- Uneven implementation
 - Inequitable workload
 - No term contracts >5 years

Option 2

Keep tenure & term distinction

Increase flexibility within and between roles

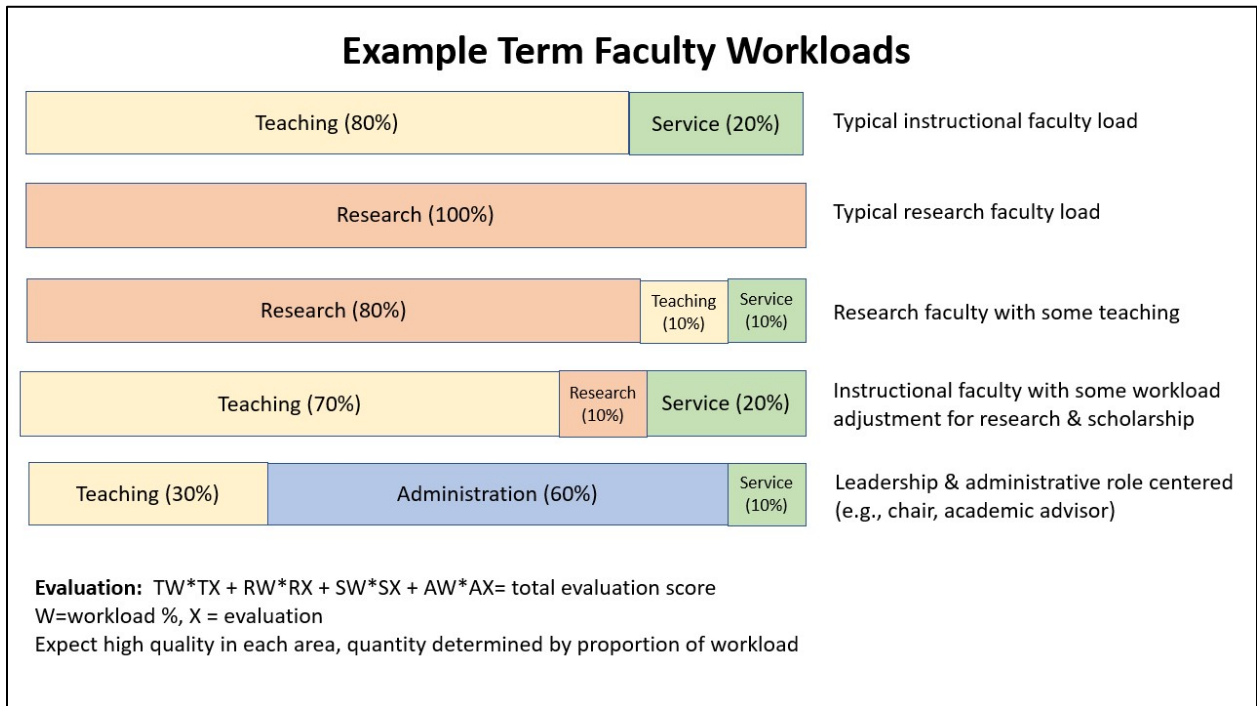

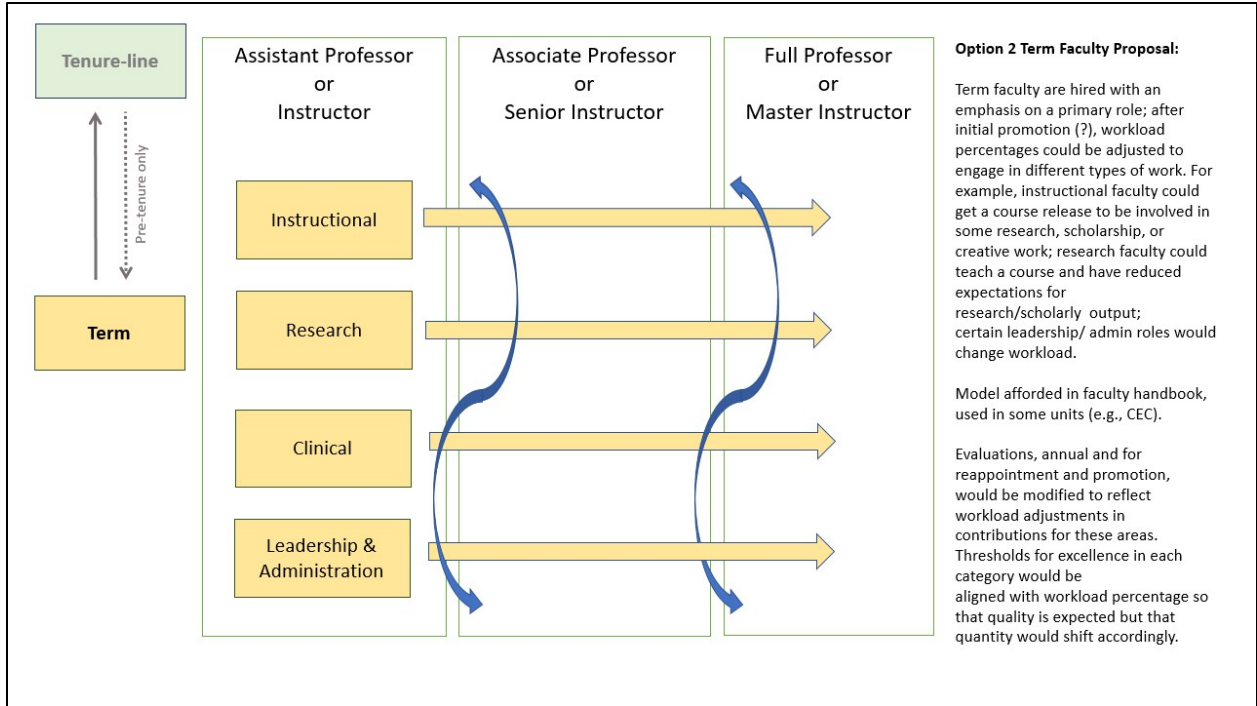

Example Tenure-Track & Tenured Workloads

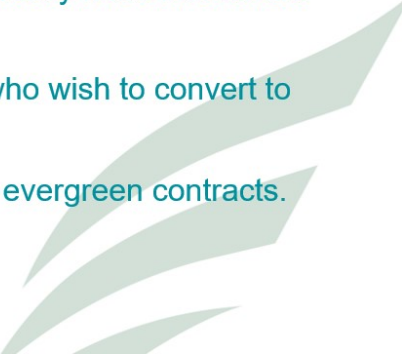

Research (40%)	Teaching (40%)	Service (20%)	Typical tenure-line faculty work
Research (20%)	Teaching (60%)	Service (20%)	Teaching & learning-centered
Research (60%)	Teaching (20%)	Service (20%)	High research & scholarship centered
Research (40%)	Teaching (20%)	Administration (20%)	Service (20%)	Leadership & administrative role centered v.1 (e.g., department chair, grad director)
Research (10%)	Teaching (10%)	Administration (80%)		Leadership & administrative role centered v.2 (e.g., tenured A/P faculty)

Evaluation: $TW*TX + RW*RX + SW*SX + AW*AX =$ total evaluation score
W=workload %, X = evaluation
Expect high quality in each area, quantity determined by proportion of workload

Additional issues to be addressed in implementation planning

1. Revise RPT guidelines to account for the many ways faculty contribute to the university.
 2. Develop a process for term faculty to be directly hired into tenure-track roles.
 3. Develop a process for tenure-line faculty who wish to convert to term roles.
 4. Develop a process for term faculty to earn evergreen contracts.

Option 2

Opportunities

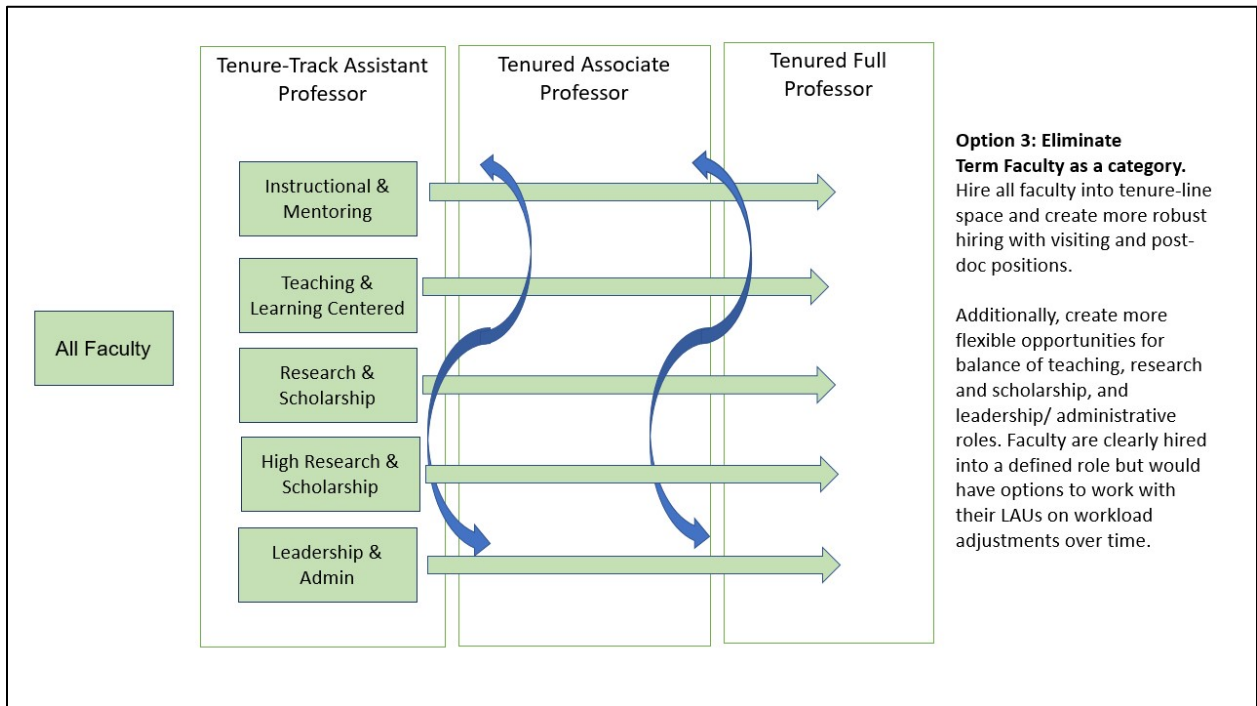

- Formalizes more flexible options
- RPT better aligned with faculty contributions
- Stability & flexibility

Challenges

- Possible that two groups of faculty have identical workloads
 - Two-tier system

Option 3

Eliminate distinction between tenure-line and term faculty

Example Faculty Workloads

Teaching (80%)		Service (20%)	Instructional and Mentoring
Research (20%)	Teaching (60%)		Service (20%)	Teaching & Learning Centered
Research (40%)		Teaching (40%)	Service (20%)	Research & Scholarship
Research (60%)			Teaching (20%)	Service (20%)	High Research & Scholarship Centered
Research (40%)		Teaching (20%)	Administration (20%)	Service (20%)	Leadership & administrative role centered v.1 (e.g., department chair, grad director)
Research (10%)	Teaching (10%)	Administration (80%)			Leadership & administrative role centered v.2 (e.g., A/P faculty)

Evaluation: $TW*TX + RW*RX + SW*SX + AW*AX =$ total evaluation score

W=workload %, X = evaluation

Expect high quality in each area, quantity determined by proportion of workload

Option 3

Opportunities

- Eliminates two-tier system
- Re-invents faculty roles

Challenges

- Faculty structure might not align with enrollment needs
- < institutional flexibility could lead to > reliance on adjunct faculty
- Could result in recreating the equivalent of term faculty lines

Presentation Script:

1. Introduction

A. Context and Background (Slide 1): Last fall, the Faculty Senate established the Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards to explore ways that we could align our faculty workload and reward structure to reflect our dual goals of being an R1 university that produces world-changing research AND of providing an accessible transformational education for all of our students. This joint task force between faculty and administration was created to develop a more inclusive faculty structure that better recognizes and rewards the many ways that faculty contribute to the success of the university. You can see the names and colleges of those who were elected and appointed on the screen here. Consistent with Mason's values, we have been approaching our work with a spirit of innovation and a recognition that we are charting new pathways and leading the way for others.

B. Charge (Slide 2): Our charge was to analyze our institutional needs and to identify potential models and best practices that are in place at other institutions and at Mason. Next, we identified some of the opportunities and challenges associated with each model. This is where we are today; we are focusing on WHAT we want to make possible, not on the HOW. (Slide 3) Once we identify the model that best serves our community, in response to faculty feedback from today's Community Forum, the next stage will involve implementation planning. We will identify which policies and procedures need to change and who the decision-making entities are who can accomplish those tasks. We will also develop processes to ensure pathways for contractual stability for term faculty, address how to make desired changes to workload that reflect evolving faculty roles, and revise RPT guidelines to accommodate those changes.

C. Thesis: Our goal today is to share our thinking so far and introduce some of the options that we have been considering.

D. Preview (Slide 4): Though we have looked at dozens of possible models, we're going to focus today on three that represent minimal, moderate, and extensive changes to our current structures.

2. Presentation of options

1. Option 1 (slide 5): The first option makes minimal changes to our current policy and expands on existing best practices. During our conversations, we found that there are dramatically different practices across our colleges and schools, and that there are already many best practices in place in some units that could be expanded in others. (SLIDE 6) For example, CEHD already has a process for allowing tenured faculty to transition to a more teaching intensive role as a University Scholar so that tenured faculty who are excellent teachers, who want to teach more, can do so. Another example is that the College of Engineering and Computing has a process for giving course releases to instructional term faculty who are engaged in research. We also have existing Faculty Handbook policies that provide for reappointment and promotion processes that lead to longer-term contracts and that allow units to hire term faculty into tenure-track roles through searches and direct appointments, although the latter is defined as rare. Option one would focus on expanding the use of existing best practices that are already in place in our colleges & schools and more fully utilizing the allowances in the Faculty Handbook.

A. Opportunities (Slide 7): The benefit of this approach is efficiency. We could start implementing some of these changes without policy change processes that are cumbersome and time-consuming. We could identify places where incremental policy change could lead to greater flexibility, such as expanding the ways that we evaluate teaching effectiveness and the types of scholarship that we count toward tenure.

B. Challenges: The challenge of this option is that it does not address issues that are urgently felt by some of our faculty. There could still be significantly different implementation of faculty roles and workload assignments across and within local academic units. Finally, it does not extend contractual stability beyond five years for term faculty.

2. Option 2 (Slide 8): The second option is a moderate proposal that keeps the distinction between tenure-line and term faculty and broadens flexibility within and between each of those categories. In this model, tenure-line faculty would be required to engage in teaching, scholarship, and service. Term faculty would have more flexibility.

(Slide 9) Most tenure-line faculty would begin with the same type of workload that we do now, with 40% research or creative activity, 40% teaching, and 20% service. At designated points, if there is a unit need, record of excellence, and a personal desire to do so, tenure-line faculty could shift their workload to be more teaching intensive, more research-intensive, or to take on administrative roles. (Slide 10) Faculty would be expected to meet standards of high quality in all areas of their work, but the quantity of work expected for annual reviews and promotion would vary depending on the workload percentage. For example, if your unit now normally expects faculty to publish 2 articles a year and teach a 2-2 load, someone whose contract is 60% teaching might teach a 3-3 load and publish one article a year. Someone who is 60% research might teach a 1-1 load and publish at least 3 articles a year.

(Slide 11) Similarly, term faculty would be hired into a primary role based on their primary work, but units and individuals could adjust the percentages of their workload assignments based on unit need, record of excellence, and a personal desire to do so. (Slide 12) For example, instructional faculty who are engaged in research could get a course release, research faculty could get an adjustment to teach a course, or faculty might take on an administrative role.

These adjustments are already happening in some units for workload and annual review processes. (Slide 13) Option 1 would also formalize these practices in evaluation for renewal, promotion, and tenure. The other important features of this model are that we would create pathways for some term faculty to be converted to tenure-line faculty without a full national search. We would continue to allow untenured tenure-track faculty to convert to term lines if they wish and if they are meeting standards of excellence for the type of term position they are seeking. Finally, in addition to the current one, three, and five-year term contracts, we would develop an option for term faculty to earn evergreen contracts with the highest level of promotion.

A. Opportunities (Slide 14): This innovative approach is an opportunity that formalizes options for greater flexibility within and between faculty roles. It adjusts our promotion and tenure guidelines to reflect the many ways that faculty are contributing to the university. Finally, it provides stability and flexibility for faculty and academic units.

B. Challenges: One of the challenges of this approach is that we could end up with term and tenure-line faculty in the same units who have nearly identical workloads, but in a two-tier system. This raises the question—why not tenure all?

3. Option 3 (Slide 15): The final option is the most extensive change in that it eliminates any distinction between term and tenure line faculty. (Slide 16) In this model, we are all simply faculty, and there are opportunities to earn tenure based on true excellence in any combination of workload distribution, whether it is focused on teaching, research, clinical work, administrative work or a blend. (Slide 17) Like Option 2, this model would expect high quality work in and across all categories that are part of a faculty member's workload assignment. What is different is that adjustments would be made to the quantity of work expected, based on contracted workload assignments. This option would effectively allow for any mix of teaching, research, administration, and service depending on unit need and personal strengths.

A. Opportunities (Slide 18): The opportunity afforded by this option is that it eliminates what is perceived and experienced by many to be a two-tier faculty system. This model also demonstrates our commitment to innovation and would re-invent faculty roles at Mason.

B. Challenges: One of the biggest challenges of this option is that it commits the university to a faculty structure that might not match future enrollment patterns and institutional needs. Institutional flexibility is significantly reduced in this scenario. As a result, we could see an increased reliance on adjunct faculty, or the need to create additional faculty appointments that are more temporary in nature. This has been the case at another institution that has attempted this approach, and they ended up recreating their old system over time.

3. Conclusion & Next Steps

A. As we conclude, we want to briefly share our next steps. (Slide 19) The recording of today's presentation will be made available on the Faculty Senate website, as will a Qualtrics survey to solicit feedback from you and other members of our campus community. We urge you to complete the survey. Equally important, please help us by encouraging your colleagues and your academic leadership to review the presentation and share their thoughts with us. This is a critical juncture for our Task Force and we want to hear from as representative a group of colleagues as possible. The survey will be live through Friday, March 11.

B. (Slide 20) The survey feedback will inform our next steps. We expect to refine the options moving forward; specifically, we expect to establish clarity on the what. Our next steps will be to turn our attention to developing a plan for the how. We will identify implementation steps, with respect to what needs to happen and what groups and/or committees might best provide leadership and guidance, whether existing or yet to be formed. We will also prepare a proposed timeline for these next steps. We will brief the Faculty Senate later this semester to share progress and encourage you to stay informed through attending that Senate meeting. (Close slides)

C. Implementing these changes will not be a quick or easy process. However, with deliberate and intentional planning, collaboration across key stakeholders, and a sustained commitment to see it through, we can make significant, meaningful changes. Our goal is to build an equitable faculty structure that will last well into the future AND that will recognize and reward faculty for their excellent contributions – in research, scholarship and creative work, in teaching and mentoring, in clinical work, and in leadership. Ultimately, we aim to create a context for a faculty experience in which all members of our community feel valued and supported, and that that will help us recruit and retain the best faculty possible.

D. Thank you very much. We look forward to your questions and our conversation this morning.

Overview

The Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards (TFRFRR) held a Community Forum on February 18, 2022 to share three options for rethinking faculty structures and to get feedback from the broad Mason community, particularly faculty members and academic leaders at all levels of the institution. Feedback was collected through a Qualtrics survey that was made available online through March 14.

Participants

A total of 288 participants completed the survey following the TFRFRR Community Forum, and demographic information was shared by only some participants. Of the participants who responded to the question about faculty role, 102 (39.2%) were term faculty, 27 (10.4%) were tenure-track faculty, 109 (41.9%) were tenured faculty, 17 (6.5%) were administrative/professional faculty, and 5 (1.9%) were part-time faculty. With respect to gender, 84 (33.1%) were male, 121 (47.6%) were female, 46 (18.1%) preferred not to disclose, and 3 (1.2%) selected other and shared another gender identity. Participants could select as many ethnicities as they wished; 24 (8.3%) selected Asian, 7 (2.4%) Black or African American, 6 (2.1%) Hispanic or Latinx, 6 (2.1%) Middle Eastern or North African, 1 (0.3%) Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander, 158 (54.9%) White or Caucasian, and 9 (3.1%) other. Participation by college is shown in the table below.

Independent-samples t-tests were conducted to identify whether there were differences in preferences by gender. Male faculty ($M = 2.78$) had significantly stronger support for Option 1 than female faculty ($M = 2.18$), and female faculty ($M = 3.18$) had significantly stronger support for Option 3 than male faculty ($M = 2.63$), but there were not statistically significant differences between female ($M = 3.18$) and male ($M = 3.05$) faculty for Option 2.

We also ran an analysis to see if there were significant differences by school or college, but because of the low number of participants in some colleges, we will only share broad observations to minimize the risk of any one individual being identified as one of a very small number of participants from a particular college of school. The Carter School and Schar are excluded from this description because they had two or fewer participants. Generally speaking, faculty from ASLS and SBUS indicated the strongest support for Option 1, with college means of 3.0 or higher. Faculty from COS, CVPA, CEHD, CEC, SBUS, and those with no affiliation indicated the strongest support for Option 2 ($M \geq 3.0$). Faculty from the CEHD, CEC, and CHHS had the strongest support for Option 3 ($M \geq 3.0$). CHSS had means below 3.0 for all three options, and a follow-up Chi-Square analysis indicated that faculty in CHSS varied dramatically in their preferences with a strong distribution across all answers.

Just as with the question about preferences, we cannot share data divided by college because of the low number of participants associated with some colleges. However, just as can be seen in the tables above, college by college analyses generally indicated that Option 1 was perceived as the most doable and Option 3 as least doable.

Option 1

Benefits and Opportunities

- This option is more practical, making it easier and more efficient to implement these changes. These seem like worthwhile practices that are worth expanding. Offers solutions that are straightforward with minimal change to the status quo. (~60)
- Incremental changes are important because there are sure to be unanticipated consequences of any drastic changes. This option provides continuity, allows for continuous improvement, and is least disruptive. (~22)
- Top R1 universities that are boldly innovative and highly successful are not going in this direction. This option is a reasonable adaptation of traditional practices within an R1 setting that can be more standardized and address term faculty needs that are not currently widely applied across campus. (~22)
- Course releases for term faculty who are engaged in research/ encouraging opportunities for term faculty to engage in research. (~12)
- Using existing arrangements and practices gives colleges and Mason the flexibility that we need. (~10)
- This option opens a path for tenured associate to full based on genuine excellence in teaching or leadership. (~5)
- Not all term (teaching-focused) faculty want to engage in research; this option does not pressure instructional term faculty to engage in research. (~5)

Dislikes and/or Challenges

- This option does not adequately address the need for long-term contracts and job security (e.g., contracts that are greater than 5 years or rolling/Evergreen) for term faculty. (~45)
- There are not many benefits to this option as it is basically the status quo and will not offend tenured faculty. Change is difficult and this option seems to be the easy way out. (~40)
- This does not bring more equity to the differences between term and tenure-line faculty and maintains two distinct classes of faculty. (~34)
- There is not much to like about this option. (~26)
- This is not a true “re-imagining.” If this was all that could happen, it would be only a minor success and disappointing. (~22)
- Does not get at the root problem of workloads and inequity. (~18)
- Our system is not perfect by any means but has worked well in many regards and has brought Mason to where it is today. Why try to fix something that is not broken? (~17)
- This option leaves us with uneven implementation and significant differences / opportunities across academic units. Thus, this option leaves the responsibility of pursuing changes to individual faculty and/or depends on LAU leadership to be fair and flexible. (~17)
- Lack of flexibility. (~8)
- Term to tenure-line pathway is effectively non-existent today and this does not change this reality. (~5)

Option 2

Benefits and Opportunities

- This option offers flexibility (and stability/differentiated paths for term and tenure)
- Creates an opportunity/flexibility for faculty to change roles
- Faculty like the idea/concept of evergreen/extended contracts
- “Best model” is simply stated (perhaps we find a better way to say it)
- Best option (simply stated)
- This offers an option for standardization across all units/schools/departments
- Better recognition of the various roles/duties/workloads of term faculty.
- The most practical potential for equalizing workloads over time

Dislikes and/or Challenges

- Flexibility in this option could be challenging, problematic, and/or not necessary.
- This model is still two-tiered system; maintains a two-tiered system that unfairly divides up workloads.
- This plan would be difficult to implement. What do these percentages mean/how would we define them related to faculty load? If this isn't clear, it will be difficult to make workloads equitable across units.
- RPT implications for tenure track and tenured professors—may negatively impact R1 status if research is not part of the 'standard' portfolio for tenure and promotion.
- Considerations for RPT going up for tenure with varied elements and training committees to understand the balance of such elements.

Option 3

Benefits and Opportunities

- Eliminates two-tiered faculty system (maybe) and allows for greater equity/equality/fairness
- Recognizes the importance of teaching and quality education, lets units focus more on academic outcomes
- More job security that can allow all faculty to thrive (especially compared to current term faculty who are on one-year contracts)
- Flexibility for faculty workloads provides a different level of individual and institutional flexibility
- Increases academic freedom
- Mechanisms and university resources would need to be provided to support the faculty in their decision to move, but some of this is already happening in some colleges.

Dislikes and/or Challenges

- Potential to devalue or destroy tenure/ Trojan horse that will weaken tenure
- Will harm R1 status and damage the university's reputation/undermines university's research mission/devalues research/does not recognize how hard it is to build a research program
- Might not actually eliminate the two-tiered system if research continues to be valued more or if we consider adjuncts as the current third tier; hierarchies will inevitably be created, and this might exacerbate equity problems
- Could lead to a much higher reliance on adjunct faculty and fewer full-time faculty
- Many tenured faculty might leave Mason, and it will become harder to recruit faculty (especially top researchers)

- Could eliminate the opportunity for full-time employment for many of our current term faculty, especially those without terminal degrees
- Implementation will be difficult, especially in terms of evaluating all types of faculty work and the cost of the model

What additional suggestions do you have? What did we miss?

- Whatever the university decides to do, it must account for the fact that different academic units define differently the terms and conditions of term and tenure-line faculty. Let units opt into an approved menu of additional considerations that may be appropriate for their specific academic area. This will allow units to tailor the response to their actual problems. This should not be a one-size fits all solution.
- We should simply improve the conditions of term faculty and pay them more without negatively impacting our tenure-line faculty. Everyone should be paid appropriately, have fair workloads, and some job security, but that doesn't require moving everyone to a tenure-track system. Eliminating pay disparities and considering evergreen contracts for term faculty would do a lot.
- It seems that the notion of evergreen contracts for term faculty could reduce the potential issue of enrollment changes if term faculty were not required to seek them. In other words, it provides a vehicle to recognize teaching excellence and reward it just as excellence in scholarship is rewarded.
- Is there an in-between option that expands tenured positions including more "teaching tenure" tracks but without totally getting rid of term lines.
- We need to be nimble enough to meet the needs of the university in terms of teaching, research, and scholarship. However, we also need to be clear in expectations and roles so that individuals can make choices appropriate to their situation. Blurring the lines of roles and expectations (e.g., eliminating distinctions between tenure-line and term faculty) will result in confusion and, in the worst-case scenario, an "out" for individuals who might not meet expectations.
- Graduate student supervision is not properly addressed in the current three models. Another concern is that teaching quality is not currently captured by any system (e.g., teaching evaluations), so how will teaching-intensive staff be evaluated and potentially given tenure?
- Do not undermine tenure! This did not focus enough on the challenges, workload, and commitment required for tenured faculty.
- Where are adjunct faculty in this? We need to do more to consider them and think about what that role should be. (e.g., only teach on a course-by-course basis instead of doing curriculum development and essentially teaching as full-time faculty)
- Beware unintentional consequences and test each of these models against several possible scenarios.
- How does Mason Korea fit in to the equation if we delete term faculty?
- The institution should allow for more opportunity (time) for term faculty to prepare themselves to be better qualified for a tenure-track role.
- How do faculty joint appointments fit into all of this?
- Research should stay the priority of the institution.

Introduction

The Faculty Annual Evaluation (FAE) Work Group was formally charged on October 7, 2022, to review both current Mason and national best practices for FAE guidelines and to propose guidance for practices and policies, an implementation process, and associated language changes for the Faculty Handbook (Appendix 1: Work Group Charge). This charge and need emerge from concerns surrounding varying practices within the Mason Local Academic Units (LAUs) for FAEs; a desire for consistent, transparent, fair and equitable process across all LAUs; and a return to a performance-based culture tying evaluations to merit salary increases. It is the aim of the Work Group to provide high-level guidance that creates greater consistency, transparency, and equity across Mason, while maintaining flexibility on the details and criteria at the local level.

The FAE Work Group engaged in the following activities to meet our charge:

- Examined current FAE practices and procedures in place at Mason.
- Gathered and reviewed examples of promising practices from peer institutions and conducted interviews with subject matter experts.
- Held meetings (10/7, 10/27, 11/3, 11/10, 11/17, 12/1, 12/8, 12/14) to review and discuss collected data and provide recommendations.

The intent of the FAE Work Group was to produce recommendations and guidance that, as LAUs evaluate their current practices, will result in positive improvements to Mason's FAE practices. The Work Group acknowledges the diversity of approaches across Mason, and that culture and context matter in tailoring an effective FAE process that meets the needs of a particular LAU. The Work Group strived to provide structure and guidance where it is needed, while continuing to allow flexibility for LAUs that have robust evaluation practices, ensuring greater consistency, transparency, equity, and accountability.

Work Group Process

Current State Analysis: The Work Group solicited documentation from across Mason, setting a baseline goal of collecting at least one example from each college. The Work Group reviewed documentation provided by a total of four departments within the CHSS, one department within the COS, and one department within CEC, as well as college-level guidance from nine colleges. The Work Group created a document summarizing the unit's process, identifying specific approaches to transparency and formative evaluation practices, and highlighting key points of interest to our work (Appendix 2: Example Summaries from George Mason). During our sessions, Work Group members shared practices from their LAUs, highlighting successes, challenges, and changes adopted by their units.

Additionally, the Work Group reviewed the Faculty Handbook section 2.6.1 "Annual Review of Faculty." The Faculty Handbook states that "the bylaws or standing rules of each local academic unit (LAU) will include:

- The method by which faculty will be evaluated (e.g., by a faculty work group recommendation to the local unit administrator, or directly by the local unit administrator);
- The requirements for the evaluation materials submitted by faculty; and

- A statement of standards for overall “satisfactory” and “unsatisfactory” annual performance. Satisfactory performance means performance that meets the standards of the unit. Unsatisfactory performance means performance that fails to meet the standards of the unit.

The Faculty Handbook further states that the criteria used for the Faculty Annual Review are the same as the Criteria for Evaluation of Tenured, Tenure-Track, and Term Faculty (see Section 2.4).

The Work Group found considerable variability in LAU practices, ranging from undetermined (undocumented, inconsistent or unidentifiable) to extremely robust and transparent. Key takeaways include:

- Several LAUs use a quantitative approach to summative ratings, including detailed scales and criteria for rationale. Other LAUs use a qualitative process involving a summary of accomplishments.
- Many LAUs have adopted evaluation categories beyond the baseline “satisfactory” and “unsatisfactory” required by the Faculty Handbook.
- Several LAUs employ faculty self-assessments or reflections in their processes, although the criteria and guidance vary.
- Few LAUs address formative evaluation practices in their documentation.
- Stated dependence on student evaluations for teaching assessment varies across LAUs.

Outside Examples: Based on an examination of recent research articles on FAEs, several topics emerged (the importance of providing faculty feedback and recent findings about concerns with student evaluations are good examples of this). The Work Group searched for similar institutions that addressed those topics, giving preference to identifying practices at R1 research institutions. Additionally, the Work Group sought out expert advice from institutions in Virginia undergoing similar efforts. Work Group members engaged with peers, reviewed publicly available documentation, and held interviews with colleagues to compile sufficient data to evaluate and consider options for Mason to adopt. The mix of schools included explicit merit-based approaches for faculty evaluations, various options for providing scaffolded support for faculty and evaluators, and innovative formative feedback processes (most of which were disconnected with an annual merit review process). A total of seven institutions were considered, including:

- Cornell University
- James Madison University
- Loyola University of Chicago
- Texas A&M University
- University of Kentucky
- University of North Carolina
- Virginia Tech

The Work Group engaged in a similar review methodology, summarizing the institution's process, considering specific approaches to transparency and formative evaluation practices, and highlighting key points of interest for consideration. The Work Group also identified if the university employs a performance-based process, if available (Appendix 3: Outside Example Summaries). During our sessions,

Work Group members reviewed the summaries and compared external practices with Mason's current state.

Analysis and Deliberation to Meet the Charge: Through analysis of the practices identified at Mason and outside exemplars, a list of potential items for inclusion in the final report was developed for Work Group deliberation. Potential items for consideration were grouped into three categories:

- Required Practices: These practices were determined as necessary to be in place for meeting the Work Group charge. Furthermore, the Work Group decided that these items likely would aid those LAUs needing to strengthen their current processes.
- Recommended Practices: These practices should be strongly considered by Mason leadership and LAUs for broad implementation in order to enhance outcomes. In some cases, they likely would not be applicable for all Mason LAUs, but, depending on the context of the LAU, they should be reviewed when making changes or updates to existing FAE processes.
- Practices for Further Exploration: These practices may have potential applicability for Mason, but more exploration, discussion, and clarification are needed prior to being considered for implementation across Mason.

A consent-based voting process was used to gain agreement on item grouping. During the deliberations, the Work Group took potential implementation considerations into account, including the likelihood of widespread adoption for required practices. In some cases, items were moved to recommended practices or practices for further exploration in order to gain a group consent-based agreement.

Required Practices

The Work Group determined that the required practices below would lead to improved outcomes to Mason's FAE process in a way that can be considered transparent, and merit based. The majority of these enable the summative evaluation process to be applied in a way that informs merit-based raises. Other requirements concern the formative feedback process or provide approaches to improve some aspects of the FAE process.

- All faculty must be evaluated annually. The details of this process are determined by the LAU, including the depth of the evaluation and criteria applied, but all faculty members shall receive an annual evaluation each year.

Rationale: Necessary for merit-based pay decisions, and a requirement for the FAE to be considered "performance-based."

- There should be no fewer than three categories of evaluation and the rating of "unsatisfactory" must be included. The LAU evaluation process must be able to recognize performance at all levels, as such evaluations will be tied to merit-based pay decisions.

Rationale: Necessary for merit-based pay decisions, and a requirement for the FAE to be considered "performance-based."

Process Note: We did not have 100% consent for this item as one work group member preferred to keep the current Faculty Handbook language.

- Each LAU must establish written procedures and criteria for the FAE decision making process that are developed with faculty input and approved by the LAU faculty.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for Mason to have a transparent, fair and equitable process, a requirement of the Work Group charge.

This aligns with the Faculty Handbook language in section 1.3.3, Colleges and Schools that states “The faculties of colleges/schools, together with their Deans, determine the processes and procedures of governance they will employ, consistent with the provisions of the Faculty Handbook. All colleges/schools, and if so sub-divided, each of their academic subdivisions, must act in accordance with the best traditions of the academic profession and within the following guidelines, which prescribe that they...

c. adopt bylaws or standing rules that are published and made available to all members and that undergo periodic review and that include procedures and define eligibility for faculty participation in the activities specified in this Handbook;”

- Faculty should be evaluated on the work they are asked to do. Specification of workload rubrics, percentages and/or assignments used for evaluation, which are aligned with college or school workload guidelines, should be included in written procedures.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for Mason to have a transparent, fair and equitable process, a requirement of the Work Group charge. Also aligns with the goals of the Task Force for Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards Report.

This aligns with the Faculty Handbook language in section 2.6.1, Annual Review of the Faculty that states, “Faculty are evaluated on the quality of their performance over the entire scope of their contributions during the year and in the context of their goals, assignments, and other responsibilities. Performance expectations should recognize differences in faculty assignments within the same LAU.”

- All FAEs must include a faculty self-assessment and a written response provided by the evaluator(s) as specified in the LAU bylaws and/or standing rules.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for Mason to have a transparent, fair and equitable process and reduces confusion around the FAE process.

This aligns with the Faculty Handbook language in section 2.6.1, Annual Review of the Faculty that states “The results of and rationale for the evaluation must be given to the faculty member in writing, and the faculty member must be afforded the opportunity to discuss the results of the evaluation with the local unit administrator before it is sent to the Dean.”

- Written LAU guidance must clarify what constitutes performance at various levels.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for Mason to have a transparent, fair and equitable process, a requirement of the Work Group charge.

- The Faculty Handbook should clarify the role and purpose of the FAE in the LAU Renewal, Promotion and Tenure (RPT) process, including an explicit disclaimer that a favorable rating on the FAE does not indicate success in the RPT process. See Work Group language for proposed additions to section 2.6.1 of the Faculty Handbook in Appendix 4.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for Mason to have a transparent, fair, and equitable process; also addresses identified communication gaps and misunderstandings about how the FAE relates to the RPT process.

- Each LAU should provide detailed guidance on the roles of the participants and evaluators with respect to the evaluation process and context.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for Mason to have a transparent, fair, and equitable process and reduces confusion around the FAE process.

- Administrative work and leadership roles must be accounted for in the annual evaluation.

Rationale: Faculty need to be evaluated on the job(s) they are tasked to perform. Administrative roles (e.g., Local Unit Administrator/ Department Head, Program Coordinator, Graduate Director, Associate Chair, etc.) can take significant time and should be evaluated along with research, teaching and service.

This aligns with the Faculty Handbook language in section 2.4.4, Administrative Responsibilities: “Many faculty assume administrative responsibilities as part of their terms of employment. Evaluation of faculty performance of these responsibilities must be included in the annual review and any consideration of change of faculty status. The criteria for successful performance must be given to the faculty member in writing.”

- Student evaluations of teaching should not be used as the sole basis for FAE; rather, student evaluations are part of a comprehensive set of evidence to determine teaching effectiveness.

Rationale: Research on bias in course evaluations shows challenges with the use of student evaluations above a satisfactory level. Fully online evaluations have especially low response rates that call into question the validity of the data.

This aligns with the Faculty Handbook section 2.4.1 Teaching, “Effective teaching is demonstrated through a combination of course and curricular materials, learning outcomes, assignments, and assessments designed to promote student learning; through review of those materials, outcomes, assignments, and assessments by knowledgeable peers and colleagues; through student evaluations of their learning experiences; and through engaging in professional/teaching development activities.”

Recommended Practices

The recommended practices below should be strongly considered by Mason leadership and LAUs for broad implementation in order to enhance outcomes. In some cases, they likely would not be applicable for all Mason LAUs, but, depending on the context of the LAU, they should be reviewed when making changes or updates to existing FAE processes.

- The Office of the Provost, along with College/School and LAU leadership, should provide additional guidance for evaluators and mentors, including training opportunities and resources.

Rationale: Addresses the concern for transparency and reduces tension around the FAE process. It may also improve outcomes through support and training for faculty and evaluators.

- The Office of the Provost should provide examples to LAUs for developing their FAE processes.

Rationale: Allows for potential best practices to be highlighted and adopted, particularly by LAUs who need more concrete support, and may improve consistency in FAEs across Mason.

- LAUs should consider using the annual feedback process for career development and performance management.

Rationale: Addresses charge for inclusion of formative feedback that will support faculty in their professional development. This also potentially addresses the request for the formulation of an annual faculty plan of work, including goals and specific measurable objectives.

- LAUs should consider how they are providing mentoring and support for all faculty. Specialized mentoring and feedback processes for pre-tenure faculty, tenured associate professors on track to full professor, and instructional and clinical faculty on track for both levels of promotion are key areas. Mentoring support is recommended to be implemented broadly.

Rationale: Addresses a specific need at Mason, particularly for associate professors and instructional and clinical faculty. It could also address the charge for inclusion of formative feedback that will support all faculty in their professional development.

Practices for Further Exploration

The practices below may have potential applicability for Mason, but more exploration, discussion, and clarification are needed prior to being considered for implementation across Mason.

- Inclusion of a peer review process in FAEs. The Work Group is aware that this is being applied in some of the larger LAUs, but there was some disagreement on whether it should be applied more broadly.

Rationale: Peer review better aligns with the RPT process and can be effectively implemented with appropriate training and support.

This aligns with the language in the Faculty Handbook in section 2.5.1 Teaching, “Local academic units must regularly evaluate the teaching effectiveness of their faculty. In doing so, they are expected to incorporate data from both peers and students... Peer evaluation is expected to include, at a minimum, data on the development and implementation of new courses and programs, the appropriateness of course materials currently used, the level and quality of student advising, and learning outcomes. Additional forms of peer evaluation are expected. These may include, but are not limited to, peer observation of classroom teaching, evaluations by mentors, assessments of teaching performance by colleagues, and teaching portfolios.”

- Inclusion of departmental citizenship as a criteria or dimension of FAE. The Work Group debated whether this might be considered as part of the service category, or its own stand-alone area.

Rationale: Departmental citizenship as a dimension could provide a method for LAUs to reward faculty members who go above and beyond. Moreover, it may help LAUs in addressing behavior that does not comport with our values as a university and complies with the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management’s Policy 2.35 “Civility in the Workplace.”

- Inclusion of options for addressing pay equity, beyond the FAE process, in written LAU guidance. The Work Group disagreed on how best to implement this item and whether pay equity was within the charge, but all agreed that addressing this issue is important.

Rationale: Increases options for addressing pay equity within the School/College/LAU, in addition to rewarding high performers.

Annual Plan of Work

The FAE Work Group acknowledges the charge’s call for “the formulation of an annual faculty plan of work, including goals and specific measurable objectives.” However, ongoing discussion within the Faculty Senate and responses to the Task Force on Reimagining Faculty Roles and Rewards report that was delivered during our period of activity suggests that this idea requires additional research and conversation beyond the scope and timeframe allocated for this Work Group.

Schedule for Dissemination of Guidance

The schedule for dissemination of guidance should consider that the required and recommended practices in this report may require significant time to be fully implemented within some LAUs. The Work Group recommends the following:

- LAUs should review the required and recommended practices outlined in this report.
- LAUs should write a brief summary about how their practices will align with the required practices and include a plan to address any current gaps.
- LAUs should review recommended practices and adopt, if applicable.
- Local unit administrators should submit their summary to the Dean for review.
- Deans should review the summary(ies), assure that it/they comply with the required practices, and forward all materials to the Office of the Provost by the end of the spring 2023 semester.

In order to have better alignment between the FAE process and potential merit-based raises, the Work Group recommends that the FAE cycle be completed by the LAUs in the spring semester. Given that faculty and LAUs just completed a FAE cycle in fall 2022, the Work Group proposes that the next FAE cycle take place in the Spring of 2024, evaluating the period from the most recent FAE cycle through fall of 2023. Moving forward, the FAE cycle would be based upon the contributions of the preceding calendar year to include summer, if applicable.

All LAUs are expected to review their applicable bylaws or standing rules on a regular basis to promote continuous improvement. LAUs are also expected to provide faculty with their bylaws or standing rules for faculty annual evaluation to ensure transparency. If the LAU does not have bylaws or standing rules, they should defer to their school/college bylaws or standing rules.

Proposed Faculty Handbook Revisions

The Work Group's proposed Faculty Handbook changes (Appendix 4: Proposed Faculty Handbook Revisions) all concern section 2.6.1: Annual Review of Faculty. The changes that impact Faculty Handbook language include:

- Change in the timing of the FAE cycle to be completed in the spring semester.
- Inclusion of a required self-assessment for faculty as part of the FAE.
- Inclusion of no fewer than three categories of annual performance evaluation, keeping the rating of "unsatisfactory."
- An expansion to review all job components that are a part of a faculty member's assigned workload instead of just research and scholarly activities.
- New language explaining that FAE and RPT processes have distinct functions.

Annual Evaluations and the RPT Process Have Distinct Functions: Although the Renewal, Promotion and Tenure (RPT) and faculty annual evaluations focus on the same general criteria (teaching; research, scholarship, creative activity; and service), they have distinct functions. The primary function of the faculty annual evaluation process is to provide ongoing feedback to support continuous improvements in faculty performance as it relates to the University's mission. Faculty annual evaluations also inform merit-based raises.

The primary function of RPT evaluations is to assess whether a change in faculty status is appropriate. Such evaluations lead to a dichotomous judgment about whether a faculty member's employment contract should be extended in time for a specified term—or without term—and/or escalated to a higher academic rank.

Because faculty annual evaluations and RPT evaluations are distinct, it is important not to assume that faculty annual evaluation results will predict RPT outcomes at the level of an individual case.

Charge:

The evaluation of faculty members at our university is an important annual process that assesses performance, and provides formative feedback and constructive recommendations for continuous performance improvement. These evaluations are also necessary for establishing a performance-based culture at Mason that will reward faculty for the work in which they engage and the achievements they attain.

In order to reach these objectives, it is critical that the evaluation of faculty be well conceived, contemporary, timely, transparent, and applied consistently and equitably across our university. Moreover, the annual faculty evaluation process should be aligned with each unit's workload and R, P & T guidelines.

The purpose of the Faculty Annual Evaluation Work Group is to inventory and review current annual faculty evaluation guidelines, policies, and practices at Mason; identify national best practices for annual faculty evaluations; and develop a proposed plan for implementing consistent, reliable, valid, and transparent annual faculty evaluation processes at our university.

Consequently, the Faculty Annual Evaluation Work Group is charged with the following:

1. Collect current annual faculty evaluation guidelines, policies, and practices from across the university and both catalog and summarize the range of existing approaches.
2. Identify best practices and exemplars for annual faculty evaluations.
3. Develop proposed guidance for faculty annual review policies and practices that include: (1) a summative evaluation that can be used in the process that informs performance-based faculty salary increases, (2) formative feedback that will support faculty in their professional development, and (3) the formulation of an annual faculty plan of work, including goals and specific measurable objectives.
4. Propose a process for disseminating the annual review guidance to all academic units, ensuring that all academic units develop annual review processes that align with both the updated guidance and future annual evaluation processes that are consistent with merit-based salary increase cycles.
5. Draft proposed Faculty Handbook language reflecting these proposed annual evaluation changes for the consideration of the Faculty Handbook Revisions Workgroup, the Faculty Senate, and university leadership.

It is anticipated that the work of the Faculty Annual Evaluation Work Group will take place during the fall 2022 semester with a report prepared for the Executive Sponsors by December 15, 2022.

College of Education and Human Development	CEHD gives clear guidance on the criteria for achieving high competence and genuine excellence in the three key areas. A CV and narrative are required.	There is detailed guidance on criteria for achieving high competence and genuine excellence in research and scholarship. There is no explicit evaluation criteria how a decision is made.	CEHD has a straightforward process which gives faculty a clear understanding of how to achieve high competence and genuine excellence in terms of meeting the clear requirements described.	Not present in documents provided.	2022
College of Engineering and Computing	Quantitative approach with an option to provide details on the impact of COVID on performance.	Example of satisfactory and unsatisfactory performance levels are provided. Details on what is involved in evaluation are provided.	5 performance ratings are applied but are then translated into faculty handbook approved satisfactory/unsatisfactory ratings.	Not present in documents provided.	2022
College of Public Health	Changed their faculty evaluation process for 2021. This included an extensive feedback from faculty over a proposed new process. Previously, their process was "unwieldy to use" but included goal setting, a long list of activities and a very short reflective statement. The updated approach removes the list of activities to leave a highlighted CV, clarifies the categories of goals and provides a template for a more comprehensive reflective statement. The list of activities used to be the centerpiece of the evaluation process, but now the self-assessment and reflective statement is considered the most useful source of data.	This largely qualitative process has enough details and documentation on how the process will be carried out, with multiple avenues for feedback prior to submittal to be seen as closer to a transparent evaluation process than most qualitative approaches.	Public Health provides flexibility in the materials used for self-assessment and the reflective statement. This is in the context of their yearly goals process. Specifically, guidance states, "Materials selected should depend heavily on the previous year's goals and proposed goals for the upcoming year while taking into consideration departmental, school/college, and university goals and needs." Public Health has 5 categories including "Teaching/Mentoring", "Research/Scholarship", "Service", "Leadership/Administrative", "Practice/Clinical". Public Health also requires "Goal Reflection", "Performance Goals" and "Professional Development Goals". This focus on yearly performance goals enables CHHS' process to be termed "Performance-based." This looks similar to many businesses outside of academia in its focus on a yearly process.	There are a number of feedback processes built into the annual evaluation processes. The self-reflection on yearly goals and the goal writing for the following year set them up for enabling formative feedback sessions during the year, but these are not explicitly cited.	April, 2022

College of Science	The College of Science provides an annual evaluation process with high level overview of the process, the timing and the procedures to be followed, such as requiring that faculty "MUST be afforded the opportunity to complete a self-evaluation AND discuss the performance evaluation with their supervisor."	No explicit evaluation criteria for how a decision is made is provided.	The College of Science uses a self-evaluation form that provides tables for courses taught, student advising, research, service, and other contracts and obligations.,	Not present in documents provided.	2019
College of Visual and Performing Arts	CVPA provides a template for a "listing of creative and scholarly activities" template that is connected to their faculty performance plan. This is combined with a CV, with a write-up of their activities in anti-racism and inclusive excellence, international/Global activity, a self-assessment and professional development trainings.	Does not provide details on how the evaluation will be conducted, nor the rating categories available, but does reference the Faculty Performance Plan as the basis of their responses. This isn't included in the documentation provided.	Explicitly lists anti-racism and inclusive excellence activities as part of their evaluation process.	Not present in documents provided.	May, 2022
Criminology, Law and Society	From James Willis who submitted the exemplar: "We moved away from a summative score, preferring to take a more qualitative and fine-grained approach. The PRC report goes to the Chair. They change as they see fit and then send to the faculty member (the evaluation is ultimately from the Chair). There is then a 1-on-1 to discuss the evaluation, address concerns, before submitting to CHSS."	No explicit evaluation criteria for how a decision is made is provided. This links up to Dept Chair Willis' position that they have moved to a fine-grained, qualitative approach.	Student Evaluations (along with other things like peer evaluations) are included as core evidence of teaching performance. Effort in terms of time is calculated as "very high", "high", "medium low", and "none/rare".	Not present in documents provided.	1-Jun-22
Department of Biology	Recently modified their approach from COS to better fit faculty needs. Provides faculty with separate worksheets for categories for publications, student supervision, service, and advising, along with a self-evaluation template and a "tell me more" for additional information to consider.	No explicit evaluation criteria for how a decision is made is provided.	Recently changed approach from using 3 worksheets in 2019 to capture "Self-Evaluation", "Publications" and "Student Supervision", to a 6-worksheet approach that also captures "Service", "Advising" and a "Tell Me More" category.	Not present in documents provided.	2021

Dept of Communications	The Dept of Communications takes a quantitative approach in listing out detailed requirements with examples for "Meets expectations," "Above expectations" and "Significantly above expectations". Two documents provided.	Detailed quantitative approach. Answers add up to different ratings categories.	4 different areas are evaluated including the distinction between "Service" and "administrative service". There is an explicit non-research set of requirements for "Instructional Faculty". "Strong student evaluations" can be used as evidence of teaching capability. Tenured faculty reviewed every 3 years for to whether assess research productivity is appropriate to teaching load.	Not present in documents provided.	Spring 22
Department of Physics and Astronomy	This department leverages and extends the College of Science self-evaluation form, along with a research metrics worksheet with different tabs for assistant, associate and full professors.	No explicit evaluation criteria for how a decision is made is provided.	The Department Chair applies the self-assessment form to create a written self-assessment narrative as the annual evaluation: "After the Faculty Self-Evaluation forms are collected, the Chair is responsible to write a Faculty Evaluation for each faculty based on their research, teaching, and services activities in the previous year. The traditional format for the PA Faculty Evaluation is in a narrative form with a summary evaluation ranking of Exceeds Expectations, Meets Expectations, Below Expectations, and Unsatisfactory Performance"	Not present in documents provided.	2022

Dept of Psychology	Very detailed quantitative process called Behaviorally Anchored Rating Scales (BARS), which was originally developed by faculty back in the early 2000s. It was adjusted in 2007 and 2015. The Dept of Psychology is currently considering additional changes. From Chair Keith Renshaw, the potential changes center around: 1. "The possibility of providing ranges of weights that faculty can assign to different areas, to allow them to focus more on certain domains (still within an acceptable range). For instance, rather than saying tenured Associate Professors are rated based on 35% teaching, 45% research, and 20% service, we might allow tenured Associate Professors to choose between 30% and 50% for teaching, 30% and 50% for research, and 15% to 25% for service. This is not a definite example or finalized – but an idea that has a lot of support so far within the department, so worth mentioning." 2. We started toying with updating our criteria and getting more explicit (that's the final document). I'm not sure it's the right way to go – it might be getting TOO detailed and making things worse.	Very explicit quantitative approach for transparency.	This is a long-used process developed by Mason faculty over a decade ago which has been updated twice over time. The first update expanded the set of candidates for evaluation (initially it was targeted primarily for associate level professors). Part of the appearance of significant complexity is due to having different tables for each rank and teaching load. Each faculty member only has to look at their specific circumstance. Dept. Chair Renshaw is reviewing UMD's psychology approach for new ideas, in response to a concern BARS has become too detailed: https://psyc.umd.edu/sites/psyc.umd.edu/files/Policy_Documents/Merit_Review_Policy_UMD_Psychology_2022.pdf.	Not present in documents provided.	Aug-15

Sociology and Anthropology (SOAN)	SOAN takes a quantitative approach in adding up scores in scholarship, teaching and service. From Dept Chair Daniel Temple: " Faculty scores in teaching, research, and service, are used to allocate a comprehensive yearly rating. The Chair is then responsible for evaluating the scores and ratings allocated to each faculty member and writing a report for each case which is submitted to CHSS. There is some flexibility built into the final scores as faculty are given the opportunity to report on important achievements that are part of ongoing research projects but may not be represented as a final product."	Point totals with specific examples are provided for all 3 categories. The Chair has final responsibility for assignment of points for each category. Faculty members are provided the opportunity to question, discuss and appear their evaluations with the Faculty Matters Committee and Chair.	There are four categories used: "Exceptional merit", "High merit", "Satisfactory", and "Unsatisfactory". Student evaluations are explicitly used as the basis for evaluating teaching. SOAN is adamantly against annual performance plans. Their quantitative approach identifies the performance in the period.	Not present in documents provided.	2021
School of Business	A very detailed annual evaluation process that applies the Sedona application, along with an Impact Statement that shows specific benefits to a specific population. Detailed descriptions of each area of their "Contribution model" are provided.	Weights and guidelines are provided for each area and each level of performance.	The School of Business applies a "contributions" model with 5 broad categories: 1. Knowledge Creation and Dissemination (Research) 2. Student Development (Teaching) 3. External Outreach and Engagement (Service) 4. Institutional Engagement (Service) 5. Professional Engagement (Service).	Not present in documents provided.	2022
Schar School	Very short summary request that includes a categorization of activities and outputs, along with a CV and bio-sketch.	No explicit evaluation criteria for how a decision is made is provided.	Four ratings levels are used, with a phrase "as required by the Provost.": Superior/Exceeds expectations, Positive Contribution/Meets Standards, Room for Growth and Improvement, Unsatisfactory. Two of the four levels are below satisfactory.	Not present in documents provided.	2022

Appendix 3: Outside Example Summaries

Outside University	Summary of Approach	Transparency Approach	Key points of interest	Performance-based?	Formative Evaluation?	Publish Date
Cornell University	Cornell has a "Mentoring, Performance and Evaluation" process that " is intended to provide guidance and support in regard to the context in which they work, peer and college expectations for reappointment, tenure, and promotion, and the ways in which they may have a successful and satisfying career in the department, the college and the university." Within 6 months of employment, a mentoring committee is organized for untenured faculty that can assist the faculty member in numerous ways, including preparing for promotion and tenure to grant writing guidance.	This process only dealt with the mentoring and formative feedback process.	The yearly meeting of the mentoring committee provides input to the annual review process. "The unit chair/director meets annually with the untenured faculty member, after which they will write a formal evaluation letter of the professor's performance."	N/A	Yes	No date listed

James Madison University	From John Burgess, Associate Vice Provost of Effectiveness and Evaluation - "JMU is working with the academic units to get their faculty evaluation and governance documents into alignment with the expectations presented in our Faculty Handbook. Part of this process is reevaluating the mechanisms we use for evaluation of teaching for faculty members. We're looking to move units to develop methods of evaluation that don't rely on student evaluations of teaching." This process was initiated by findings in a report from their task force on Racial Equity and Justice. The task force report highlighted JMU's need for more consistent practices that match the processes laid out in the Faculty Handbook. Roughly only 5% of their departments follow all the guidance laid out in the handbook. This prompted the concern of increased challenges both due to potential bias in a non-transparent process, and because faculty can successfully challenge a department not following established guidelines. The goal from John's perspective is that all academic units need to define their performance levels and how each level will be evaluated – what constitutes "excellent" over a "satisfactory" rating should be explicitly spelled out.	From the handbook, "Each academic unit must establish written procedures and criteria for initial, annual, promotion and tenure evaluations." All academic units need to define their performance levels and how each level will be evaluated – what constitutes "excellent" over a "satisfactory" rating should be explicitly spelled out. This approach can be considered transparent assuming it is followed.	In reviewing all faculty evaluation, promotion and tenure documentation from across the university, John is creating a "best practices super exemplar" document made entirely from JMU content for guidance to JMU faculty. This has a number of potential benefits: ---John is creating an exemplar of a fictional academic unit with actual credited content from JMU. This provides an exemplar from JMU that departments can copy, which hopefully leads to similar processes in academic units from the same school, for instance. ---The JMU exemplar gives explicit recognition to those academic units that developed the best approaches for evaluation. This hope is that this super exemplar from JMU content will help in generating faculty buy-in for a process many currently view with suspicion. John says it sends the message that JMU is valuing its most important resource (faculty) by leveraging their existing work for guidance.	John's current approach involves evaluating how well the current processes meet the handbook requirements. Performance-based is not included.	This process does not currently focus on formative evaluation	2022

Loyola University	Loyola University of Chicago is taking a more prescriptive approach at the University level on how LAUs evaluate the three key areas of research, teaching and service. They are looking in the percentages for the majority of the faculty, and require waivers to change the percentages. They are categorizing all faculty into three potential categories: Teaching Intensive, Research Active, or Research Intensive. A 5-point scale is instituted for each LAU as well, but the LAU is charged with developing guidelines regarding expectations for the 3 areas consistent with guidance from the University.	The LAUs are responsible for taking the top-level guidance to develop guidelines for each of the 5 levels. "Each academic unit will develop and adopt metrics or guidelines to (1) clarify what constitutes satisfactory performance on each dimension; and (2) provide indicators of better-than-satisfactory and worse-than-satisfactory performance. These guidelines must be communicated to the provost."	Three main areas causing confusion are workload percentages for the three areas, specific contributions and overarching narrative statements. They are providing additional guidance for the annual reviews for these three areas. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - They have 3 categories of faculty - 1) Teaching Intensive, 2), Research Active (most Tenure line faculty), and Research Exceptional (Gets a course release for more research). This is set at the university level instead of the LAU. Course release and course buyouts (with research funds to hire assistance for the course) are the only ways to shift the percentages. 	Yes "When a pool of funds is available for salary raises, deans consider the aggregate scores when determining how to allocate the raise pool, with higher raises typically being allocated to those with higher scores. When a pool of funds is not available for salary raises, the faculty member's score for the year will be averaged with the score for the next year in which a raise pool is available."	This process does not currently focus on formative evaluation	2014, with updated guidance in the form of a webinar and ppt presentation from 2022.

Texas A&M University	"Texas A&M rules mandate that all faculty, regardless of rank and title, be evaluated annually for their performance according to job descriptions with expectations that are set a priori. The rules specify that the annual evaluations must be provided in writing and that they encourage faculty and their department heads to discuss past achievements and shortcomings, as well as expectations for future performance. The purpose of the evaluation is multifaceted. Evaluations are the main source of information to determine merit-based salary raises." There is some mandatory guidance in creation of College faculty evaluation documents. There seems to be a detailed template that different schools follow in providing their faculty evaluation guidance. The College of Liberal Arts, the College of Geosciences and Department of Performance Studies go into similar details on what is required for each merit step, and provide detailed guidance on how the evaluation reports will be crafted. Both documents seem to have the same template numbering scheme for similar sections.	Texas A&M takes a qualitative approach and has similar challenges to transparency that qualitative approaches encounter. Their use of a shared template with key areas such as "Indicators of Faculty Excellence and Effectiveness" provide shared processes for communicating expectations for top performance. While there is detailed guidance how to craft evaluation reports, there is less guidance on the context, setting or training on how to deal with tough concerns. It still involves subjective decisions, such as where the guidance for the Department of Performance studies states, "Salary recommendations shall be based on the three criteria of research or creative work, teaching and service. Other considerations may include salary inequity, compression, and inversion."	For the Dept of Performance Studies "The Department Head shall conduct annually a review of each faculty member's performance in the areas of teaching, research or creative work, and service." The Department of Performance Studies assess faculty annually for the purpose of determining eligibility for uses three separate reports in annual evaluations prepared by review subcommittees, one for each of the 3 main areas (Research or creative work, teaching and service). A Discussion and Recommendation Report is then drafted by the chair of the review subcommittee.	Yes "Evaluations are the main source of information to determine merit-based salary raises."	The annual review process's purpose is to provide evaluative feedback regarding the faculty members performance. Formative feedback is not discussed in the documents I've reviewed so far.	2021
---------------------------------	---	--	---	--	--	-------------

University of Kentucky	This seems to be a long-standing faculty review process. The guidance is at a high level and it is not very directive toward academic units. The Provost is assigned the role to develop the performance review procedures, the Deans are responsible for the exercise of the procedures, and the colleges are the "focus points to which review procedures are delegated." Specific guidance includes the following: "A written agreement is to be developed annually between the educational unit administrator and the faculty employee on the distribution of effort expected of the faculty employee in major activities during the succeeding year." The guidance does require that at least 3 evaluative groupings are to be used "whether letter, numerical or descriptive designations". There also needs to be an appeals process.	There is little to no transparency guidance in Kentucky's approach.	"...all full-time faculty employees across all title series shall undergo faculty performance evaluation, except tenured faculty and Senior Lecturers in those colleges that conduct biennial reviews of those faculty. " Faculty reviews include a "COVID Pandemic Impact Statement" Updated guidance in the form of a Memorandum but very old handbook language (2000).	No	This process does not currently focus on formative evaluation	Actual annual review policy is dated 2000 RPT Policy is from 2016 An updated Memorandum on faculty performance reviews is dated 2021
University of North Carolina	UNC's Center for Faculty Excellence's Faculty Annual Reviews Guide is dedicated to assist faculty development throughout their career trajectory. It spends significant time describing the context from both the faculty member and the reviewer's perspective. It lays out the different roles in the process in three stages (preparation, meeting and follow-up). It prioritizes the faculty self-assessment as one of the most useful data points for evaluation.	The details of the process are laid out in significant detail. In this sense, there should be no surprises at the top level in terms of how faculty are evaluated. The specifics of the LAU approach may impact this.	Development goals are listed for the Individual faculty, the department and the university. A top-level checklist is provided for Chairs for their annual preparation. Mason's College of Public Health has largely benchmarked this guide for their own revised guide to Faculty Annual Reviews.	Merit pay is not discussed as a part of the faculty annual reviews.	UNC is explicitly tying feedback into the annual review process. Nearly 20% of the guide is spent providing guidance on feedback. While it does not link to a yearly performance-management feedback process, it does provide significant guidance on envisioning "Feedback as fuel, not friction". Guidance includes sections on giving constructive feedback in a non-judgmental way, handling difficult situations, the listening process and seeking other perspectives in seeking feedback.	No date, but includes recent resources and references.

Virginia Tech	Virginia Tech uses a faculty activity report process to collect and manage information about faculty contributions including research and scholarship, creative works, teaching, extension, outreach, administrative and service activities. Each college or business unit is responsible for managing their own faculty performance management process. https://www.hr.vt.edu/performance-management/Evaluations.html Professor Madeline Schreiber from the Geology Department is working on a smaller project, focused on pre-tenure faculty review. Specifically, she is looking to identify best practices to share for feedback across campus. This includes a review of “things that currently seem to be working well.” VT is concerned with faculty consistency in conducting pre-tenure evaluations. Currently there is significant variability across campus. The context is also similar in that VT is very decentralized in their approach to operations.	VT provides some guidance to the setting for the evaluation and provides tips for evaluators and faculty. It does not dictate that the LAUs detail specifically how they will conduct the evaluations.	VT would like to have consistent language applied to written feedback. The rationale is it's easy to either sugar coat concerns for fear of leaving a negative impression, or the opposite, where the feedback is overly negative. This is especially problematic with “post-tenure reviews” which is often considered a negative event. Striking the right balance is extremely difficult, and likely could benefit from explicit guidance provided to faculty evaluators for more consistency and better outcomes. VT uses the following ratings in their performance management system: Model Performance, Strong Performance, Developing Performance, Unacceptable Performance.	No	Feedback is an important part of Professor Schreiber’s work but is explicitly associated with the tenure decision pre-tenure, and with full professor status post tenure. The formative feedback is required on yearly basis in many departments, both for pre-tenure and within 3-5 years in a path toward promotion to full professorship. A perception on campus is many faculty after receiving tenure and often “wallow directionless” with no clear path to get full professor status.	2022

2.6.1 Annual Review of Faculty

The criteria for the annual faculty review are the same as those listed Section 2.4. Faculty are evaluated on the quality of their performance over the entire scope of their contributions during the year and in the context of their goals, assignments, and other responsibilities. Performance expectations should recognize differences in faculty assignments within the same LAU. The local unit administrator has a specific responsibility to review annually the research and scholarly activities of tenure-track faculty and to discuss both the strengths and weaknesses with them on an individual basis. The local unit administrator also has the specific responsibility to advise term faculty individually regarding their progress toward achieving reappointment or promotion.

The criteria for the annual faculty review are the same as those listed Section 2.4. Faculty are evaluated on the quality of their performance over the entire scope of their contributions during the year and in the context of their goals, assigned workload, assignments, and other responsibilities. Performance expectations should recognize differences in faculty assignments within the same LAU. The local unit administrator has a specific responsibility to ensure the annual review includes annually all job components that are part of a faculty member's assigned workload during the evaluation period. ~~the research and scholarly activities of tenure-track faculty and to discuss both the strengths and weaknesses with them on an individual basis.~~ The local unit administrator also has the specific responsibility to advise term faculty on any type of contract individually regarding their progress toward achieving reappointment, renewal, tenure, or promotion.

2.6.1 Annual Review of Faculty

New language proposed to be added to the bottom of 2.6.1

2.6.1 Annual Review of Faculty

Annual Evaluations and the RPT Process Have Distinct Functions.

~~Although~~ The Renewal, Promotion and Tenure (RPT) and faculty annual evaluations processes focus on the same general criteria (teaching; research, scholarship, creative activity; and service) and should, in general, be aligned; nevertheless, they have distinct functions.

Because faculty annual evaluations and RPT evaluations are distinct, it is important not to assume that faculty annual evaluation results will predict RPT outcomes at the level of an individual case.

2.6.1 Annual Review of Faculty The LAU administrator will meet within two weeks with any tenured or tenure-track faculty member who receives an overall unsatisfactory rating for the annual review. The purpose of the meeting is to establish a written Performance Development Plan (PDP) to restore the faculty member's overall performance to a satisfactory level according to the standards of the local academic unit.	2.6.1 Annual Review of Faculty The LAU administrator will meet within two weeks with any tenured or tenure-track faculty member who receives an overall unsatisfactory rating for the annual review. 2.6.1 Annual Review of Faculty The PDP should be finalized within 30 days of the faculty member receiving an unsatisfactory evaluation and no later than the end of the Fall semester. ITEM NUMBER:

Master of Science (MS) in Information Security and Assurance Degree Program Discontinuance

PURPOSE OF THE ITEM:

A proposal to discontinue the MS in Information Security and Assurance degree program has been prepared for submission to the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV). Prior to SCHEV submission, Board action is required.

APPROPRIATE COMMITTEE:

Academic Programs, Diversity, and University Community Committee

BRIEF NARRATIVE:

The College of Engineering and Computing is requesting permission to close the MS in Information Security and Assurance degree program and to officially cease admissions as of Spring 2024. The MS in Information Security and Assurance was initiated in 2003 as a spin-off from the MS in Information Systems degree program which is housed in the College of Engineering and Computing.

The decision to discontinue the degree program in MS in Information Security and Assurance is due to declining enrollment. Student enrollment has steadily decreased from 49 to 24 students in the past five academic years.

Students currently enrolled in the MS in Information Security and Assurance (ISA) will have the option to transition to (1) transition to the MS in Computer Science degree with a concentration in Cyber Security, where most of their ISA courses will count as part of the concentration; (2) transition to the MS in Software Engineering degree, where all of their ISA courses will count as electives; or (3) complete their current program of study in the MS in Information Security and Assurance. All coursework will continue to be offered to ensure degree completion for all students. Full-time faculty teaching in the program will not be affected because they teach and advise across programs. The Dean of the College of Engineering and Computing supports the proposal to discontinue the MS in Information Security and Assurance.

REVENUE IMPLICATIONS:

The closure of the MS in Information Security and Assurance is expected to be budget neutral.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION:

Staff recommend closure of this program.

ITEM NUMBER:

BA Astronomy Degree Program Discontinuance

PURPOSE OF THE ITEM:

A proposal to discontinue the BA in Astronomy degree designation from the BA/BS in Astronomy degree program has been prepared for submission to the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV). Prior to SCHEV submission, Board action is required.

APPROPRIATE COMMITTEE:

Academic Programs, Diversity, and University Community Committee

BRIEF NARRATIVE:

The College of Science is requesting permission to close the BA in Astronomy and to cease admissions as of Fall 2023. The BA/BS in Astronomy was initiated in Fall 2002. The BA degree program was intended to prepare students for careers in industry, business, science education, and science writing in Astronomy. The program was intended to provide students with a wide exposure to the observations, theories, and ideas across astronomy, from planetary sciences through cosmology.

The BA in Astronomy ceased enrollment in Fall 2012. Closing the degree program officially is necessary to remove it from the SCHEV Degree Inventory and therefore accurately reflect George Mason University's undergraduate program offerings. The BS in Astronomy is being retained on the degree inventory.

REVENUE IMPLICATIONS:

The closure is expected to be budget neutral, given enrollment shifts to other programs.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION:

Staff recommend closure of this program.

Subject: Emeritus/Emerita Designation for Sara Cobb

Date: March 23, 2023

On behalf of the faculty of the Carter School for Peace and Conflict Resolution, I am requesting that Sara Cobb be awarded the title of Drucie French Cumbie Professor Emerita, effective June 2, 2023, following her retirement effective June 1, 2023.

Sara Cobb is currently the Drucie French Cumbie Professor. She previously served as Director of the then Institute for Conflict Analysis and Resolution (2001-2008) and has served on the ICAR/S-CAR now Carter School faculty since 2001.

Professor Cobb is a prolific scholar who contributed to substantial growth at the Carter School. Dr. Cobb helped to create George Mason's first undergraduate program in Conflict Analysis and Resolution. She instituted administrative reforms that gave the School its first genuinely effective administrative staff, and she actively promoted trends that positioned the School as a "player" in the world of Washington, D.C., without sacrificing its political and intellectual independence.

Since coming to Mason, Dr. Cobb has published 2 books, numerous articles and has contributed to substantial sponsored program activity.

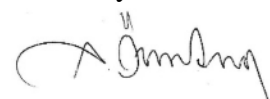

I support the Carter School's faculty recommendation to award Sara Cobb Emerita Status.

 Re: Emeritus Designation for Maria Karametou
 Date: March 24, 2023

For over two decades Professor Maria Karametou has demonstrated her dedication to the School of Art and George Mason University while maintaining an internationally celebrated professional practice. She retired as Associate Professor of Art on June 1, 2022.

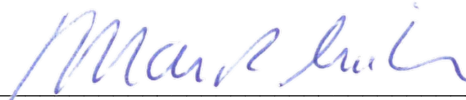

Over her tenure at Mason, Maria has taught the full range of undergraduate and graduate courses, mentored generations of drawing students and chaired multiple MFA thesis committees. As the School of Art has grown in size, diversity, and impact, Maria has been a leader in maintaining a spirit of innovation while respecting a deep commitment to foundational skills that empower all kinds of artistic practice. For example, Maria designed and delivered a new course, Non-Traditional Approaches to Drawing, which has been innovative in creating unique expressions of visual art for our students.

Maria’s service has been exceptional, reflected in her committed participation on multiple committees for the School, College, and University, as well as an academic advisor with a sizeable population of students in her care for the School of Art. She has always been willing to go the extra mile to help meet the challenges of growth and evolving pedagogy and practice in the arts.

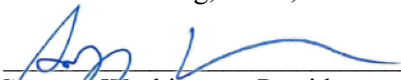

As an artist, Maria’s work demonstrates a breathtaking range of materials and styles, from painting to textiles to 3D work, always expressing an idea or an image with a keen eye for design and visual impact. The world has taken note: Maria has been the recipient of many awards such as a Fulbright Senior Research Scholar Award from the Council for the International Exchange of Scholars, the First Prize in the Maryland Biennial, and most recently an Individual Artist Grant from the Maryland State Arts Council. Professionally, her work is in permanent collections worldwide and has exhibited in museums and galleries locally, nationally, and internationally.

Maria Karametou is the kind of artist-teacher-colleague that defines the excellence of CVPA and Mason. We respectfully request the conferral of Emerita status effective May 4, 2023.

 Re: Emeritus Designation for William F. Reeder
 Date: March 24, 2023

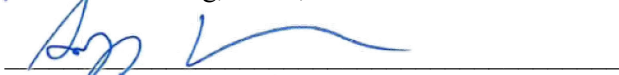

William F. (Bill) Reeder served as Founding Dean of CVPA from July 2001 through May 2015, and Heritage Professor of Arts Management from 2001 through his retirement on June 1, 2022. We respectfully request that he be named Dean and Professor Emeritus of the College of Visual and Performing Arts effective May 4, 2023.

Bill Reeder came to Mason as a respected arts leader, having held executive positions at Washington Performing Arts Society, the Levine School of Music, and the St. Louis Conservatory, among other important institutions, after a distinguished performing career as an operatic tenor in Europe. At Mason, Bill led the formative years of CVPA with a relentless spirit of innovation, fostering the creation of new degree programs in Arts Management, Computer Game Design, and Film and Video Studies, and two community-facing non-degree programs, the Mason Community Arts Academy and Mason Game and Technology Academy. He was instrumental in the planning, fundraising, and opening of the Hylton Performing Arts Center, and advocated for the designation of “Academic V” as the Art & Design Building, creating one of America’s finest classroom/studio/gallery facilities for the visual arts.

As Dean, Bill was committed to the historic Mason mission that we now call Inclusive Excellence, embracing students from all backgrounds and points of entry into the visual and performing arts. He pursued an international agenda as well, with particular attention to developing professional relationships in, and recruiting students from, China. When he stepped down as Dean in 2015, Bill took up full-time duties as a faculty member in Arts Management. His experience with Chinese students stood him and us in good stead when we experienced a sudden surge in that population coincident with the beginning of INTO-Mason. Bill made sure that this cohort received appropriate attention, instruction, and opportunity to succeed, and they did. When Arts Management experienced a leadership crisis in 2019, Bill rose to the occasion and agreed to serve as Interim Director, stabilizing the program and finding time to continue innovating in curriculum and outreach to the professional world. He continued to lead effectively during the pandemic pivot, while finding time to identify and prepare a likely successor from within the faculty ranks.

Throughout, Bill has been a mentor to many and a strong advocate for the mission of the arts at Mason. He is a strong candidate for Emeritus status in both of his roles as Dean and Professor.

BOARD OF VISITORS MINUTES

February 23, 2023

1:00pm– 1:50pm

Present:

Committee Vice Chair Moss; Rector Blackman, Vice Rector Simmi Bhuller; Visitors Peterson, Meese, Burke, Pence, Oberoi, Witeck, Chimaladinne, Hazel, Brown. President Washington, Executive Vice President Dickenson, Vice President Strike; Student Representative McDole; Faculty Chair Broeckelman-Post; Faculty Representatives Daniels and Venigalla. Committee Administrator Kalek and Secretary pro tem Waters.

Absent:

Chair Iturregui, Visitors Prowitt, Marquez, and Kazmi. Student Representative Nguyen; Faculty Representative Rogers. In the absence of Chair Iturregui Vice Chair Moss acted as Committee Chair during this meeting.

I. Call to Order:

Committee Vice Chair Moss convened the meeting at 1:03pm

II. Approval of Minutes (ACTION Item):

Committee Vice Chair Moss called for any corrections to the minutes for the December 1, 2022 meeting of the Finance and Land Use Committee that were provided to with the materials. Hearing none, the MINUTES STOOD APPROVED AS WRITTEN

III. Financial Matters:

Committee Vice Chair Moss turned the floor over to Deb Dickenson, Executive Vice President for Finance and Administration.

A. Financial Update

Ms. Dickenson gave a financial update and highlighted Mason's longstanding funding disparity, coupled with rising vendor, labor and supply costs. Commonwealth engagement is active. Ms. Dickenson highlighted Mason's current legislative funding requests and provided an update on the annual Mason Lobbies event, in which she and student leaders engaged legislators in Richmond for the first time since COVID-19. Ms. Dickenson will continue to engage Commonwealth leaders as an advocate for GMU funding.

Ms. Dickenson turned the floor over to Gene Crouch, Assistant Vice President and Treasurer, for a university S&P rating update. Per Mr. Crouch the University received positive financial news that S&P Global Ratings has raised its long-term rating to AA- for George Mason University Foundation (GMUF) bonds with a stable outlook. The rating upgrade is for GMUF's 2017 (GMUF Prince William Life Sciences Lab LLC) and 2020 (GMUF Prince William Housing LLC) taxable refunding revenue bonds. According to S&P, they "rate these bonds equivalent to the implied issuer credit rating of the university." AA is the second highest rating category for S&P, and the upgrade is based on the university's very strong enterprise profile, positive financial performance, and continued growth. Rector Blackman and Visitor Hazel both reiterated the importance of this recognition and continued positive financial management.

Frank Strike, Vice President of Facilities, provided a capital funding, which included a $4.67M funding increase for the Life Science Engineering Building and an additional $5.97M for the FUSE Building. Mr. Strike also reported that Mason Square now has new signage along Rt.66 in Virginia

B. FY 2024 Budget Update

Rene Stewart O'Neal, Vice President, Strategic Planning and Budgeting, provided an update and recommendations regarding the FY 2024 Budget. Ms. O'Neal highlighted the Mason value of access and affordability which has kept tuition increases low or flat for years. The lack of tuition increases over the years has contributed, along with lower state support, to Mason's current budget situation. To continue to provide high quality education and support and address the funding disparity the following actions were introduced:

i. FY 2024 Tuition & Fees

For FY24, the recommended tuition increase is a flat $300 per student, regardless of level or domicile, with a 3% increase in the mandatory student fees. The tuition increases for in-state undergraduates would be eliminated if Mason's broader funding requests are approved by the Commonwealth. This recommended proposal will be discussed at the April 4, 2023 Public Comment Session before it is considered for Board approval at the May 4, 2023 meeting.

ii. FY 2024 Room & Board Rates

Ms. O'Neal presented the recommended FY24 blended room & board rate increase which are 2.0% for housing and 4.5% for board, for a blended rate increase of 3.0%, or $400.00 per student. Again, balancing the pressures of economic inflation and cost escalation with an institutional commitment to affordability. This recommended proposal will be discussed at the April 4, 2023 Public Comment Session before it is considered for Board approval at the May 4, 2023 meeting. Visitor Hazel confirmed that this is not an action item for the board at this session.

Ms. Dickenson provided a comparison of GMUs peer institutions room and board rates and highlighted the engagement process for student and Board engagement. Rector Blackman opened the floor to Student Representative Ayondela McDole, who shared comments from other students that room and board costs seem to be less of a concern than security for the dorms, food options being offered on campus and at catered events and food insecurity. Visitor Peterson expressed interest in better understanding student preferences, while Vice Chair Moss wanted to ensure feedback was provided to Mason's caterers. Interim Vice President of Operations and Business Services, Patrick McCavitt and Vice President of University Life, Rose Pascarell, provided additional information about dining halls food options and provided an update on the status of the food pantry, which serves those with food security issues on-campus.

IV. Adjournment:

There being no further business, Committee Chair Moss declared the meeting adjourned at 1:49pm.

Prepared by:

ITEM NUMBER III. A:

SIX-YEAR CAPITAL PLAN (ACTION)

PURPOSE OF ITEM:

This item provides information on the upcoming annual submission of the University's Six-Year Capital Plan for Board approval.

FINANCE AND LAND USE

BRIEF NARRATIVE:

Presentation figures provide updates to projects presently in progress as well as planned projects seeking approval and/or funding. Project debt capacity for FY24 through FY28 includes a listing of existing debt, which is presently predominantly in support of Fuse at Mason Square. Approved projects in progress include actual and projected expenditures, along with the estimated completion dates for each active project. Projects seeking BOV approval include a request for authorization to expend $249M in auxiliary reserves for real estate acquisition and other projects that are ineligible for Commonwealth funding. Projects planned for Commonwealth submission have been previously approved by the BOV and are presented as an advisory for Mason's proposed FY24 Commonwealth funding request. Approved projects not in progress include those projects presently pending funding or scope development to proceed. This list additionally includes three prior authorizations that will be reverted due to change in scope or project direction.

Mason annually submits a six-year capital plan to the Virginia Department of Planning and Budget (DPB). The deadline for submission typically occurs between July and September. Building projects and critical deferred maintenance requests submitted in 2021 and 2022 will be resubmitted for FY24 Capital Budget Requests (CBRs), and will remain on Mason's prospective project list pending confirmation of funding approval. Projects proposed for FY24 Commonwealth funding approval include the following:

- Student Innovation Factory Building
- Interdisciplinary Science & Engineering Building
- Business School Building
- Critical Deferred Maintenance

Student Innovation Factory Building

This $33M request includes a Student Innovation Factory Building that will be preceded by an Engineering and Science Sector Planning Study. The new construction capital project is the first building recommended as part of the Sector Study, and will be followed by or constructed concurrently with a new Interdisciplinary Science and Engineering academic building under a separate budget request. The new Student Innovation Factory Building will be the first of several phases identified in the implementation plan for the Sector study. The Student Innovation Factory Building will be an approximately 60K GSF industrial-style pre-engineered or equivalent building to house student project space as required by CEC and COS for capstone coursework and student competition project work (e.g. sustainability projects, concrete canoe, bridge, robotics, solar car, Baja car), and other large format student design and innovation projects. Building size determination was based on comparable projects at other Research 1 institutions. The Student Innovation Factory Building will be a single story, high-bay, flexible, open warehouse space, suitable for developing and testing of land-, air- and water-based student projects. The building program will include open shop/project space, with limited enclosed tool/project storage, as well as code-based building support spaces. Site selection for this building was driven by proximity to the campus central plant in support of student project work relating to sustainability and energy efficiency, and also to leverage resources and support available by the adjacent Facilities shops.

Interdisciplinary Science & Engineering Building 1

This $165M project is an approximately 150K GSF interdisciplinary science and engineering building on the Fairfax campus. This building would provide replacement space for the future demolition of David King and Planetary Science Halls, and be the second phase of development needed to address a critical specialized instructional laboratory deficiency identified as part of Mason's recent 20-year Master Planning study. The building program includes predominantly specialized instructional wet and dry laboratory spaces, along with classrooms, collaboration and academic support spaces. The primary occupants of this new interdisciplinary building would be the College of Engineering and Computing, the College of Science, the College of Education & Human Development and the College of Visual and Performing Arts. The building would be 5-7 stories in height, and would respond to architectural elements of existing academic buildings within the campus core. It would frame a new central quad as a primary gathering space in the heart of the Fairfax campus, opposite the Johnson Student Center. Site selection allows for construction of the new building prior to demolition of 2 adjacent buildings (David King and Planetary Science Halls) with critical facility indices. Demolition of these 2 adjacent buildings is not included in the scope of this request, but would be phased in to reveal the new central quad. Circulation elements would be integrated with the new building program, based on concepts identified in Mason's 20-year Master Plan as part of the vision for the central quad.

Business School Building

The School of Business (SBUS) boasts Mason's fourth largest enrollment and second largest projected growth of the ten academic units. SBUS additionally supports the second largest undergraduate online program, the largest unit represented in Mason Korea, INTO and Advance programs. However, SBUS notably lacks a dedicated building to support their operations, enrollment and growth, as other smaller units have. SBUS maintains a significant presence on Fairfax for undergraduate programs and Arlington's Mason Square for graduate programs. SBUS at Fairfax presently relies on 44K assignable square feet (ASF) in four shared buildings on-campus and 12K ASF in off-campus lease space, all of which have reached capacity.

The proposed new $165M building will be approximately 200K gross square feet (GSF), centrally located to facilitate interdisciplinary collaboration between SBUS and other Mason Units, and a defining element of the northern quad envisioned in Mason's Master Plan. This new building would provide dedicated space to support approximately 6,500 full-time equivalent (FTE) students including approximately 2,000 FTE business majors, approximately 2,000 non-business students and 4% annual planned growth.

The building program would include dedicated teaching, collaboration and student engagement space for SBUS, plus replacement space as a result of demolition of Lecture Hall to accommodate the new building site. Replacement space would include one approximately 3,000 ASF and two approximately 1,000 ASF university shared classrooms, along with support space for those classrooms. In 2018, SBUS developed an initial space program for the building, which includes the following elements:

- Teaching spaces
 - Technology-rich classrooms
 - Trading rooms
 - Lecture halls
- Student service spaces
 - Career services
 - Student success
 - Maker space
 - Student organizations
- Engagement spaces
 - Executive development suite
 - Incubator/start-up space
 - Behavioral research lab
 - Video studio

Building elements identified during the 2018 study will inform the conceptual planning study including a Detailed Project Program and cost estimates to support project implementation.

Critical Deferred Maintenance

The University's buildings are nearing a 30-year average age and major building systems are reaching the end of their useful life. Mason Facilities has implemented a Facility Condition Assessment Program (FCAP) to physically inspect each campus building on a 3-year cycle. Based upon the FCAP's review and assuming annual maintenance reserve allocations from the Commonwealth remain consistent, over the next 5 years Mason will have a deficit in funding for critical deferred maintenance of E&G buildings of $36 million. The University is requesting a capital project to aggregate the critical deferred maintenance. Funding would be used for replacement and repair projects for all E&G buildings for the following building elements:

- Aging roofs, windows, exterior doors, and repairs to exterior wall systems
- Interior doors, flooring, and ceilings; repairs to existing fire walls; and refresh of interior painting.
- Main electrical equipment, fire alarm systems, fire pumps, and generators; and repairs to existing plumbing and fire suppression systems.
- Heating, cooling, and ventilation equipment, controls, and distribution systems at the end or beyond their useful life.
- Elevators and lifts at or beyond their useful life.
- Sidewalks and ADA repairs

The University will also take the opportunity to look for energy efficiency with the replacement of systems. These efficiencies will be assessed in the electrical equipment, HVAC equipment, and building envelope. Without the investment into these buildings, the buildings will continue to depreciate to the point where replacement will be necessary.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION:

Board approval of the proposed Six-Year Capital Plan.

ITEM IV. C.:

FY 2024 UNIVERSITY OPERATING BUDGET (ACTION)

PURPOSE OF ITEM:

The University's proposed budget reflects revenue and expense plans for the 2023-2024 academic year, including tuition, room and board rates, and fee rates.

APPROPRIATE COMMITTEE: FINANCE AND LAND USE

BRIEF NARRATIVE:

Since the General Assembly has not yet finalized the FY2024 State budget, three budget scenarios for July 1, 2023 through June 30, 2024 (FY 2024) are being recommended. Each scenario incorporates different assumptions for State General Fund Appropriations, State authorized salary increase and variations on the $300 tuition increase. The FY24 Operating budget will be balanced within a range of $1.35-$1.39B. It is anticipated that the FY24 State budget, once passed, will provide funding allocations to Mason to support one of these three scenarios, or to support a budget within this overall range. Once the General Assembly passes the FY24 State budget, an amended FY24 Operating Budget will be presented for approval.

These budget scenarios are presented as All Funds budgets, and include: Educational & General; Auxiliary Enterprises; Grants & Contracts; and Other Operating and Non-Operating Revenues. Please note that the Capital Budget is not included.

The operating budget scenarios represent increases ranging from $55M-$95M (4.2%-7.3%) over the FY23 budget, from $1.295B (FY23) to $1.35-$1.39B (FY24). The projected FY24 operating budget shortfalls, ranging from $11M-$50M, will be mitigated with a unit-level base budget reduction plan, strategic reallocations and planned use of reserves to manage to a balanced budget.

The total price for an undergraduate student living on-campus (including tuition, fees, room, and board) is proposed at $27,335 for in-state and $51,499 for out-of-state undergraduates, an increase over the previous year of $300 for all full-time students regardless of residency and level, $111 increase in the mandatory student fee for undergraduate and graduate students, and a $400 increase in the average room and board costs for each.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION: Staff recommends Board of Visitors approval of the proposed 2023-2024 budget ranges, including tuition, room and board rates, and fee rates.

Capital Projects Review

This section provides the regular report on the status of capital construction projects on all three university campuses. The project “stoplight” chart provides a summary review. For purposes of black and white printing, all stoplights are “Green” unless otherwise noted. Scoring definitions:

- “Red”: Likely to exceed approved budget, schedule, or scope
- “Yellow”: At risk to exceed approved budget, schedule, or scope, but can still recover
- “Green”: Within approved budget, schedule, or scope
- “White”: on-hold

Changes/updates since the February 2023 report include:

- Horizon Hall - Construct/Renovate Robinson Hall, New Academic and Research Facility and Harris Theater – Removed in this session as the project is completed.
- Improve Utility Distribution Infrastructure Fairfax – Removed in this session as the project is completed.
- Fuse at Mason Square (IDIA HQ) – Underground work was completed with the last grade beams placed in late March 2023. Work on slab on grade and elevated parking deck is now in process. It is anticipated the slab on grade work will be complete in May. It is anticipated the concrete structure will top out in late Fall 2023. Currently the project is projected at 81 calendar days behind schedule. MIP is in the process of finalizing a recovery schedule with options to mitigate as much time as possible. The team has indicated they will not be able to cost effectively mitigate the full delay but it is likely possible to mitigate over 30 calendar days of that delay by completing most if not all of the placement of pre-cast during an overnight shift. The current schedule to finish the core and shell of the building is June of 2024 (unimpacted) with substantial completion of the Mason fit out space following in December 2024 (unimpacted). It is likely there will remain a delay to both Core and Shell and Fit Out. The goal is to finalize decision making on costs and actual delay time in the next one to two months. Mason will install furniture fixtures and equipment in the Spring of 2025 with full occupancy planned for summer of 2025.
- Life Sciences Engineering Building (Bull Run Hall IIIB) – In February 2021, Mason received notice of approval from the Commonwealth to add $30M for an additional floor to the three-story building design, and make programmatic changes that better align the new building with the master plan vision for the SciTech Campus. An early release Guaranteed Maximum Price (GMP) contract was issued to Skanska on May 24, 2022. Skanska broke ground on site on August 31, 2022. We have a negotiated GMP Contract and are able to get started with the building to try and meet a new scheduled completion (December 2024). Skanska is making good progress now and the Structure is will top out at the end of May. We were successful in making a case to DEB through the Pool Appeal process to obtain an additional 5% of funding ($4,670,650). This has replenished our soft costs and eliminated the $1M cash infusion we had proposed to infuse, but is still not enough for the backfill work. We have received final approval of the full building working drawings and are approved for the final permit. Current total funding is now $107,123,650.

- Telecom Infrastructure Phase 1 – Work on Packages 1 (work inside buildings) and Package 3 (new West Campus Core Switch Building) has started. The completion date for the new Package 3 building will be impacted by the long lead times for the generator and computer room air conditioning units (both around a 40 week lead time) and has been extended. The bid for Package 2 for outside plant (new IT ductbanks) came in substantially over budget and will be re-bid in May.
- Johnson Center HVAC Repairs – Construction contract was fully executed on March 15, 2023. Contractor site inspection and logistics review was conducted on March 23, 2023. Preconstruction meeting was held on April 06, 2023. Contractor is currently working on project schedule, submittals and site logistic plan.
- Central Heating and Cooling Plant Capacity Expansion – DEB Working Drawing review comments were received on February 22, 2023. Comments were addressed by AE and submitted back to DEB on March 03, 2023. On March 15, 2023 DEB returned additional structural drawing review comments that did not affect design. Structural comments were addressed by AE and submitted to DEB for review on April 07, 2023. When DEB review is complete, we will move the project into the bid phase. The project is currently tracking for a summer 2023 construction start. The equipment lead-time is currently 52 weeks.
- Aquatic & Fitness Center Capital Renewal – Working Drawing are under review by the permitting office. Project will be bid at the end of April. A portion of the work (tile repairs, painting, lighting, roofing, skylights) will be performed over the Summer of 2023 and longer lead time items (HVAC equipment, bulkhead replacement) will be installed over the Summer of 2024.
- Telecom Infrastructure Phase 2 – A/E team has been selected; however, based upon the bid results of Phase 1, we had to work to correctly scope the project. The scope is agreed upon and we will make the award to the A/E team in April, 2023.
- Telecom Infrastructure Phase 3 – Responses for to RFP for A/E services were received 4/13/23 and will be reviewed by the selection committee
- Activities Building – A detailed planning study was completed by Capital Strategies and Planning. As a result, the project was approved to proceed as an $11M project. DEB granted permission to use Design-Build for the procurement of this building. Mason has solicited an RFQ for Design Build Services. We have received two responses to the RFQ: Davis Construction and Hoar Construction. We are in the process of evaluating the responses and will short list both GC's to move forward to the RFP stage.
- Construct Basketball Training, Wrestling, and Athlete Academic Support (RAC Addition) – Commonwealth has approved project for $15.5M of fundraising. We believe that this project will have a budget of $30M, with approximately $25M of which will be allotted to this addition and $5M for improvements at EagleBank that will follow after the basketball office space is vacated in Eagle Bank Arena. Work has begun by Capital Strategies and Planning on the detailed planning program. Mason would like to use Design-Build as the delivery method for this building, which will require permission from DEB.

- Real Estate Acquisitions – Discussed in closed session.
- Academic VIII – Project approved for planning only and contingent upon Mason providing seed funding. Project awaiting internal authorization to proceed.
- Virtual Online Campus – Project approved for planning only and contingent upon Mason providing seed funding. Project awaiting internal authorization to proceed. Planning to revert authority at end of fiscal year.
- Point of View Cottages – Commonwealth has approved $4M of funding for this project to match a target of $4M of fundraising. Project is awaiting funding and internal authorization to proceed.
- Construct Student Housing Fairfax PPEA – Commonwealth has approved project for PPEA solicitation. Project awaiting internal authorization to proceed. Planning to revert authority at end of fiscal year.
- Construct Fairfax Mixed Use Development PPEA – Commonwealth has approved project for PPEA solicitation. Project awaiting internal authorization to proceed. Planning to revert authority at end of fiscal year.
- Renovations Concert Hall – Higher Education Capital Outlay (HECO) authority approved to proceed on a $25M renovation to the Concert Hall on the Fairfax Campus. The funding is based upon donations. Project is awaiting funding and internal authorization to proceed.
- Business School Building – HECO authority approved to proceed on a $165M and 200K GSF building for the School of Business on the Fairfax Campus. The funding is based upon donations. Project is awaiting funding and internal authorization to proceed.

Chair Chimaladinne read a special announcement to the committee members. The Office of University Life was hosting a spring career fair on campus today. The fair is a wonderful opportunity to meet with alumni and students from both our local and international communities. Today's fair concentrates on our international business, government and non-profit industry sectors. The event will begin at noon in the Johnson Center.

Chair Chimaladinne advised that he had attended a University Life career fair last fall and greatly enjoyed it. He encouraged the Visitors to attend as well.

II. Approval of Development Committee Meeting Minutes from December 1, 2022 (ACTION ITEM)

Chair Chimaladinne confirmed the committee meeting had reached a quorum. The chair called for any changes or edits to the meeting minutes from December 1, 2022. There were none. There being none, the minutes from December 1, 2022, were APPROVED AS WRITTEN.

Chair Chimaladinne introduced the committee to Mr. Sumeet Shrivastava, the vice chair of the George Mason University Foundation (Foundation). Vice Chair Shrivastava delivered an update regarding recent Foundation and Board of Trustees activities during the past two months.

III. New Business

A. George Mason University Foundation Chairman Update – Sumeet Shrivastava

Vice Chair Shrivastava stated the following report to the Visitors present.

Board of Trustees

The spring board cycle will conclude with a full board meeting on March 2, 2023.

A number of the trustees recently had an opportunity to attend the National Leadership Forum in January at the Association of Governing Boards conference. It afforded the trustees a chance to connect with peers in the commonwealth, explore best practices in board governance, and participate in activities to continue to strengthen the Foundation's partnership with the University.

The newly formed Advancement and University Priorities Committee met twice and continue their conversations on how the board can best advocate for Mason for the upcoming campaign.

The Investment Committee received the annual report on the Student Managed Investment Fund. The fund returned a negative 18.18 percent for the calendar year, compared to their benchmark, the S&P 500, of a negative 18.10 percent.

The committee reviewed the mid-year investment portfolio results. CornerStone Partners provided an endowment portfolio and performance update. The endowment returned 3.0 percent through December 31, and is currently valued at approximately $160 million.

The restricted portfolio returned -0.67 percent through December 31, compared to the benchmark of -0.26 percent, and provided a yield of 0.84 percent, which is consistent with budget expectations. The advisors continue to expand allocation ranges to decrease portfolio risk given the availability of higher risk-free yields.

The Audit Committee reviewed the Foundation's Fiscal Year (FY) 2022 tax filings: the IRS Form 990 and Form 990-T. These comprehensive informational and tax filings reflect well on the Foundation, its governance, and fiscal stewardship.

The committee also discussed the Foundation's continuing enterprise risk management process. The committee will review this in detail during the spring board cycle.

The Finance and Real Estate Committee reviewed the mid-year financial results compared to budget. Revenue and expenditures are in line with budget expectations. The Committee performed its annual review of the Foundation's long-term debt. In addition, the committee reviewed the Foundation's insurance coverage and received an update on the budget status of the database implementation.

Lastly, the Nominating and Governance Committee reviewed six nominations for new trustees. The committee advanced five candidates for approval by the Full Board, pending interviews and the candidates' acceptance of the nomination. We anticipate the pool will result in three to five engaged, excited and well qualified trustees. We continue to work towards our goals to increase diversity, skillsets, and alumni members, as well as broaden representation across Mason's colleges and schools.

Vice Chair Shrivastava welcomed questions from the Visitors. Chair Chimaladinne asked the Visitors if there were any questions for the Foundation.

Visitor Jimmy Hazel asked Vice Chair Shrivastava if the Trustees were having conversations to discuss their planned support of the campaign, Vice Chair Shrivastava confirmed they were, and recent workshops held by the new Advancement and University Priorities Committee, along with the guidance of the Office of Advancement, have been instrumental in helping the Trustees learn how to tell their Mason stories and advocate in the community. Visitor Hazel advised that these sorts of discussions significantly helped in launching the Faster, Farther campaign and in making it such a success.

Chair Chimaladinne asked if any of the Visitors had any other questions. There were none. Vice Chair Shrivastava thanked Chair Chimaladinne for his time before the Visitors. Visitor Hazel said that the conversation had been very helpful.

Chair Chimaladinne introduced Ms. Trishana Bowden, vice president of the Office of University Advancement and Alumni Relations. Ms. Bowden provided an update on the recent activities of the department and shared several highlights of recent events.

B. University Advancement and Alumni Relations Update – Trishana Bowden
Ms. Bowden opened with a quote from, Abraham Lincoln:

“Things may come to those who wait, but only the things left by those who hustle.”

The Advancement Team at George Mason has a strong hustle game, and we have had a productive start to 2023. With Mason’s $1 billion campaign launch just around the corner, we are not waiting for things to come our way but are instead seizing every opportunity.

Our alumni are fully engaged with Mason, which was on full display during our Homecoming from February 10 to February 18. The campus was energetic as alumni and friends participated in virtual and on-campus activities, including our annual Alumni Homecoming tent. The Graduates of the Last Decade (GOLD), hosted a happy hour at Bowlero in Tysons Corner, in addition to our affinity chapters hosting various happy hours on Friday night.

We are hosting a pre-game reception before the men’s basketball game against the University of Richmond on March 4, and we hope to see many of our Visitors there.

On January 25, we connected alumni with the government at the Mason Legislative Reception. The Alumni Association partnered with Mason’s Government and Community Relations team to host the gathering in-person for the first time since 2019. More than 75 legislators, alumni, alumni-legislators, and the Secretary of Education for the commonwealth joined us for a productive and successful event.

The Northrop Grumman Corporate Alumni Network kick-off event on February 2, included more than 117 Northrop Grumman Mason alumni who joined us for the launch. We are excited to grow this network and the opportunities it presents for our graduates and the university.

On March 1, we will host members of the information technology consulting company, CGI, at their own dedicated night at Mason, in collaboration with Rector Horace Blackman. We will host a pre-game reception for CGI Mason alumni and then head to the game to celebrate our Men’s Basketball seniors, and cheer our Patriots to victory over Fordham University.

We also hope our alumni will engage in a few other upcoming events that support our community.

First is Mason Vision Day on April 6. Mason Vision Day is an opportunity for the community to unite around one deserving initiative on campus. The Mason Vision Day Fund reflects what we value as a university, and this year, the Mason Vision Day Fund will address food insecurity. Many of you know, food security affects millions of people in the United States, including students on campuses across the country, we hope you will support our work for this important cause.

Second, the Hylton Center Gala will be held in late April and will honor steadfast Mason supporters, The Jacquemin Family Foundation and Carlos Castro, a Prince William County business community pioneer.

Funds from the Gala support the performances and programs of the Hylton Center, including the Veterans and the Arts Initiative. This year's exciting event features a live auction package with the Green Machine, including dinner with Doc Nix and court-side tickets. We encourage all Board Members not to miss out and consider supporting this year's event by purchasing a table or tickets, especially in honor of former Board of Visitors member John Jacquemin.

Lastly, we want to share with you some of the strategizing that is being done to make sure our upcoming $1 billion campaign is a brilliant success.

In partnership with The Compass Group, idFive, and the Advancement Team, we've been conducting workshops on campaign readiness, presenting to volunteers, staff, and faculty leadership. This process activates them and prepares them for their role in the campaign. In addition, constituent data, including new wealth screening information, has been sent to our consultants Marts & Lundy to perform a campaign capacity analysis of the data to inform the identification of top university, college, and school prospects that will facilitate campaign planning and analysis.

Finally, the Advancement Research team is working diligently to identify and disperse alumni prospect leads across all areas of Advancement to facilitate increased alumni giving and engagement. The Next 500 Project highlights existing top prospects and new proactively identified prospects that require strategy formulation and timely outreach from our Advancement teams. The project's title stems from the idea that these names are among the next 500 top prospects beyond the first top 100 for the campaign. Our initial focus is on contacts for which recent outreach and engagement can be improved.

We are building a successful foundation to launch this campaign. Thank you to everyone in this room who has contributed to its strategy and development thus far.

Ms. Bowden asked the Visitors to save the evening of Thursday, April 20, on their calendars. It is the date of Mason's planned Campaign Leadership Launch event at the Ritz-Carlton. She closed with a thank you to all Visitors who have helped us.

Ms. Bowden asked everyone present to congratulate Mason's President Dr. Gregory Washington, who has recently won two awards, the Washington Business Journal's Diversity in Business award, and his election to the prestigious National Academy of Engineering.

Chair Chimaladinne asked the Visitors if they had any more questions for Ms. Bowden.

Vice Chair Simi Buller provided a compliment on a recent Advancement event she had attended. She encouraged other Visitors to attend as well.

Hearing that there were no more questions, Chair Chimaladinne thanked Ms. Bowden and invited Dean Ajay Vinzé, Dean of the School of Business, to speak regarding the school's recent fundraising initiatives.

C. School of Business Initiatives – Dean Ajay Vinzé

Dean Ajay Vinzé introduced himself and spoke about his current role at Mason and his background. The Dean encouraged the Visitors to ask questions as he proceeded with his presentation. His presentation was intended to provide the Visitors with a highlight of how he was steering the School of Business in a particular direction. He and the school are paying very close attention to the path they are laying out. Important attributes will be engagement and interdisciplinary.

Dean Vinzé ran down a brief overview of School of Business facts and statistics. Most importantly 68 percent of the school's alumni are within a 50-mile radius of Mason. We can have great impact in our own backyard.

Dean Vinzé shared the sources of his personal inspiration, the book "The Fight for Fairfax", a stirring story of how local business and community leaders led the charge to establish George Mason as a four-year university, and bring much-needed higher education to the region. Additionally, Mason's Strategic Direction plan, "All Together Mason is Different" also motivates him. His personal tag line is, "Everything is Business", meaning everything ties or leads back to the business industry.

The Dean stressed that Mason needs to interact with all sectors of the business community to achieve success. We need to engage by listening and soliciting community input and advice. Dean Vinzé ran through a brief list of business exemplars Mason has been interacting with to date.

The School of Business surmises that change is imminent. Mason will address it through our innovation and technology. We want to become a nationally consequential university and a significant player in higher education everywhere. We want to be able to successfully manage societal expectations and institutional culture change in terms of how we view higher education. Globalization is key. We keep these factors in mind as we strategize.

Changing expectations and large demographic shifts are coming to education and business. Significant differences in generational core values and experiences are becoming apparent. Young adults and teens today spend about 10,080 hours in the classroom setting, if they go to every class from the sixth to the twelfth grade. That is the same amount of time they spend online at games. So, the expectations of these students are fundamentally different in terms of what they're expecting of education and how they are expecting to be educated.

Big foundational technologies, such as the internet, social media, mobile cloud, etc., are changing the landscape. Coupled with new accelerators, they are creating tremendous growth. There are incredible new opportunities, but they are coupled with enormous challenges.

The School of Business is concentrating on positioning itself with a set of strategic priorities. We will focus on the student experience and career readiness. We will emphasize impactful research. Explore modular education, lifelong learning and global engagement. We will search to participate in innovative business collaborations and seek inclusive excellence within a cohesive culture. These are all "must do" priorities, all in a setting that is inclusive.

The dean briefly explained a "work cloud" slide panel demonstrating the topic of educational challenges for the School of Business. Dominate words included innovation, design, social media, interaction design, collaboration, art and technology.

Dean Vinzé shared his favorite quote by American commentator Thomas L. Friedman. "Competition that will force every professor (university) to improve their pedagogy or face the competition (for extinction)...When outstanding becomes so easily available, average is over."

The dean discussed the school's Four Rings of Innovation. He elaborated on each one in further detail.

- Technology Innovation
- Product and Service Innovation
- Process Innovation
- Business Model Innovation

In the not-so-distant future there will be greater student choice, customized to their lifestyle and learning style. There will be online fully-digitized curriculum available, one set of learning outcomes with multiple pedagogies. Dean Vinzé presented a slide with titles of a variety of new forms and methods of educational delivery highlighted.

Transformation will require Mason to do more for our students. Using the Process and Business Innovation Model, an important point comes to light. When viewed from the standpoint of business and consumer behavior, why would Mason students want to come here? Dean Vinzé and the School of Business hope to launch this new business initiative educational plan in about a year.

Students are already starting to consume education in different ways from the past, paying for only what they want, getting business certificates. They can cross connect their education with other disciplines, like health, to have a custom education. We will have to adapt and learn how to deliver information and education in the ways the students want to consume it.

The dean formally asked the Visitors for their support, encouragement and resources to meet this challenge, by working hand-in-hand with Advancement to communicate our ideals. He advised the Visitors they were provided with take-away packets containing our outline of Business 101. The School of Business would love to have the Visitors as a partner in these plans, and desires their ideas and feedback as well.

Dean Vinzé closed with the school's new tag line, "We are 'Open for Business!'" Chair Chimaladinne asked the Visitors if they had any more questions for Dean Vinzé.

Visitor Jon Peterson asked, "Do you want students to personalize their own degrees? Can we approve them internally, or is that an issue for SCHEV?" The dean said they have talked with State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV), the Virginia Commonwealth's coordinating body for higher education. If they need SCHEV approval it will take a year longer to implement the program. What we have done is adapted an existing approved program, that doesn't need their pre-approval. We can test our educational hypothesis and go back to SCHEV with the end results. The dean stated that he had just attended a School of Business conference for deans where half a dozen or more schools are doing the same thing. Mason is getting a lot of questions from other universities. Potentially our schools could cross pollinate.

Dean Vinzé concluded his presentation and thanked the committee. Chairman Chimaladinne asked the Visitors if they had any further questions for the dean. There were none.

Chairman Chimaladinne thanked Dean Vinzé for his presentation to the committee.

Chair Chimaladinne introduced Mr. Adam Bart, associate vice president of the Office of University Advancement, overseeing management of fundraising activities in the schools and colleges. Mr. Bart provided a report on the current activities of the $1 billion fundraising campaign and plans for a leadership campaign launch event on April 20, 2023.

IV. University Advancement Campaign Update – Mr. Adam Bart

Mr. Adam Bart made a brief personal introduction. He recently came to Mason after a 30-year career in Los Angeles. He left California to be closer to family residing in the area. During his job search, he noticed that the D.C., Maryland, Virginia (DMV) area had numerous educational campaign launches in the works. He was particularly impressed by his visit to Mason and was drawn to Dr. Washington's podcast and vision for the university.

Mason needs resources to realize this vision. There will be three phases to the timeline of the coming campaign. Mr. Bart brought up a slide illustration panel that outlined the phases in greater detail and referred to it as he spoke. He stated Mason needs to think big, and we need to train our fundraisers to ask for big gifts. Our, new, more robust Customer Relationship Management (CRM) software will contribute greatly to our success and be an essential tool for this task. Advancement has tapped the deans for their big ideas which have come with a big price tag. We need to come up with realistic benchmarks to reach those goals, and look to our past for previous examples of success.

Mason is very heavily dependent on the Mercatus Center and the Antonin Scalia Law School for donations. We need a better-balanced portfolio. Mr. Bart discussed the formulas he used to determine the goal benchmarks, and discussed Advancement's benchmark strategy in greater depth.

Mr. Bart shared with the Visitors that they, along with key leadership stakeholders in the area, have been invited to Mason's campaign launch event on Thursday, April 20, at the Ritz-Carlton in Tysons Corner. We hope that all of Mason's Visitors will have an opportunity to attend. We will also hold launch events elsewhere in the DMV community, and across the country within our networks. We need to find the right alumni to attend these events, and we need the Visitors to assist by bringing the right people to the table.

Mr. Bart alluded to the final campaign stage, the capstone phase – this is the fun part, he advised, where we celebrate our campaign achievements and success with parties and festivities, and we share with you the feedback we have learned.

What we ask from the Visitors today is to be Mason story tellers, not fundraisers. Share with the community why you chose to get involved with Mason at this level. We would like you to introduce us to your strategic partners, and bring them to our events and encourage them to become ambassadors/fundraisers for Mason as well. To assist in this request, Mr. Bart brought the Visitors attention to a book that had been placed at each of their seats. Written by Eloise Brice, "I'll Do Anything, Just...Don't Make me Fund-Raise", it is a guide for reluctant fundraising volunteers. Advancement hopes that this book will be a useful aid and tool in crafting each Visitors' distinct Mason story.

Chairman Chimaladinne thanked Mr. Bart for his presentation. Chairman Chimaladinne asked the Visitors for any further questions for Mr. Bart. There were none.

V. Old Business

Chairman Chimaladinne asked the Visitors if there was any Old Business to discuss. There was none. There being none, Chairman Chimaladinne asked to move the meeting to adjournment.

VI. Adjournment

Chairman Chimaladinne adjourned the meeting at 9:22 AM.

Early Identification Program

Established in 1987, Early Identification Program (EIP) serves as the college preparatory program of George Mason University. With over 2,100 students who have graduated from the program, EIP provides access to educational resources for middle and high school students who will be the first in their families to attend a college or university. Currently, more than 750 middle and high school students are enrolled and actively pursuing higher education due to funding from corporate alliances, individual donors, and in partnership with seven local public school systems in Northern Virginia. They include Alexandria City, Arlington County, Falls Church City, Fairfax County, Manassas City, Manassas Park City and Prince William County; who collaborate to nominate, select, support, retain, and graduate students each year.

The criteria for nomination includes being the first in the family to graduate from a college or university and having the academic potential to enroll in a pre-college curriculum in high school. Additional considerations are also given to students who have a strong academic record but are facing special family circumstances, are eligible for free or reduced lunches, are from a single parent family, and have a limited or non-English speaking family.

After their nomination and selection in 7th grade, EIP participants begin a five-year program of college preparation. By providing year-round academic enrichment, personal and social development, civic engagement, and leadership training opportunities, EIP ensures that students are equipped with the knowledge, skills, and intellect to become lifelong learners, leaders, and responsible global citizens. One hundred percent (100%) of EIP's 2022 class graduated from high school, 97% of the students were accepted into college. Forty-six (46) of those students are currently enrolled at George Mason University, and 95% of students enrolled at Mason were awarded scholarships. There are currently 200+ EIP Alumni enrolled at Mason. EIP Mason students continue their post-secondary education to accomplish their goal of being the first in their family to obtain a college degree.

The Early Identification Program has received numerous awards and recognitions over the years, including the Arlington County Public Schools Volunteer & Partnership Program (2013), the Alexandria City Public Schools Partner in Education recognition (2010), and being present at the White House for the signing of the High Hopes for College legislation in 1998. In addition, George Mason University's Early Identification Program has been selected as the Virginia Career Preparedness Award recipient for the ACT College and Career Readiness Campaign for outstanding achievement in College and Career Readiness for 2016- 2017. The Early Identification Program was also featured on Spotlight for Education on ABC Channel 7 news.

The Jack Wood Award for Town-Gown Relations is a university and community-wide annual award program to recognize both Mason and community individuals and groups, as well as government, businesses, and not-for-profits who demonstrate leadership in fostering mutually beneficial relationships between the university and the community during the past year.

The award is named for John C. "Jack" Wood, Mayor of the Town of Fairfax from 1953-1964. Mayor Wood was the driving force for arranging a campus to be located on land adjacent to the town and deeding it to the Commonwealth of Virginia for the university, thus beginning a Town-Gown relationship.

FACULTY/STAFF CATEGORY

Dr. Christy Esposito-Smythers, Professor, Psychology, leads the Center for Evidence-Based Behavioral Health at Mason. Under her leadership, Dr. Esposito-Smythers has brought faculty and graduate students together with community mental health agencies and clinicians to merge leading evidence-based treatments for behavioral health problems with the specific needs and circumstances of our region, and has developed training tailored for clinicians in the Northern Virginia region. As a result, over 1,000 clinicians are trained in evidence-based approaches. Moreover, the work has led to a three-year grant to add training in treatments for eating disorders and nearly $1M in federal funding to help community agencies develop and implement "measurement-based care." This partnership is unique not only regionally but nationally, and it offers a model for bringing together academic institutions and community agencies to address community mental health.

COMMUNITY MEMBER CATEGORY

Jennifer Disano has served on Fall for the Book's Board of Directors for nearly 10 years and is its current board chair. Under her direction and through her advocacy, the festival has thrived as a major town-gown event. She has been instrumental in increasing Fall for the Book's support from the City of Fairfax, fostered collaborations across campus and community groups in Fairfax, overseen Fall for the Book's expansion in off-season programming done in partnership with the City of Fairfax, and is steering the board preparations for Fall for the Book's 25th anniversary festival in October 2023. Disano is also Chairman of the Board of Advisors of George Mason University Libraries. Her connections across the campus and the Fairfax community have strengthened ties between the two on a number of levels and her work continues to serve as an important point of connection between George Mason and Fairfax.

BUSINESS/NONPROFIT CATEGORY

Northern Virginia Food Rescue, which was led by Interim Executive Director and Mason alumna, Erika Spalding, from July 2022 - January 2023, answered the call during the December SciTech Campus Advisory Board meeting when President Washington called on members of the board to support the Patriot Pantry, which was in dire need of food donations. Erika and the Northern Virginia Food Rescue immediately pledged and delivered 1000 pounds of food. They also made it possible for the Patriot Pantry to become affiliated with the Capital Area Food Bank network so that the pantry would never run out of food in the future. Since the Patriot Pantry provides food for needy Mason students, Erika and the Northern Virginia Food Rescue's actions have eliminated the recurring problem of food insecurity for many Mason students in the future.

PARTNERSHIP CATEGORY (an initiative created between a Mason entity and an external organization(s) to benefit both entities)

“Made in Arlington” Market Pop-Ups at Mason Square is a partnership between Arlington Economic Development (AED), long-time partners of Mason, and George Mason University Mason Square. The current expansion of Mason Square in Arlington brought with it an opportunity for AED to play an additional emerging role in higher education.

Beginning with discussions on activating Mason Square and bringing the community into the experience, AED’s ‘Made in Arlington’ Initiative, led by Susan Soroko, was a catalyst to new interactions and vitality. Working closely with Mason’s Toni Andrews, Melissa Thierry, Una Murphy, Amanda Harrison, Sara Hawes, and Sophie Gorshenin, this partnership group made a series of pop-up retail markets on campus a reality. Bringing artisans and makers to Mason Square signaled a relationship that goes beyond a market location - it is economic development at its best.

From a campus and student life perspective, ‘Made in Arlington’ is a natural complement to the goals and vision of Mason Square. Students enjoy interacting with the artisans as they learn about true entrepreneurial spirit while supporting small local businesses.

Since February 2022, Mason Square hosted five successful Market Pop-ups in partnership with ‘Made in Arlington’, bringing over 50 small business entrepreneurs to campus and engaging with over 2,000 students, faculty, staff, and Arlington community members.

INNOVATION CATEGORY (a specialty award that acknowledges a short-term town-gown program that is created to meet a timely need)

George Mason University’s Safety, Emergency, & Enterprise Risk Management (SEERM) team and the Fairfax County Health Department (FCHD) have a longstanding collaborative relationship, born out of necessity and shared interest in the health and well-being of our shared communities. When the COVID-19 pandemic began, Mason’s leadership tapped SEERM to serve as the lead unit in managing and operationalizing Mason’s pandemic planning, response, and recovery. SEERM leadership quickly leveraged Mason’s strong existing relationship with FCHD to enhance Mason’s response to the pandemic by incorporating FCHD’s public health expertise, situational awareness, and access to the vaccine. Conversely, Mason was able to augment FCHD vaccine efforts by expanding access to the COVID vaccine through Mason's mass vaccination clinics, mobile clinics, and ultimately routine vaccine clinics that are still in operation today. Mason was also able to provide testing to our community which alleviated some of the burdens on the regional and county testing sites.

Once the vaccine became available to the community, SEERM leadership seized the opportunity to support regional public health efforts by providing university resources (including facilities, equipment, funding, volunteers, faculty, staff, and students) to support FCHD in vaccine distribution to the community.

This partnership ultimately led to FCHD entrusting Mason with enough vaccine supplies to operate the region's second-largest mass vaccination clinic capable of offering up to 3,000 vaccines per day for the regional community, as well as Mason students, faculty, and staff.

ELECTED OFFICIAL/GOVT. STAFF CATEGORY

David L. Meyer has demonstrated leadership in fostering mutually beneficial relationships between the University and surrounding communities, including residential, business, and government communities over the course of his three terms as mayor from 2017 – 2022, and five terms prior on Fairfax City Council from 2008-2017. Through his leadership on the Fairfax Campus and Community Advisory Board (FCCAB), where he served multiple times as Chair, he led a group of representatives from the City of Fairfax, Fairfax County, and the University to help identify and promote relationships and programs in support of joint initiatives; provide recommendations concerning university-community issues and relations; and address and resolve issues of community and university concern at the earliest possible time.

Mayor Meyer constantly looked for ways to engage Mason students and connect them to the City of Fairfax through a CUE bus promotions campaign with Student Government, Patriot in the City videos, welcoming video remarks to newly admitted students, and participating in Career Services opportunities as a discussion panelist for Government Industry Sector students. He has been a supportive, dedicated, and knowledgeable collaborator and partner in helping to make the region a great place to live, work, and do business.

LEGACY AWARD (The Legacy Award recognizes leadership achievement in town-gown relations over a period of time longer than five years.)

Delegate Kenneth R. "Ken" Plum, who in addition to being a member of the House of Delegates from 1982 to the present, was employed by Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) as Director of Adult and Community Education from 1966 - 1996. In his capacity with FCPS, Ken sought opportunities to partner with community organizations and institutions to expand services within the community.

In the late 1980s, Ken worked with members of the Fairfax County Council on Aging about the need to provide programs and services engaging retirees in the community through programming suited to their intellectual interests in a noncredit format.

In 1990, Ken and members of the aging community started discussing the need for lifelong learning. The result was a request to the University to accommodate such an effort. Ken provided technical assistance to a Board that was formed and helped set up its charter, goals, and objectives.

The resulting program became the Lifelong Learning Institute at Mason, later renamed the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI Mason), in which Ken has taught many courses regarding the history and government of Virginia. OLLI Mason recently celebrated its 30-year anniversary, having brought thousands of senior citizens and retirees to the campus and engaging them with the University community in endless ways.

Rector Blackman called the meeting to order at 10:30 a.m.

II. FY 2024 Financial Plan

Deb Dickenson, Executive Vice President for Finance and Administration, presented on the FY 2024 financial plan. Ms. Dickenson highlighted the following items:

- FY 2024 Financial Plan, Proposed Tuition & Fees:
 - This is the proposed plan for consideration of approval at the Board meeting on May 4, 2023.
 - The plan is consistent to what was provided at the February 23, 2023 Board meeting and at the student tuition townhall on March 21, 2023.
- Mason's Strengths / Mason Is Rising:
 - Ranked first in Virginia for Innovation.
 - In the top 10 for undergraduate cybersecurity among public universities.
 - On January 9, 2023 Mason hosted a hands-on CyberSlam event for high school students which was led by Liza Wilson Durant, Associate Dean for Strategic Initiatives and Community Engagement. There was participation from 400 students from five counties and 22 high schools. This was a high-tech event with members from the Secret Service and Homeland security in attendance. The Cyber Slam demonstrates the impact that Mason has on the community. Due to the growth in this area, there is a new cybersecurity graduate degree and will be working on a PhD program.
 - Other highly ranked Mason programs include but are not limited to a Part-Time Law Degree, Homeland Security and International Policy.
 - Some of Mason's offerings are receiving world and global recognition such as the Scalia Law School, which is ranked 28th worldwide.
 - Mason is the largest public research university in the Commonwealth.
 - Mason drives economic growth in the Commonwealth. 86% of a recent Mason graduating class went into their field of choice and into a position related to their career. The median salary for this group was $70K.
 - Mason is Meeting all of Governor Youngkin's and Secretary Guidera's goals for higher education with growth in degrees, enrollment and graduate success.

- Mason is Growing:
 - Mason grew during the pandemic.
 - Spring international enrollment is up 25%.
 - More than 16% of 2020 Virginia high school graduates applied to Mason.
- Financial Aid by Funding Source (See graph for specifics in the meeting materials.):
 - Considered when planning for each fiscal year.
 - State aid will increase by $27M in FY24. Excited for this additional aid.
 - State aid is increasing.
 - Aid provided by Mason is increasing at a faster rate than state aid.
 - Mason's aid is funded through tuition increases. About one-third of the proposed tuition increase would go toward financial aid, to help with accessibility and affordability.
 - Mason's portion of financial aid has quadrupled since 2013. In 2013 Mason funded about $26.2M in aid and in FY23 that amount was $102M.
- Average Total Aid Received, By Title IV Receipts, By Income Level:
 - The amount of financial aid that Mason provides, exceeds the cost of tuition and fees. The additional aid can assist with food, books and housing.
 - Last year $1M was added to Stay Mason Emergency Aid Fund. Continuing to infuse aid in this fund to help prevent financial challenges or crises for students which is currently around $3M.
 - The fall 2022 tuition credit and Stay Mason Student Support Fund were funded through the University's reserves, which is not a sustainable model.
- Commonwealth Budget Update:
 - Legislative budget delayed which impacts the ability to plan effectively for the upcoming year.
 - Submitted a funding disparity request of $18M from the state, which is pending.
 - Trying to increase salaries in order to keep critical faculty and staff which is funded in part by tuition increases. This past week a hiring delay was implemented to ensure that only critical vacancies are being filled to help manage Mason's bottom line.
 - If the funding requests are allocated, Mason would eliminate the FY24 in-state undergraduate tuition increase.
- Current Commonwealth Budget:
 - Current House Recommendations:
 - Maintained financial aid recommendation from last session for FY24: $27M for Mason.
 - Increased compensation from 5% to 7%. Mason's share of the increase is not yet determined.
 - Provided $75M ($6M for Mason) to keep tuition moderation at no more than 1%.
 - The Governor issued the following tuition statement on March 15, 2023, "Given the ongoing and uncertain outcome of the budget discussion, you should not rely on increased general funds to mitigate tuition increases. Your commitment last year to maintaining flat tuition made a difference for families. I'd like to set an expectation that our institutions will do everything possible to reduce costs, maximize efficiencies and minimize tuition increases for in-state students."
 - Increased Mason maintenance reserve by $895K for FY24 to $6.2M.
 - Senate Recommendations:
 - $1B more to appropriate than House due to tax cuts.
 - $15M for financial aid (on top of $27M previously approved for FY24)
 - $20M operating increase.
 - $8M for deferred maintenance.
 - 2% increase in compensation (bringing total to 7% on July 1)
 - Mason's Challenge:
 - Mason needs growth in state support, as costs are growing higher than CPI. There have been increases in contract service cost.
 - Funding Challenges:

- Mason funds the Virginia Military Survivors & Dependents Education Program, which is expected to be $8M a year.
- Tuition Recommendation, presented by René Stewart O’Neal, Vice President for Strategic Budgeting & Planning:
 - Proposing a flat $300 increase in tuition for all students regardless of student level or residency.
 - If Mason receives the funding request of $18M from the Commonwealth the tuition increase will be eliminated for in-state undergraduate students.
 - The two major revenue sources for Mason are tuition and state support. If one decreases the other must increase to cover rising costs.
 - Mason has the fifth lowest tuition of the six R1 universities in Virginia.
 - Mason has had two limited tuition increases over the last four years.
 - FY24 Budget:
 - A 5% to 7% state-authorized compensation increase is anticipated for FY24.
 - A 4% to 13% escalation in operating costs in contracts and services. Janitorial services contract costs have almost doubled in two years.
 - Core investments to be made in academic research and student support services.
 - Mason is providing a high-quality education and student experience to more Virginia residents at a lower price point with fewer overall resources than R1 Virginia peers. Mason is a great value, but it is increasingly challenging to leverage its resources to support institutional priorities. A tuition increase is necessary to have the resources to cover Mason’s core mission.
- How Tuition Supports Students:
 - The tuition increase will be invested in academic and student success initiatives for improved retention and graduation rates:
 - Coaching and advising resources.
 - Mental health and well-being services.
 - New academic programs.
 - Expanding regional campus services.
 - Increased on-campus student employment.
 - Critical faculty and staff hires to support enrollment.
 - Optimize research impact.
 - Expand partnership programs to enhance workforce development.
- Fee Recommendation, presented by Ms. Dickenson.
 - Recommending a 3% mandatory student fee increase that will be focused on many areas, one of which is student transportation.
- Proposed FY2024 Tuition & Fees
 - Flat $300 increase for all students.
 - 3% increase in mandatory student fees.
 - Tuition increase will be eliminated pending state approval of Mason’s broader funding requests.

Ms. Dickenson concluded her report and opened the floor for questions:

- Visitor Hazel inquired if the budget will be known at the May 4, 2023 Board of Visitors meeting. Paul Liberty, Vice President of Government and Community Relations, responded that the budget will not be known by May’s meeting.
- Visitor Hazel then inquired what individual board members can do on behalf of the university to support the state funding requests. Mr. Liberty stated that he is happy to share the names of the conferees in both the House and Senate for the purpose of contacting them to express interest in supporting Mason. Mr. Liberty advised discussing how to make Mason stronger moving forward and to not pick a House or Senate budget.
- Visitor Peterson inquired, other than janitorial, what other expenses significantly increased. Ms. Dickenson responded that all contract services increased such as dining, landscaping and repair services. The lowest increase that has been seen for the next year is four percent for a small contract. For large contracts such as electricity and utilities are all increasing at a pace of six to 13 percent.

- Visitor Iturregui noted that in September Mason was facing a $430M funding gap, $60M deficit and a compensation gap of $32M. Visitor Iturregui inquired if these figures remain the same or have they increased. Ms. Dickenson responded that all three areas will grow.

Rector Blackman thanked Ms. Dickenson and Ms. Stewart for their reports and relayed that there would be further discussion at May's meeting.

III. Public Comments

There were four registrations for oral public comment (ATTACHMENT 1) and no registrations for written public comment. Rector Blackman allotted two minutes for oral public comments. Rector Blackman called Jaelin Mitchell to the podium to provide his comment. Mr. Mitchell began speaking about Mason's spring 2023 commencement speaker. Rector Blackman paused the comment to relay that the purpose of this public comment period is related to tuition and fees, that he will allow comments on graduation after the comments on tuition and fees. Two oral comments were provided from students on tuition and eight students provided oral comments regarding the commencement speaker. Please refer to the meeting's video recording for specifics: <https://vimeo.com/showcase/8557205/video/812805095>.

I. Call to Order

Rector Blackman called this session to order at 12:37 p.m. Rector Blackman noted that the purpose of this session is to provide an additional opportunity to meet the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia's (SCHEV) continuing education requirement under § 23.1-1304. He stated that this continuing education session has been designed specifically for Mason's Board with the assistance of the Association of Governing Boards (AGB), and in consultation with SCHEV.

Rector Blackman introduced AGB representative, Dr. Paul Friga, adding that he will present on two topics and after each discussion will follow. Rector Blackman noted that he looked forward to robust conversation on these topics.

II. AGB Presentations and Discussion

Dr. Friga began by thanking the Board for inviting him back this year. He then provided information about himself for those that didn't attend last year's session; he is currently a Clinical Associate Professor of Strategy at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with 20 years of experience as a professor, researcher and consultant. He is writing a book on best strategies for higher education transformation and would like to feature Mason in a chapter, given the success Mason has had in this area. Dr. Friga recognized Rector Blackman for joining him as a special guest during a webinar he gave on March 28, 2023 for the AGB on Best Practices on Creating Strategic Board Retreats. The webinar had over 100 attendees from across the country. Dr. Friga stated that if anyone is interested in any of his articles, videos or presentations they are available on his website (<https://paulfriga.com/>).

A. The Role of the Strategic Board in Creating Realistic Expectations

- The Role of a Higher Education Board:
 - A good starting point would be to review AGB's guidance for effective boards.
 - Why are you here and what is your responsibility?
 - Noted that Mason has a great mission and president.
 - Support and periodically assess the performance of the chief executive and establish and review the executive's compensation.
 - Participate in the strategic plan process, approve the strategic plan and monitor its progress.
 - Ensure the institution's fiscal integrity, preserve and protect its assets for posterity, and engage directly in fundraising and philanthropy.
 - Ensuring the educational quality of the institution.
 - Academic freedom is becoming an increasingly important issue for boards.

- AGB released guidance to help governing boards be more effective:
 - Principles of Trusteeship:
 - Understand Governance:
 - Respect the difference between the board's role and the administration's role.
 - The board is fiscally responsible for the overall success of institution but is not an operating board. The board should not be involved in the execution of the strategic plan but should be involved in the creation of it and tracking the progress of it.
 - Think Strategically:
 - Focus on what matters most to the institution's long-term sustainability.
 - Discuss tough topics and offer advice that may lead to major initiatives and changes.
 - This is a long-term conversation of three plus years and not just next year's operating initiatives.
 - Understanding Governance:
 - Respect the difference between the board's role and the administration's role.
 - Fiduciary:
 - Honor the academic norm of shared governance, which includes the president, administration and faculty.
 - Team Member:
 - Be humble and respect your partners in governance and leadership.
 - Individual:
 - Provide advice and counsel but leave operational decisions to the administration.
 - Think Strategically:
 - Focus on what matters most to long-term sustainability:
 - Fiduciary:
 - Make decisions based on the strategy and vitality of the entire enterprise.
 - Team Member:
 - Help define what constitutes success for your institutions.
 - Individual:
 - Focus your personal and professional talents on significant strategic issues.
- Fiscal Forecasting:
 - Many institutions do not think in terms of multi-year fiscal forecasting. Mason does have multi-year fiscal forecasting.
 - The board should be looking out at least three years and have conversations about how will finances look in three years. These conversations should not just be the traditional balance budget at the high level but also think about the net operating margin and return on investment in specific areas.
- Clarify the Strategy and Differentiation for a Competitive Marketplace:
 - Such as the mission, vision, values and the top proposed priorities.
 - Have a short slogan that recalls where the university is, where the university is headed, what's important to the university and what are the big priorities for change.
 - The expectation of the board should be to understand the strategy as a starting point for having conversations.
- Translate Priorities into a Clear Implementation Plan:
 - The following framework was provided as an example: Under each priority there should be few objectives over the next three years and some key initiatives.

Continuing Education Session

Tuesday, April 4, 2023

Page 3

- Multi-Year Budgeting of Investments and Returns:
 - Multi-year budgeting of investments and returns are necessary for tracking strategic initiatives.
 - It's fair for the board to ask how much money is being placed in the priority areas and the expected revenues. This information should be simple and clear.
- Performance Dashboard:
 - A performance dashboard can help the board track the progress of a strategic plan.
 - It is within a board's scope to check the progress of the strategic plan. The minimum recommendation is checking the progress once a year or preferably twice a year or possibly quarterly.
- Scenario Planning:
 - COVID caused boards to be accustomed to scenario planning.
 - It is a reasonable expectation for the board to ask administration to be prepared should there be a shift in a usual process.
 - The level of state support could be an area of focus for Mason. Lobby and tell Mason's story about the per student support discrepancy.
- Discussing Key Strategy Initiative Ideas (Mega Checklist):
 - The board should be discussing key strategy initiative ideas with the cabinet.
 - Mason has a robust strategic plan.
 - The board does not create the strategic plan nor implement it but they can make suggestions and ask questions.
 - Items for consideration/examples of strategic initiatives for change.
 - Optimize Administrative Support:
 - Consolidate Purchasing
 - Outsourcing
 - Centralize/Shared Services
 - Increase Academic Program Returns:
 - Measuring ROI on academic programs
 - Increase Student Retention
 - Grow Resources:
 - Development Campaigns
 - Invest in Marketing and Advertising
 - Collaboration with Other Universities
- A look at Mason was provided. Significant conversation ensued on this topic.
 - Great Retention Rate
 - A fanatic story of growth
 - Reviewed data, highlighting the funding issues from the state
 - High-level look at financials
 - AGB Benchmarking – Inflation Adjusted Tuition
 - Administrative Cost per Student
 - Student Service Cost per Student
 - Admissions Metrics Comparison
 - Diversity Metrics Comparison
 - Graduation Rate Comparison

Dr. Friga concluded the presentation portion of his first segment and opened the floor for discussion and questions. Significant conversation ensued.

Rector Blackman called for a break and advised the continuing education session would reconvene at 2:05 p.m.

Rector Blackman reconvened the continuing education session at 2:10 p.m.

B. Sharpening the Board's Strategic Focus: Top Five Issue for Board Leadership

Dr. Friga began his second segment by highlighting the following items:

- Strategic Planning Framework Priorities for Higher Education:
 - Profitability (Long-Term Fiscal Responsibility):
 - Declining enrollments are on the horizon and is a top micro trend. There will be a 15% decline in college-going students over the next eight years (2025-2029). The decline impacts small to medium sized institutions the most.
 - Purpose (Mission, Values & Vision):
 - Changes in purpose for a higher education institution.
 - Products (Key Offerings for A Modern World):
 - What new products are being offered moving forward.
 - Will be a dramatically shifting landscape over the next decade. Such as, institutions are well beyond undergraduate degrees as the only offering.
 - Partnerships (With Companies, Government & Industry)
- Graduates & Enrollment:
 - Declining high school graduates and fighting for enrollments are big issues. There are fewer students available and fewer students opting out of higher education.
- Declining Enrollments Impact:
 - The impact of declining enrollments varies across the county.
 - Michigan saw the greatest decline in enrollments overall with at 16%.
- Graduation Rates:
 - One or two years of debt without a credential for a student is a terrible ROI.
 - Conversation took place on this topic.
- The public's trust in higher education has significantly eroded.
- While improving due to temporary government support, high education remains challenged.
 - S&P global ratings continue to be negative.
 - There are staffing issues.
- One-third of universities face an unsustainable financial future.
 - Significant conversation took place on this topic.
- Private and public institutions face financial deterioration at different rates.
 - Public universities are in worse shape due to decreasing state support.
 - Private institutions are faring better.
- In response to a survey:
 - The largest percentage of institutions felt they are in better financial shape now than in 2019, due to funding from the American Rescue Plan.
 - Conversely, the largest percentage of institutions felt they are in worse financial shape now than in 2019, due to reduced enrollment and the decline of tuition revenue.
 - Dr. Friga's opinion is that Mason's tuition is low and a great value.
 - Advised to over communicate Mason's discounted tuition rates.
- Seeing boards be more proactive with ad hoc committees that have more board discussions like this session.
- Mason is a modern, innovative university, that is about real-world impact.

Dr. Friga concluded the presentation portion of his second segment and opened the floor for discussion and questions. Significant conversation ensued.

THE RECTOR AND BOARD OF VISITORS OF GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY POLICY GOVERNING PARTICIPATION IN MEETINGS BY ELECTRONIC MEANS

It is the policy of the Board of Visitors of George Mason University (the "Board") that individual Board members may participate in meetings of the Board and its committees and subcommittees by electronic means as permitted by Virginia Code § 2.2-3708.3 and this Board policy.

This policy shall apply to the entire membership and without regard to the identity of the member requesting remote participation or the matters that will be considered or voted on at the meeting.

The Board shall indicate whether a meeting will be an in-person or all-virtual public meeting in the required meeting notice along with a statement notifying the public that the method by which the Board chooses to meet shall not be changed unless the Board provides a new meeting notice in accordance with the provisions of § 2.2-3707.

Individual Remote Participation

A member of the Board may attend a meeting by electronic means if such member is unable to attend a meeting of the Board in person due to (i) a temporary or permanent disability or other medical condition that prevents the member's physical attendance, (ii) a medical condition of the member's family requires the member to provide care that prevents the member's physical attendance, (iii) the member's principal residence is more than 60 miles from the meeting location identified in the required notice for such meeting, or (iv) a personal matter which the member identifies with specificity. The member must notify the Rector in advance of the meeting.

A member may not use remote participation due to personal matters more than two meetings per calendar year or 25 percent of the meetings held per calendar year rounded up to the next whole number, whichever is greater.

Individual participation from a remote location is subject to Board approval. The Board hereby delegates to the Rector the authority to approve or disapprove the participation of a Board member from a remote location. Such participation from a remote location may not violate this policy or the provisions of the Virginia Freedom of Information Act. If the Rector disapproves a member's remote participation because such participation would violate this policy, such disapproval shall be recorded in the minutes with specificity.

Whenever an individual member wishes to participate from a remote location, a quorum of the Board must be physically assembled at the primary or central meeting location, and there must be arrangements for the voice of the remote participant to be heard by all persons at the primary or central meeting location.

All-Virtual Meetings

"All-virtual public meeting" means a public meeting (i) using electronic communication means, (ii) during which all members of the Board who participate do so remotely rather than being assembled in one physical location, and (iii) to which public access is provided through electronic communication means.

The Board may hold an all-virtual public meeting upon the decision of the Rector or a majority of the Board membership. Public access to an all-virtual public meeting shall be provided via electronic communication means that allow the public to hear all members of the Board participating in the all-virtual public meeting and, when audio-visual technology is available, to see the members of the Board as well;

A phone number or other live contact information shall be provided to alert the Board if the audio or video transmission of the meeting provided by the public body fails, the public body monitors such designated means of communication during the meeting, and the public body takes a recess until public access is restored if the transmission fails for the public;

A copy of the proposed agenda and all agenda packets and, unless exempt, all materials furnished to members for a meeting shall be made available to the public in electronic format at the same time that such materials are provided to members;

The public shall be afforded the opportunity to comment through electronic means, including by way of written comments, at those public meetings when public comment is customarily received.

No more than two members of the Board shall be together in any one remote location unless that remote location is open to the public to physically access it;

If a closed session is held during an all-virtual public meeting, transmission of the meeting to the public resumes before the Board votes to certify the closed meeting as required by subsection D of § 2.2-3712;

The Board may not convene an all-virtual public meeting (i) more than two times per calendar year or 25 percent of the meetings held per calendar year rounded up to the next whole number, whichever is greater, or (ii) consecutively with another all-virtual public meeting.

Minutes of all-virtual public meetings held by electronic communication means are taken as required by § 2.2-3707 and include the fact that the meeting was held by electronic communication means and the type of electronic communication means by which the meeting was held. If a member's participation from a remote location pursuant to this subsection is disapproved because such participation would violate the policy adopted pursuant to subsection D, such disapproval shall be recorded in the minutes with specificity.

This policy was adopted by recorded vote this 29th day of September, 2022.

Career Plans Survey:

- Mason’s University Career Services and the Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Planning recently released results of the Career Plans Survey for Mason’s Class of 2022, which included both undergraduate and graduate students. The survey shows that Mason graduates have continued to be highly successful in the job market.
 - 87% of respondents (4,575 graduates) had a positive career outcome at or within six months of graduation. That is, they were employed, continued their education at graduate and/or professional levels, or were serving in the military or with a volunteer organization.

- The median salary reported for the Class of 2022 was $72,000, an increase from $70,000 for the Class of 2021.
- 89% of respondents indicated they had attained a position related to their career goals.
- 86% of respondents reported having a position in VA, DC, or MD. 68% are employed in Virginia with 90% of those in the Northern Virginia region.
- The most common employer industries in which recent graduates were employed are education, government/military, health care/pharmaceuticals/biotechnology, and technology.

Expand the impact of Mason's research, scholarship, and creative enterprise.

Grow Mason's research and creative portfolios

- Professors Lincoln Mullen and John Turner received a prestigious award from the National Endowment for the Humanities for "Mapping American Religious Ecologies: The 1926 U.S. Census of Religious Bodies." Their project, conducted through Mason's Roy Rosenzweig Center for History and New Media, engages dozens of faculty, staff, graduate students, and undergrad students immersing them in historical sources and ways of thinking about the past.
- Bioengineering professor Parag Chitnis is leading a team of Mason engineers and industry partner, Cephasonics Ultrasound, on a $3 million-funded project to build a new technology for personalized musculoskeletal injury rehabilitation to support troop readiness. This project was funded by the Medical Technology Enterprise Consortium (MTEC), for which IBI is a member. Membership to this consortium creates access to unique funding opportunities by faculty across disciplines at Mason.
- The Terrorism, Transnational Crime and Corruption Center (TraCCC) has received $9.9 million to establish a unique fellowship that will provide nationals from El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras critical tools to help strengthen democracy and fight corruption in their home countries. The Democracy and Anti-Corruption Defenders Fellowship, part of a multi-donor and multi-institutional effort that includes the U.S. government, will begin in the summer of 2023 and run through September 2025. Three cohorts of 20 fellows each will include those who have worked in either the public sector, independent media, and/or civil society in their respective countries.

Research Services

- The Office of Research Services, in collaboration with Fiscal Services, ITS, the Provost Office and the academic units, continues to lead a transformation of research administration at Mason. Significant milestones have been reached over the past few months:
 - The Grants and Agreements modules of the Research Administration Management Portal (RAMP) went live on July 11, 2022. This system is used by over half of the R1 universities. We are currently in the implementation phase of the Conflict of Interest module with a targeted go-live of May 2023. From there we will implement Safety, IRB, IACUC and Export Controls resulting in an integrated one-stop shop for Research Administration and Research Compliance technology at Mason when fully implemented.

Research Development Services

- On February 20, the Office of Research, Innovation, and Economic Impact posted the ORIEI Seed Funding Call for Proposals for the Build the Foundation (up to $50,000) and Take it to the Next Level ($100,000 + Tuition and Health Insurance for one doctoral GRA). We received a total of 51 applications (34 BTF/17 TNL) which will be reviewed by external expert reviewers.
- ORIEI assisted the Federal Government Relations (FGR) office to solicit and submit FY24 Congressionally Directed Spending/Community Projects to the Senate and Congressional Offices. Over 20 teams/faculty submitted internal applications reviewed by ORIEI and FGR. A total of 12 applications were submitted across the Senate and House.
- Working in collaboration with the Office of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, ORIEI announced and posed the second annual Anti-Racism and Inclusive Excellence (ARIE) Seed Funding opportunity. Proposals are due June 12, 2023. Seven projects across five colleges were funded from the 2022 ARIE Seed Funding.

Institutes

- Psychology professor Alison Jack received funding for a NIH center-level grant in collaboration with multiple universities, hospitals, and organizations including Yale University and Children's National Hospital. A post-doctoral fellow and '05 Mason alumna, Goldie A. McQuaid, also just received a 5-year NIH Career Development Award. Both will leverage Mason's MRI laboratory to understand and develop interventions for autism spectrum disorder (ASD).

- The Institute for Biohealth Innovation is currently acquiring and installing $8.5 million of new advanced research equipment in Mason's Regional Biocontainment Laboratory and Nanofabrication Lab. The new equipment was acquired with funding from awarded NIH NIAID and GO Virginia grants. The new equipment will expand the caliber of research that can be conducted by Mason faculty, staff, students and their partners.
- The Institute for Digital Innovation's AI Innovation symposium was a great success. More than 150 faculty from all units and colleges came together and outlined new transdisciplinary research agendas and communities of interest. Several follow-up activities went forward. We highlight among them the AI and Tech Policy Summer Institute on May 22-24, 2023, a three-day activity that brings together industry and startup leaders, federal government, think tanks, and Mason faculty on AI and Tech policy. The institute includes a bootcamp for Mason students on AI technologies and culminates with a networking event connecting Mason students with AI startups in the region.
- IDIA's Public-Private-Partnership (P3) Faculty Fellows Program was launched in March. The program is a direct example of how ORIEI is investing in Mason faculty. The program incentivizes faculty to partner with a company and work on a problem of joint interest with high societal impact and intellectual merit. The program attracted applications from faculty representing many different units and colleges, and a cohort of Fellows is expected to be announced in late May.
- The Institute for a Sustainable Earth, in partnership with Facilities, launched the Mason as a Living Lab program on April 12. This new program encourages and supports faculty and students to engage with Mason's campuses – including the built infrastructure and socio-environmental systems – to pose questions, experiment, gather data, monitor changes, and pilot novel solutions to a range of sustainability challenges. By drawing on our faculty's expertise and our students' creativity we can develop solutions to the grand challenges that impact our own community, demonstrate the effectiveness of these solutions here on our campuses, and then work to scale them into solutions for many other communities. The program will amplify existing efforts, support the launch of new projects, and serve to connect research interests with operational needs.
- The Institute for a Sustainable Earth also launched their Network Catalyst Grant program in February and will soon be announcing awards to two faculty teams. This program will provide support to faculty teams that wish to engage external partners in applied research opportunities in the areas of sustainability science and resilience aligned with UN Sustainable Development Goals. Awardees will receive funding and support services to catalyze a network of collaborators within and beyond Mason. One key outcome of the grant period will be the development of an extramural funding strategy that will sustain network activities and support putting research into action.

- The Institute for a Sustainable Earth will host a cohort of 12 Graduate Research Fellows this summer through its Sustainability Summer Fellowships for Graduate Research Partnerships program. This program provides financial support and professional development to graduate students who work with partner organizations on applied research projects. This opportunity is designed to connect Mason students with organizations making a positive impact on our world. Together, fellows and partner organizations co-design research and action priorities for the period of the fellowship, allowing students to gain valuable experience and organizational access that students can leverage in their dissertation or master's thesis work. Funding for the Fellows' stipends is provided by the Graduate Division.

Expand partnerships for economic and social impact.

Mason Enterprise:

- Bioengineering professors Remi Veneziano and Parag Chitnis and post-doctoral fellow Shrishti Singh were recently awarded a $75,000 Virginia Innovation Partnership Corporation (VIPPC) grant to support commercialization of a new biomedical technology (patent pending). The translational research project was conducted as part of Dr. Singh's PhD dissertation. The novel imaging technology will allow cancer to be visualized in deep tissue and hopefully enable earlier diagnosis. The Mason team worked with the Life Science Business Mentors in I-CAP program over the last year to position their technology for successful commercialization, and they were also recently accepted into the National I-Corps program.
- Mason Enterprise is the host to federal, state, and local programs that support entrepreneurs and small businesses. Last year's impact:
 - $3.36 billion
 - 40,000 hours of 1:1 counseling to 10,000 small businesses
 - 1,600 training programs for 30,000 attendees
 - 550+ companies incubated

- 61% of businesses served were woman-owned
 - 46% were minority-owned
 - 15% were veteran-owned
- Gizele Stolz, Mason's Director of Entrepreneurship and Innovation Programs, Mason Enterprise Center and The MIX received the Commonwealth Cyber Initiative (CCI) Impact award for her exceptional contributions in training and supporting Virginia startups and nascent ventures in the cybersecurity space.

Development/Advancement:

- To date, gifts to George Mason total $67.7 Million. Corporate giving stands at $9.2 Million.
- A new chapter in the Mason story began two weeks ago. On April 20, George Mason hosted a stellar event at the Ritz Carlton in Tysons Corner for a capacity crowd of 375 special donors, alumni, board leadership and elected officials. It was a night of distinction curated to launch our $1 Billion Comprehensive Campaign, which will support priorities throughout the entire University. These priorities include: student success, innovative initiatives, cutting edge research, community partnership and a sustainable future. The theme, Mason Now: Power the Possible was revealed and received thunderous applause. The event highlighted faculty, students, Deans and programs celebrating the depth and breadth of the accomplishments made possible by philanthropy provided to George Mason. That night, the largest naming gift in the University's history, from the Costello Trust in the amount of $51 Million was announced to those in attendance. This gift will be recognized with the naming of the School of Business which, pending SCHEV approval, will be the Donald G. Costello School of Business. Federal Government Relations Update:

- Met with Congresswoman Abigail Spanberger at the Potomac Science Center - escorted Congresswoman Abigail Spanberger through the Mason Potomac Science Center (PSC), where she was introduced to some of the leading researchers and educators that have made the PSC national-known for its many contributions to the preservation of the Chesapeake Bay Watershed. Redistricting put Woodbridge, including the PSC, in the 7th District, and the Congresswoman was eager to learn more about the facility. She toured the labs and engaged in conversations with research faculty, and graduate and undergraduate students regarding Potomac River restoration, local sustainability practices, K-12 outreach programs, tidal Potomac water quality, aquatic vegetation and aquatic resource management, fisheries ecology, non-indigenous species, coastal, riverine, and urban flooding, dynamics and hydrodynamics of manned and unmanned vessels. The Congresswoman was recently appointed to the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence and some of Mason's research in cybersecurity, artificial intelligence, autonomous systems, robotics, and advanced communications were discussed.
- Push for FBI Headquarters to Relocate to Virginia - Joined a group of Virginia government, education and community leaders at the General Services Administration in Washington, D.C. to promote the Commonwealth as the best site for the new FBI headquarters. Participants included Virginia Governor Glenn Youngkin, Senators Mark Warner and Tim Kaine, and Representatives. Gerry Connolly, and Don Beyer. Explained that George Mason University can provide the diverse talent the FBI needs for its future, citing several other ways that Mason would benefit the FBI relocating to Northern Virginia. Among them: three campuses near the proposed Springfield site and the FBI Academy at Marine Corps Base Quantico; nationally recognized academic programs that align with FBI interests, including cybersecurity; criminology, law and society, and forensic science; facilities such as the Forensic Science Research and Training Laboratory on the Science and Technology Campus; Mason faculty and adjuncts with FBI backgrounds; and, the Clearance Ready Program that helps Mason graduates prepare to obtain security clearances.
- Mason Submits FY24 Earmark Proposals - The Office of Research, Innovation, and Economic Impact and the Office of Government and Community Relations worked closely with the research faculty and leadership in several academic units to prepare and submit project proposals for FY24 earmarks, known as Congressionally-Directed Spending in the Senate and Community Projects in the House. A total of six proposals were submitted to Senators Kaine and Warner, and five to Representatives Connolly and Wexton. These Congressional offices will decide which proposals to submit to the Appropriations Committees for approval. The process is more challenging this year because of a reduction in the amount of funds available for earmarks, and because the House Appropriations Committee is not allowing any projects to be submitted in the areas of education, health and workforce training. While the Senate allows proposals in those areas, it is unclear whether the House will accept them. Over the past two years Mason has received approximately $13 million in earmarks.

- Small Business Development Centers Hill Outreach - Jody Keenan, Director of the Virginia Small Business Development Center (SBDC) program at Mason, and Paula Sorrell, Associate Vice President for Research conducted virtual meetings with 11 of 13 Virginia Congressional offices to discuss the accomplishments of the 27 Virginia SBDCs. They provided data on the economic impact the SBDCs are having in each Congressional district, as well as Statewide, and requested $150 million for the national SBDC program. They explained that Mason has the grant from the Small Business Administration to administer the program in Virginia. Funding for the program is based on a population formula for each state and Mason receives about 2.3 percent of the total appropriated.
- Mason Submits Comments on FAFSA - David Burge, Vice President for Enrollment Management, submitted comments to the Department of Education in response to the Departments' call for comments on the 2024-2025 Free Application for Federal Student Aid. After expressing strong support for the reduction in the number of questions contained on the FAFSA, Dr. Burge got to the heart of Mason's concern over whether a question regarding a "student's housing status needs to remain on future versions of the FAFSA." Vice President Burge maintained that Financial Aid Offices are tasked with constructing a Cost of Attendance (CoA), and the new 2024-25 rules are beginning to dictate what has to be included in the CoA. Elimination of the housing question, according to Dr. Burge, makes it next to impossible for a financial aid office to construct a Cost of Attendance accurately. Dr. Burge explained that without that information, one of two things will happen. Schools will either come up with an "average" which will produce a CoA that is too high for some, possibly resulting in students borrowing more money than they need, or not high enough for others. Schools then might have to request that students submit housing information separately which will nullify the simplification process and result in delays of awards to students. Dr. Burge asked the Department to reconsider the removal of this necessary question from the FAFSA.
- Senator Warner's State Director Visits Mason – Senator Mark Warner's State Director visited Mason's Fairfax Campus and was briefed on some of the research and education programs that relate to the Senator's legislative interests as Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. Part of the discussion focused on Mason's new nanofabrication training facility on the Science and Technology Campus, resulting from a $2.5 million Go Virginia award in 2022. Senator Warner wrote a letter of support for Mason's proposal. The facility is the only "clean room" facility to support a "hands-on" educational workforce development program for this growing industry in Northern Virginia. Mason's nanofabrication facility will graduate 180 students per year from the program. The school will teach 10 new nanofabrication classes and modify 18 others to fit into the program. The Senator has been a leader in legislative efforts to increase semiconductor production and related research activities in the United States. He was one of the lead sponsors of the CHIPS and Science Act.

- President Washington Visits Capitol Hill - Mason President Greg Washington visited with Members of Congress and their staffs from Virginia last week, including the offices of Senators Warner and Kaine, and Representatives Cline, Spanberger, Wittman, Scott, Kiggans, and Wexton. He discussed some of Mason's important programmatic appropriations including MUDLAN and NITRO, and several earmark requests. This is the first full round of Congressional visits that Dr. Washington was able to make due to Covid-related restrictions since 2020.

State Government Relations Update:

- March SCHEV Meeting: The State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV) convened at Radford University for their March Council meetings. Both the Resources and Planning and Academic Affairs subcommittees met, followed by the full council meeting. The meeting topics ranged from six-year planning process updates, academic program approvals, enrollment trends, and a 2023 General Assembly legislative update. Committee members also received an update on the Virginia Plan for Higher Education. See agenda [here.]
- GPAC/COP Meeting: The General Professional Advisory Committee (GPAC) met in late February and again in late March, both meetings received presentations by Secretary of Education Aimee Guidera and her team. Both meetings provided updates and timelines for the submission of institution's six-year plans as well as broader discussions on tuition increases and state funding levels. The Council of Presidents (COP) met immediately following the GPAC meeting, focusing on Tech Talent investment project updates, budget updates, and the change of COP leadership which is scheduled to take place this summer.
- Executive Vice President of Finance and Administration Richmond Meetings: Deb Dickenson, Executive Vice President for Finance and Administration spent two days in Richmond in late March to continue advancing Mason's policy and budget priorities to state leadership. Key legislative budget staff, planning and budget agency staff and administration officials met with the Mason team to cover ongoing planning and the FY24 budget outlook.

- Higher Education Mental Health Forum: The Youngkin Administration hosted a full-day forum at the College of William and Mary on March 29 to highlight policy and programming for mental health support at Virginia colleges and universities. Mason's leaders in mental health and student support were invited to attend as a "campus team" to engage with other institutions' administration officials and practitioners to identify areas for partnership, investment, and to share best practices to create sustainable solutions to mental health and wellness challenges.
- State Budget Update: During the 2022 legislative session, the General Assembly approved and the Governor signed into law a two-year budget for state agencies and institutions of higher education. While the 2023 session of the General Assembly adjourned Sine Die in late February, the budget conferees have continued to work on a compromise budget bill. The Senate and House proposals have roughly a one billion dollars discrepancy, with much of the funding discussions focused on tax refunds and directed funding. The existing two-year budget, with minor adjustments which were approved in late February, is referred to as the "skinny" or "mini budget" and is a stop-gap measure to ensure programs are funded as the final package comes together in the coming months. With Legislators back in Richmond for the April 12 Reconvened Session, there have been indications that the budget process will not conclude before the June 20 primaries to prevent impacting any General Assembly primary race. Mason staff will continue to monitor the budget progress, with the expectation that a final agreement is announced in late June or early July.
- 2023 Reconvened "Veto" Session: The Virginia General Assembly returned to Richmond for the 2023 Reconvened "Veto" Session on April 12 to act on the Governor's recommendations. The Reconvened Session lasted one day with no new legislation considered. Out of the 819 bills that the Governor reviewed, he signed 738 bills and vetoed three. The remaining 78 bills, including the "skinny budget," were returned to the General Assembly with recommendations from the Governor. With the adjournment of the Reconvened Session the 2023 General Assembly Regular Session has officially adjourned. All legislation from the 2023 Session will go into effect on July 1, 2023, unless the legislation stated otherwise.

- November Elections: All 140 members of the Virginia General Assembly are up for election in November 2023 in the newly redrawn districts based on the 2021 redistricting process. The Virginia Supreme Court authored plan resulted in half of the 140 state legislators being placed in the same districts, many with members of the same political party. This created an unprecedented number of open seats and left many incumbents with the choice of moving to another district, retiring, or competing against a fellow legislator in a primary or general election. In recent weeks, a number of legislators have announced they will not seek reelection this fall. It is expected that most of them will finish their current term.
 - 11 Members of the Senate will not seek re-election, including former Senator Jennifer McClellan who was elected in February to fill the vacant congressional seat created upon the death of Congressman Donald McEachin (D-VA-4).
 - 17 members of the House of Delegates will not seek re-election, including former Delegate Lamont Bagby who was elected in March to fill the vacant Senate seat created when now Congresswoman McClellan resigned after being elected to Congress.
 - 13 members of the House of Delegates will not seek re-election in the House, and instead will run for the Senate (some of these are challenging Senators while others are running against another Delegate for a Senate seat).
 - Due to the number of retirements and elections announced this year to date, the 2024 Session will have at least 12 new Senators (out of 40) and 31 new Delegates (out of 100). By comparison after the 2011 redistricting, the net turnover was 7 new Senate members and 20 new House members.
- Looking Forward
 - May 15-16: SCHEV
 - May 16: Senate Finance Committee Meeting

Invest in faculty and staff success.

- Performance Management: The timeline for evaluations changed and aligned for faculty and staff. The new timeline April 1 to March 31. This necessitated a kickoff of the updated and improved performance management process which included an updated form, manager and employee trainings, and new ratings. All of these improvements have been helpful to build a strong foundation on which we will be able to implement a pay-for-performance model allowing recognition of employee contributions and excellence. Going forward we will be providing continued training around goal setting, feedback and coaching conversations, and a rubric to help support faculty and staff in the process.

- Employee Learning and Training: The Organizational Development and Learning team continues to curate a library of trainings that support skill building and professional development, as well as offer instructor-led trainings that support manager/leadership development so that we are able to cultivate and retain our talent.
